Fears Of Netherlands Aggression Now Proved Justified

ALLIED AID IF LOWLANDS ARE INVADED

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
LONDON, Nov. 16 (UP).—"Developments during the past fortnight have appreciably strengthened the position of the Allies," said Sir John Simon, who deputised for the Premier in the House of Commons to-day.

"This is particularly the case with reference to American legislation, which has restored to us the right to purchase the abundant supplies the United States is able to offer."

Speaking on behalf of both Britain and France, Sir John repudiated responsibility for the breakdown of the Belgo-Dutch peace efforts.

He also revealed that fears regarding the purpose of the concentration of German troops on the Dutch and Belgian frontiers had some justification.

"There have been press attacks against Holland and Belgium similar to those which preceded invasions of other countries by Germany."

Finland And Russia

Sir John confirmed that there had been a virtual breakdown in the negotiations between Finland and Soviet Russia—a situation he described as "less satisfactory."

The Finns, however, emphasised that there had been no irreparable rupture.

In the Premier's weekly war review it was announced that four German ships were captured last week, two of them being scuttled. Most German merchantmen were being forced to remain in port "while on the contrary British ships continue to move in increasing numbers."

Also it said it is hoped to take early steps for consultation with the French Government to organise a self-contained Polish military force for service in France.

French troops, said the Home Secretary, have repulsed a number of minor German attacks on the Western Front during the past week.

He described the Belgo-Dutch appeal as "a bold intervention in the cause of peace."

Sir Archibald Sinclair, the liberal leader, said that the Belgo-Dutch effort had destroyed the argument that war was forced upon Hitler.

"It is now clear that Hitler is continuing the war to fasten the yoke more firmly on the Czechs and Poles," he said.

Must Support The Lowlands

He maintained that the British Government must be ready to support Belgium and Holland if they were attacked.

"The Government would never be forgiven if these countries were made victims of aggression without effective help from us," he asserted.

The Opposition leader, Mr. Clement Attlee, expressed regret that Hitler had "summarily rejected" the Belgo-Dutch appeal.

"We shall all join in the hope that these peaceful peoples will not be drawn into the war," he said.

At the same time Mr. Attlee criticised the Government's failure to clearly state its war aims.

"The world wants to know exactly what we are fighting for," he declared.

Re-organising The Poles

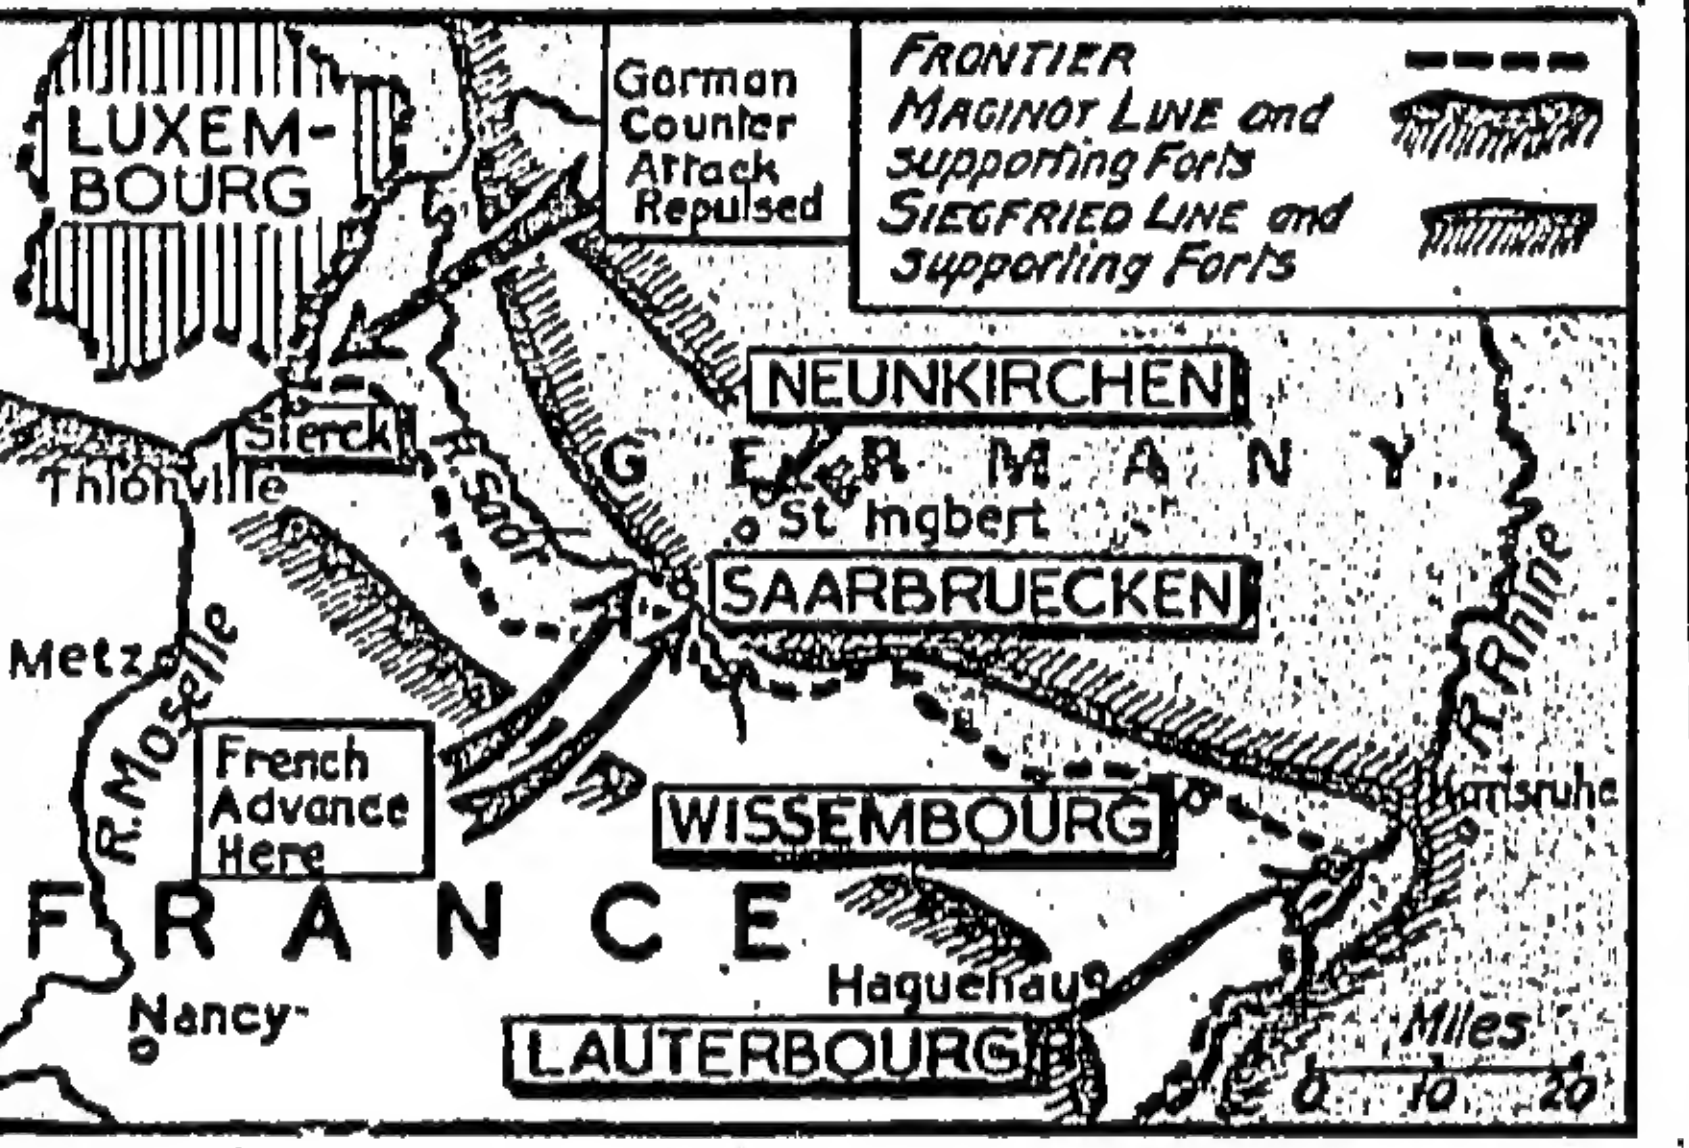

LONDON, Nov. 16 (Reuters).—Continuing the Prime Minister's weekly statement (the first part of which is published on Page 5), which he read in the House of Commons to-day in Mr. Chamberlain's absence, Sir John Simon, in welcoming General Sikorski's visit to London, hoped that it would soon be possible to organise self-contained Polish forces in France.

Referring to M. Paul Reynaud's visit, Sir John read a long extract from yesterday's communiqué regarding the necessity for close and continuous Anglo-French financial and economic co-operation.

Discussions with the representatives of the Dominions and India dealt with all aspects of the war and covered the questions of defence, foreign policy problems of supply and

LAMBS BORN WITH HUMAN HEADS

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
SANTIAGO DEL ESTERO, Argentine, Nov. 16 (UP).—It is reported that five sheep in the village of Garza have given birth to five lambs with human heads.

So far there is no authoritative confirmation of the report.

AL CAPONE RELEASED Notorious Gang Leader Is Free

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (UP).—Garbed in a cheap suit of clothing which is given to all discharged prisoners, Al Capone, broken in health and tortured by mental aberrations, emerged from prison to-day.

His demeanour is in curious contrast to his bravado during the Prohibition era, when he paid huge sums for silk shirts and underwear, and dominated the Chicago underworld.

Capone was secretly transported by train from California last Sunday after serving 7½ years of an 11-year sentence.

He was turned over to relatives who, accompanied by three Federal agents, departed for a private institution in the vicinity of Philadelphia.

Capone in Hospital

BALTIMORE, Nov. 16 (UP).—Al Capone was brought to the Union Memorial Hospital at 11 a.m.

He was registered as a private patient, and placed in the medical wing of the hospital.

He also saw two life-boats on a beach, surrounded by a number of men presumed to be the crew.

The pilot dropped a message to the Administrative Post and later saw people leave in the direction of the ship.

NAZI AIMS REVEALED

To Destroy British World Supremacy

LONDON, Nov. 16 (Reuters).—Germany has decided to fight until British supremacy in the world is destroyed, an "authoritative source in Berlin" is reported to have said in an interview with an American correspondent.

It is no longer a question of German peace promises, declared the Nazi pundit.

The question might be raised in Paris or London, but not Berlin.

Why Attack Is Delayed

"Explaining" why Germany is not attacking at the moment, the speaker said that the world suspected that Germany must attack to keep up the morale of the German people.

It is suggested that Germany must attack in the south-east because Herr von Ribbentrop needs successes to place before Hitler.

This is not true, Germany is not afraid to attack, but her military will choose the time and will not be goaded into it.

SPITFIRES SUPERIOR

Nazi Warplanes Are Outclassed In Air

LONDON, Nov. 16 (Reuters).—A special commentary issued to-day states that the superiority of the British fighter Spitfire over the German standard single-seater fighter Messerschmitt 109 is well-established by the actions on the Western Front.

Confirming pre-war reports of Norwegian, Swiss and Spanish pilots, the Messerschmitt, though extremely fast, lacks ability to manoeuvre and stalls very easily.

The defect was displayed in numerous combats in which the Messerschmitt was outclassed by the French Curtiss as well as the Spitfire.

Victorious Dogfights

As an example, it is pointed out that in the two dogfights on November 6, each between nine Messerschmitts and seven Curtiss, the net result was that four Messerschmitts in all were destroyed. There were no French losses.

The effect of the consciousness of inferior manoeuvrability on the pilot is not to be underestimated.

Regarding the inability to stall, there is good reason to believe that German pilots are afraid to fly Messerschmitts at night. It is certain that very few have in fact flown at night.

The Spitfire, by contrast, is satisfactory in every way.

Any type of German bomber coming within effective range of eight machine guns stands little chance of survival.

Democracies & Dictatorships

Roosevelt Points The Difference

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (Reuters).—When laying the cornerstone of the Thomas Jefferson Memorial, President Roosevelt spoke of the difference between the democracies and what he called the "rule of a self-chosen individual."

Jefferson, he said, had lived, as we lived to-day, in the middle of a struggle between the rule of a self-chosen individual and the rule by franchise and the approval of many.

The United States was satisfied with a Republican form of Government based on regular recurring opportunities for the citizens to choose their leaders for themselves.

NEW DELHI, Nov. 16 (Reuters).—In a skirmish near Rajmukh, Waziristan, three British soldiers and a Gurkha officer were killed, and ten British soldiers and two Gurkhas were wounded.

Japanese Forces In South Near Border of Kwangsi

A Happy Reunion

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
ON THE NORTH SHORE OF TONGKING BAY, Nov. 17 (Domei).—Pushing inland through western Kwangtung, Japanese forces yesterday evening reached the outskirts of Yamhsien, about 30 miles from the seaboard and 46 miles northwest of Pakhoi.

They are now near the Kwangtung-Kwangsi border.

It is now revealed that the surprise landing by the Japanese forces near Pakhoi was made at a time when the wind was blowing at monsoonal velocity.

A war office spokesman pointed out that wind of such velocity is really of hurricane strength and is strong enough to shake the roots of big trees.

To effect a military landing under such conditions has no parallel in the annals of war, he claimed.

Information received here shows that the boats carrying the Japanese troops were buffeted by the waves so severely that from time to time they appeared as if they would be swamped.

"The difficulty and danger of heavily armed soldiers clambering down rope ladders from transports into small boats during such heavy

Poland To Fight Back

Says Gen. Sikorski In London Speech

LONDON, Nov. 16 (Reuters).—General Sikorski, the Polish Premier, spoke at the Foreign Press Association luncheon to-day.

He said that the turning point in history had been reached. Mankind must choose between the two forms of collective existence now fighting for supremacy.

One found expression in the British commonwealth of nations, the French empire and the United States, and the other was seen in the occupation of Austria, Czechoslovakia and the double invasion of Poland.

Poland's Choice

Poland and her people, like their new government, had made their choice.

Every Pole knew that a free Poland could exist only in a free and united Europe.

He referred to the co-operation of Polish destroyers with the British Navy, and declared that the Polish air force and army would be ready within a few months to play their part at the side of the Allied forces.

Guerilla Warfare

LONDON, Nov. 16 (Reuters).—The diplomatic correspondent of the "Manchester Guardian" reports continuation of revolts in Poland, where he says, the Poles are waging a continuous and effective guerilla warfare.

Fierce attacks are launched against the Germans at night by hidden Poles, who remain under cover in the daytime.

At night they attack German soldiers and officers.

At one time they left the bodies in the streets, but the Germans retaliated by taking reprisals against those in the neighbouring houses. To-day, the bodies of the victims are taken away and concealed.

In the Carpathians in particular the Poles have a genius for conspiratorial and revolutionary work.

The national spirit of Poland is unbroken and the German army and storm troops suffer considerable casualties. German soldiers dare not go out alone even in the daytime.

DARDANUS RELEASED

Japanese Apologise For Detention

LONDON, Nov. 16 (Reuters).—The Imperial Airways liner Dardanus was handed over to the British Consul General in Canton yesterday, announced Mr. R. A. Butler, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, answering a question in the House of Commons.

The Japanese authorities in Canton had apologised for their detention of the plane.

Arrangements were now being made to repair the aeroplane at Weihow Island, after which it would be returned to Imperial Airways, Mr. Butler added.

Sir Robert Craigie, the British Ambassador to Tokyo, had made representations to the Japanese Government, and arrangements for an amicable settlement were now progressing.

U.S. ARMAMENTS FOR ALLIES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (Reuters).—The State Department does not confirm reports that British and French orders of American armaments are held up pending the legal interpretation of the "Cash and Carry" clause.

What actually happened was that certain Californian plane manufacturers were told that they would have to show that the transactions really observed the clause before they would be allowed to make shipments.

possible in Britain. It gave them practice, too, in flying over unknown territory. And it showed that in the R.A.F. Britain had a mighty force of trained men and superb machines.

Air Chief Marshal Sir Cyril Newall has recreated the R.A.F. He has cut down drill and concentrated on flying. He has refused to tolerate any ostentation.

"Low flying is seldom necessary. And then it is to be carried out under specific orders," he has said, following it with the warning, "Showing off entails a considerable risk of valuable machines and the money and care that have gone to the training of a pilot. I will not have it."

HIS influence is not confined to Britain. France began to speed up her plane production in 1938. Sir Cyril kept in close and constant touch with the French authorities.

It is owing to this co-operation and the unstinting energy and enthusiasm of the French that the Allied Air Arm works and fights as one machine.

CONVICT SENT FROM PRISON TO BE WITH DYING MOTHER

A MOTHER became seriously ill at her home in Battersea, S.W., and cried because she could not see her son—a convict in Dartmoor Prison.

As she lay there, alone, the bedroom door opened and her son came to her bedside, smiling.

In the passage outside two warders waited quietly, while the son told his mother that he had been freed.

When the son left, he joined the two warders, outside, and they returned for the night to a London prison.

Recently the son, back in Dartmoor, wrote a letter of thanks to Sir Samuel Hoare, who arranged the visit—one of his last acts as Home Secretary.

PINING

And this is how mother and son came to meet again. Some days ago the chaplain at Dartmoor Prison received a letter saying that the mother—her life now being counted in weeks—pined for her convict son.

It said:—"If she can see him again, for no matter how short a time, she will die less unhappily."

The chaplain saw the convict in his cell. Together they wrote a petition to Sir Samuel Hoare, then Home Secretary, asking for temporary liberty.

An overnight telegram from Sir Samuel said "Yes."

The two warders took the convict to a London jail after all three had dressed in civilian clothes.

The son saw his mother twice again before she died. She never knew the warders waited outside, and died believing her son was free.

Of this act of mercy all that the Home Office said was:—"Such incidents are not uncommon. One question only is asked when petitions of this nature are received—Is it genuine?"

Now it is for Sir John Anderson, the new Home Secretary, to consider another request from the son—that he may be freed in time to join up and fight for Britain.

CHURCHES NAZIFIED IN REICH

BERLIN.

IT is officially disclosed that Roman Catholic and Protestant churches had been placed under wartime restrictions.

Spokesmen say the measures were made necessary by the war and do not constitute an attempt to interfere with the church.

Under the restrictions the number of Roman Catholic church publications, such as diocesan, organs and natural scientific and religious research publications, will be limited to five. This was attributed to rationing of paper.

Some churches have been closed. These are in outlying sections and it was explained worshippers there could not reach bomb shelters in time in case of emergency.

Work was reported continuing as usual at Fallersleben, seat of Germany's huge "People's Car" industry. With the rationing of gasoline, however, most workers have been unable to operate automobiles.

Similarly, it was said that construction was uninterrupted on the huge workers' resort being built to accommodate 20,000 on Rugen Island, off the north coast of Germany.

The labour front announced the teaching of apprentices "was being speeded. It was said Germany feels a shortage of skilled workers."

sounds became louder again, then more deep charges—close, frightfully close.

That second attack put out lights, shattered delicate instruments, and caused worse flooding. Very soon the U-boat's stern was full of water, which came spurting in the pipes and rivet holes in the bulkhead. She developed a heavy list. More water started to seep into the interior through the damaged conning tower.

The compressed air was leaking. There was only enough pressure left to blow the tanks and come to the surface and give the crew a chance for their lives, which the commander decided to do.

THE rest of the story has been told. Shortly after the rescue of her crew that submarine flung her bows vertically into the air, and sank stern first in a flutter of whitened water and an over-widening patch of iridescent oil spreading over the surface of the sea.

Frantic Nazi Efforts To Buy In Balkans

Private reports from Balkan capitals reveal that Germany's frantic efforts to increase her purchases there have largely failed.

She has imported nearly all her promised quota of petrol and grain until the summer of 1940, and Balkan Governments are asking for cash, as Germany is not manufacturing enough goods for barter.

Italy is cashing in on this and, with her manufacturing plants working day and night, has increased her barter trade 30 per cent.

HOW TO SHORTEN CONVALESCENCE

A long convalescence is tedious and tiring to both doctor and patient. After many operations and illnesses, digestion is affected and impaired, yet it is necessary to eat well to regain your strength quickly.

The trouble is that the very thought of food is often repulsive. Doctors have found that Horlicks is generally liked by the patient and that it is very quickly digested, and absorbed. Horlicks quickly pours new strength and vigour into your exhausted body. Your convalescence is shortened. Soon you feel full of life again. Keep Horlicks always ready at home.

Peace vs. Appeasement

The persistence with which the world clings to hopes of peace is cause for deep gratitude. So long as clear distinctions are made between genuine peace and a mere absence
of war which leaves the evils that cause war more rampant than ever
this demand will work for good.
The plea for a clearer definition of war aims may be difficult for Britain
and France to answer in detail at this time, but in the end the democratic effort to understand what the war is about will clarify the situation. And the clearer it becomes the stronger will be the position of every right purpose.

Individuals and nations have nothing to fear from letting the truth
come out. Suggestions of a false peace fill the air. And some earnest people who think anything called peace is better than anything called war are accepting them at face value.
Some unconsciously are permitting
fear of physical destruction or a false humanitarianism to loom larger than moral values. Others for better reasons may echo the Moscow paper
"Izvestia," which a few weeks ago
was glossing over the start of war
now emphasizes "senseless slaughter"
and declares: "Continuation of the war cannot be justified by anything."

In England there are voices urging
a clarification of national purposes.
Reconstituting Poland without defeating Russia looks difficult. And some say that winning a long war against Hitlerism might bring a peace
dominated by Communism, or result in a general deterioration of European civilisation worse than an undefined
expansion of Germany.

In neutral countries there is a great body of thought which believes that war would be worth while only for the establishment of a new world order. This opinion will be won only by something more than a negative statement of war aims. It would respond to the idealism of peace aims which looked beyond any national or racial advantage to a more just and peaceful world. British-French liberalism can make this appeal to most neutral opinion far better than can Russian Communism or German nationalism.

On the whole, thought which clings to peace expresses the best and largest hopes of mankind. And clarification of the issues involved in the present struggle, particularly if France and Britain enunciate peace aims with real hope in them, will strengthen not only their peoples, but win a hearing among many Germans, and appeal to the aspirations of neutrals and those in every country
who seek peace with sure foundations.
In the main the difference between appeasement and peace is understood.
And there is every reason to expect that the fullest discussion of peace
aims will make it clearer—Christian

GOERING: "I always said we ought to have brought a 'dove.'"

IN THE AIR

AIR CHIEF MARSHAL

Sir Cyril Louis Norton Newall is the supreme head of the Royal Air Force. It is a fitting command for him, for he was one of the first men in Britain to realise the fighting potentialities of the aeroplane.

He is the son of an Army colonel. Born in India fifty-three years ago, he decided to make the Army his career. He went to Sandhurst and joined an infantry regiment in 1905.

Shortly afterwards he was transferred to the Indian Army. Life seemed mapped out for him.

But in 1911 he came home to England on furlough. There he saw something that changed his life. He saw a strange contraption of metal, wire, and canvas that men christened an aeroplane. At once some kind of revolution took place in his mind. He cancelled all his social engagements and spent every day of his furlough taking flying lessons. Before he went back to India he had qualified as a pilot.

He talked earnestly to the authorities in India and persuaded them to put him in charge of the formation of a flying school.

In 1914, when war broke out, he joined the Royal Flying Corps with the rank of flight commander and went to France with No. 1 Squadron. In 1915 he formed No. 12 Squadron and later commanded it in France.

In 1917 Sir Cyril was appointed to command the 41st (Bombing) Wing, which was formed near Nancy in order to carry out bombing operations against German objectives as a counter-offensive to the air-raids on London. This Wing was the forerunner of the independent Air Force, created by Lord Trenchard in 1918. He commanded the 8th Brigade of this new Force.

His courage was proved time and time again during the war. He was mentioned three times in dispatches.

In 1916 he was awarded the Albert Medal for an act of conspicuous bravery. A fire broke out in a Royal Flying Corps store. In the store were 2,000 high explosive bombs. If the flames reached them, there would be an explosion causing enormous loss of life and property. Sir Cyril, then a young officer, called for volunteers and led them inside the blazing store. They worked amid the flames and smoke for nearly half an hour before subduing the blaze, knowing that at any moment the fire might reach the bombs.

AFTER the war he served as Chief Staff Officer in the South Eastern Area. He was Air Aide-de-Camp to King George V during 1923-24 and after promotion to the rank of Air Commodore in January, 1925, he was appointed Air Officer Commanding, Headquarters, Special Reserve, and Auxiliary Air Force.

He was promoted to the rank of Air Vice-Marshal and made an additional member of the Air Council in 1930, and in 1935 was given the rank of Air Marshal. Since 1937, he has been Chief of Air Staff, the supreme head of the Air Arm.

But success and high command have not blunted his imagination. He will always listen to new ideas and accept them if they have useful possibilities.

IT was under his command that the silver-grey barrage balloons rose in the London sky. He separated the two departments of maintenance and fighting to allow the active service officers to concentrate on the job of ensuring the military efficiency of their units.

He organised the pre-war flights of the R.A.F. over France, a brilliant manoeuvre with a triple purpose.

It gave pilots practice in long-range flights that were im-

ON THE SEA

How the Navy Works at Sea

The following account of a recent successful U-Boat hunt, compiled from the account of an eye-witness, is issued by the Admiralty.

DESTROYERS were at sea on an independent search for submarines in northern waters.

The weather was typical, with a shrewd wind from the north-north-west causing the tops of the little seas to break, and a cross swell from another direction.

The sky was grey and overcast, with occasional squalls of rain blotting out the horizon and shutting down the visibility to about seven miles.

Reports received announced that an enemy submarine had been located some distance to the southward. Within a few minutes they were steaming in the direction indicated at something over thirty knots.

It took them some hours to reach the reported position; but arriving, they slowed down and started to quarter the sea according to the prearranged plan. Their guns were manned, and depth charges ready. Extra lookouts were on the bridge, and the ships' companies keyed up to the idea of action. They all knew what was in the wind.

Though it was afternoon, and those who had kept night watches might reasonably have been asleep, there were few men on the messdecks.

THE search continued. For some time nothing happened. Then, quite suddenly, a flag hoisted by one of the destroyers indicated that the hunt had been picked up. The deadly Asdics were at work. The remorseless hunt began.

Depth-charge after depth-charge was dropped or projected from the throwers—not haphazard, but according to schemes invented and tried out long before the war.

The thudding detonations of those massive canisters about the size of ordinary dustbins seemed to squeeze the air, and caused the sea momentarily to shimmer as if beaten by heavy rain.

Explosing at various depths below water, they shook the ships from which they were projected, and raised huge mushroom-shaped hummocks of white water which burst upwards in great spouts of spray tinged grey by the high explosive.

Ane explosion was heard and there came the inevitable suspense as to whether the attack had been successful. Many eyes searched the sea for the signs of a submarine breaking surface, or oil or wreckage floating up from the depths. But for the time nothing appeared.

COLLECTING his destroyers, the senior officer ordered another attack. Once more the depth-charges were dropped according to plan—this time with success.

About half-a-mile astern of one of the destroyers the conning tower and long hull of a submarine suddenly broke surface bow first in a swirl of water. The U-boat's stern was still under water when her conning lower lid opened, and men started to tumble up on deck. She might have a sting left. Nobody was to know if she intended to surrender, and risks could not be taken.

But it was a case of surrender. Some of the U-boat's crew could be seen to be leaping overboard. Others were holding up their hands. Her bows started to lift as the stern slowly went under.

Destroyers approached, stopped, and went astern to check their way. Boats were lowered. They rescued the entire crew, some from the water, some from the submarine herself. They were described as youngish men and bearded, some still self-possessed; but others obviously shaken by their ordeal. They were well cared for by their rescuers, who gave them Navy rum and warm clothing.

THOSE U-boat men described what had happened inside the submarine—first the sound of the hunting, destroyers' propellers becoming louder and louder; then the thudding detonation of the first depth-charges, coming closer all the time.

The first attack caused serious damage to their submarine and made her leak. There came a short respite, during which the propeller sounds could be heard receding, and left men wondering whether the hunters had given up the chase.

VAIN HOPE! Unseen impalpable fingers were soon groping again beneath our waters. The propeller—PLEASE Turn To Page 3.

Steamer Chased By U-Boat.

PANAMA, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—How the British liner Mataroa, 12,300 tons, en route from England to New Zealand, succeeded in escaping a U-boat after a 50-minute chase was told on her arrival here.

The submarine was sighted when she came to the surface two and a half miles off. The Mataroa's Captain immediately swung the ship round, putting the U-boat astern, and ordered full steam ahead. The chase lasted until the submarine was left seven miles behind when she gave up.

The Mataroa was armed for defence, but the Captain said he was under orders not to fire unless attacked.

FINLAND'S FINANCES

Strong Enough To Bear Crisis Costs

HELSINGFORS, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—Another refutation of the Soviet claims that Finland cannot long bear the cost of her mobilisation was given in a statement issued to-day by the governor of the Bank of Finland.

Reports of Finnish inflation were quite untrue, said the Governor. Finland had not borrowed a single penny from the Bank of Finland.

Finland could go on producing enough to fulfil her own requirements and at the same time maintain her exports.

Splendid Export Trade

To-day her export trade was 90 per cent. of its pre-war level.

Finland's greatest advantages were her unlimited credit and goodwill in the world.

On the previous evening, M. Paasikivi, the special Finnish envoy to the Moscow talks, had revealed that Finland's trade with Soviet Russia depended only to the extent of two per cent. of the total.

Press Attacks Continue

MOSCOW, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—The Moscow Press and wireless continue their attacks on Finland.

A few hours after the Finnish delegation had returned to Helsinki, the Moscow wireless accused Finland's rulers of adopting an anti-Soviet attitude with Britain's support.

The Moscow Press alleges that the Finnish army and press have been instructed to incite the Russians.

Italy Biding Her Time

Will Oppose Soviet Expansion

ROME, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—Italy will remain in a state of armed peace until her legitimate interests are respected and can be satisfied, states the newspaper "Tribuna," in explaining Signor Mussolini's speech at the opening of the academic year of Italian universities yesterday.

The "Gazzetta del Popolo," in a leader, gives an idea of the circumstances in which Italy will feel called on to intervene.

The writer says: "Italy can never permit Bolshevik Russia to advance further beyond the Carpathians into the Danube Valley, or into the Balkans towards the Mediterranean."

GERMAN VESSEL WRECKED

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH". COPENHAGEN, Nov. 16 (UP).—A report from Stockholm says that the German motorship Elfa of Hamburg, with a crew of six men was wrecked in the Skagerrak under dramatic circumstances.

Three members of the crew are missing and are believed to have been drowned.

At midnight, S.O.S. signals from an ordinary lantern were observed from the ship. It was impossible to go out with the pilot boats due to a storm.

This morning, a naval plane made a search, and assisted by the pilot boats, rescued three members of the crew after several hours of heroic work.

Rubber was falling to respond to the announcement of the increased export quota, which was in accordance with expectations.

HOW LANDING WAS MADE AT PAKHOI

No Hitch Despite Bad Weather Conditions

Tokyo, Nov. 16.

Field dispatches reveal that a large number of Japanese military transports sailed in two columns from an undisclosed base towards the Gulf of Tongking on Tuesday morning under the escort of warships. A monsoon accompanied by downpours of rain raged all the while.

No foreign vessels were sighted during a whole day's voyage. The only vessel sighted was a Japanese freighter. At 4 p.m. on Tuesday, Japanese transport and warship began to enter the Gulf of Tongking.

Ordered by their commander-in-chief to do their best in the impending adventures, all officers and men of the expeditionary force toasted their anticipated victory in Japanese wine which they prepared for the occasion.

At midnight on Tuesday, Japanese warships and transports penetrated deep into the Gulf of Tongking. The winds became stronger and severe cold was felt despite the fact that the districts belonged to the subtropical zone. The landing operations were carried out at dawn without any serious hitch in accordance with careful preparations.

Rapid Advance Inland

Tokyo, Nov. 16. A military dispatch states that the Japanese forces which landed in the Gulf of Tongking have now advanced fifty kilometres inland and have reached the outskirts of the city of Yanchien, important industrial and business centre near Pakhoi.

French Precaution

Shanghai, Nov. 16. The French authorities in Kwangchow Bay have reinforced the border patrols as a "precaution against Chinese refugees who may stampede into the French leased territory of Kwangchow Bay," according to a Japanese report.—Reuter.

Will Invade Kwangsi

With the Japanese forces in China, Nov. 16. The Japanese military operations near Pakhoi will be extended to Kwangsi and Yunnan Provinces to clear those provinces of anti-Japanese forces on the one hand and to intercept the supply of arms to Chungking on the other, thus dealing a crushing blow to the Chiang Kai-shek Government, the spokesman of the Japanese Expeditionary Force declared to-day.

Japanese forces have no intention of antagonising ordinary Chinese citizens unless they become hostile to or attempt to resist Japanese troops, despite the Japanese naval blockade.

The interests of third Powers in South China will be scrupulously protected by Japanese forces provided that they are not utilised for the Japanese forces for military purposes, the spokesman added.—Domet.

Dardanus Explanation

Shanghai, Nov. 16. A Japanese navy spokesman stated that the Japanese landing at Pakhoi demonstrated the necessity of the Japanese Navy restricting the area over which the Imperial Airways plane flew. He said the Japanese Navy paid particular attention to this plane, although they were not in a position to determine whether it was "spying." This flight has naturally aroused grave suspicions.—United Press.

Chinese Comment

Chungking, Nov. 16. While it is yet too early to predict the intentions of the Japanese landing near Pakhoi it is generally believed in Chinese circles that the latest landing is not likely to lead to a major battle in south-west China and that after the occupation of the Pakhoi area the Japanese will not likely attempt to launch a drive into Kwangsi.

The Japanese landing, it is said, is aimed principally at the seizure of Pakhoi, through which much goods have been imported in the past two years, despite the Japanese naval blockade. Moreover the seizure of Pakhoi will threaten the Chinese highway connections with French Indo-China via Chengmankwan.

The mere threat alone will prevent China from making extensive use of that particular highway for fear of an attack any minute, forcing the Chinese to rely more on the highway via Kunming.

While they are not able to check transportation through French Indo-China, at least Chinese circles believe that the Japanese will attempt to reduce such facilities. At the same time the landing of troops so close to the French Indo-China border, it is believed, will exert strong pressure on the French authorities.—Reuter.

The Philippines

JAPAN DENIES THREATS

Tokyo, Nov. 16. The President of the Philippines Society in Japan Viscount Okabe, in a broadcast to Manila last night, said: "Japan has no designs against your country now nor after independence."

"I am sure I reflect the overwhelming sentiment of the Japanese people and Government when I say that an independent and prosperous Philippines is far more beneficial to the Far East than a subjugated Philippines."

"Any sensible person would realise that the talk of Japanese designs on your islands is pure poppycock or sheer nonsense."

Viscount Okabe praised the Philippines for the neutrality decision of the present Government. He predicted closer commercial ties between the two nations, and urged co-operation and understanding.—United Press.

Chungking Critical

Chungking, Nov. 16. Regarding Viscount Okabe's broadcast to Manila, in which he assured the absence of Japanese designs against the Philippines, Mr. Hollington K. Tong, Vice-Minister of Publicity, said: "We are accustomed to hear even sweeter words than that uttered by Viscount Okabe."

Mr. Tong cautioned the Philippines to watch carefully when Japanese statesmen talk like that, adding: "From our experience we know that when the Japanese say one thing they do another."

He recalled that Japan in all solemnity entered the Nine-Power Treaty, but all her subsequent actions run counter to the treaty. China was given little assurance prior to the outbreak of hostilities, but events have proved such to be but empty words.—United Press.

PHILIPPINES TRADE

New Laws May Hit Chinese Retailers Hard

Manila, Nov. 16. As an aftermath to President Quezon's speech proposing governmental assistance to Filipinos to develop a share of the retail trade, Assemblyman Pedro Gil has introduced a bill giving the Filipinos and American nationals preference when engaged in retail trade, effective from January 1.

Gil and Assemblyman Vicente jointly introduced a second bill limiting the issuance of retailers' licenses to Philippine citizens and also Americans, pending complete independence. The second bill allows aliens who are at present doing retail trade five years in which to liquidate. The enactment would very heavily strike the Chinese who control an estimated 80 per cent. of the retail trade outlets throughout the islands.

There is apparently a discrepancy in the latter bill, and President Quezon's assertion that aliens already engaged in retailing should be allowed to continue as long as they desire, but political quarters make no comment pending further study.—United Press.

Caught In His Own Trap

Nasty Surprise For Goering's Pilots

LONDON, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—Field Marshal Goering's factories are to help to shoot down Goering's air force.

A British firm, which used to make gramophones and wireless sets, planned shortly before the war to start to make predictors used for getting the range for anti-aircraft guns.

Special machinery was required and a search eventually led to German factories for this machinery, which is now manufacturing predictors which will be used by Britain's anti-aircraft defences.

New Battleships Being Constructed Feverishly

LONDON, Nov. 16 (UP).—The new edition of Jane's Fighting Ships appearing to-day declares that the building race in super-battleships is now in progress between Britain, Japan and the United States. It says that Germany also is probably building vessels between 40,000 and 45,000 tons.

It explains that 34 capital ships are now being built between 40,000 and 45,000 tons, of which 16 for Britain include four units of the Lion class, believed to be between 40,000 and 45,000 tons.

Four new battleships started by Japan exceed 40,000 tons and will be armed with eight or nine 16-inch guns, with a speed of 30 knots.

The United States is building two battleships, Iowa and New Jersey of 45,000 tons.

Germany's two battleships of the Bismarck class may also be 40,000 tons. It says that one of Germany's three battleships was damaged in the British air raid on September 4.

MORE DELAY IN WANG CHING-WEI REGIME

Shanghai, Nov. 16.

The Japanese Foreign Office spokesman, Mr. Suma, who is on a visit to Shanghai, disclosed further indications of delay in the establishment of the Wang Ching-wei regime.

Mr. Suma said it was too early to predict whether Japanese troops will be withdrawn from China, thereby partially contradicting Mr. Wang Ching-wei's promise to the Chinese people that Japanese troops will be withdrawn. He reiterated that Japan will not deal with Chungking.

Mr. Suma declared that Japan wishes a new trade treaty with the United States and is confident that the United States shares the wish and will recognise realities.

He believed that the Japanese-American problem could be solved owing to the mutual desire not to make relations worse. Japan desires a settlement of all current problems.

As regards Russia, he said it was too early to predict whether a non-aggression pact is the present objective of the "smooth relations." He ridiculed the possibility of Japanese-Soviet division of spheres of influence in China. He said Japan was able to crush Chungking regardless of third Power assistance to Chiang Kai-shek.

Relations with Wang

Mr. Suma said the question whether Japan would deal with Chungking through Mr. Wang Ching-wei is hypothetical and he was therefore unwilling to reply, but he said that Japan does not desire to negotiate with Chungking.

Asked whether Japan would support Mr. Wang Ching-wei whatever may happen, Mr. Suma replied: "The Japanese Government's support is not limited to individuals and applies more to the platform of any regime which might arise. The Japanese are seeking the original objectives and therefore any regime which adopts a platform in line with these objectives would receive extensive support."—United Press.

economic warfare, and shipping, while a number of meetings were held with representatives of the individual Dominions on various special problems.

The progress already made was most encouraging.

The overseas representatives to France and the defence preparations in Britain had given them an opportunity of judging for themselves the magnitude of our war effort and had given a fuller knowledge of how Empire assistance may best be utilised.

Accelerating Convoys System. The Minister of Shipping and the First Lord of the Admiralty were discussing the acceleration of the system of convoys.

Faster convoys would be established and the number of convoys increased as more escorting vessels became available.

Our destroyers had steamed hundreds of thousands of miles. One was sunk by a mine.

Four enemy ships were taken last week, and two large vessels were scuttled on November 12 and 13.

Our merchantmen continued to sail in great numbers notwithstanding that the crews now had to face torpedo, gun and mine.

Land Operations Curtailed. Bad weather had curtailed land operations.

The enemy planes raiding the Shetland Islands on November 14 dropped 12 bombs on land and eight in the sea. They caused no casualties and negligible damage.

There had been considerable activity in the air but no major engagements.

Mr. Attlee Speaks. Mr. Clement R. Attlee, the Labour Opposition Leader, followed Sir John Simon and regretted that the German Government has so summarily rejected the Hague peace effort.

"We all hope that those peaceful countries will not be drawn into the war," he said.

Mr. Attlee welcomed the statement about the visits of General Sikorski and M. Reynaud, and especially the Dominions' representatives.

The list of subjects discussed with the overseas visitors, however, did not include formulation of peace aims.

It also was not too early to give full consideration to the importance of planning for peace in Britain.

Tribute To Queen Wilhelmina. Sir Archibald Sinclair, the Liberal Leader, particularly welcomed the Anglo-French economic and financial co-operation because the two countries would sink or swim together. So would the sterling and the franc, and nothing but the closest co-operation would avail to save them.

Sir Archibald declared that they owed a great debt to Queen Wilhelmina for her bold initiative and for her assertion of the principles, reason and justice even amid the clamour of war.

Moreover, it had cleared the air, for no longer could it be argued that the war was forced upon Hitler.

The British Government must be ready to give prompt support, if the duty protecting their neutrality and liberty was imposed upon Holland and Belgium by Hitler.

They would not be forgiven if those countries were made victims of German aggression without effective help being given by us, he concluded.

POOR ENTRIES FOR H.K. ST. LEGER

Battle Royal Expected Between Navylight And Eve Of Harvest

THE HONGKONG ST. LEGER celebrates its fourteenth birthday to-morrow, having been inaugurated in 1926, but the most important classic event on the card of the Eleventh Extra Race Meeting has not been able to attract more than four China ponies, griffins of this season.

At the Annual Carnival last February, Mr. Eu Tong-sen entered ten griffins; Rose Elect annexing the Hongkong Derby and the Champion Stakes, but the category commonly known as "on the walking list" has claimed his fine champion pony, and the philanthropist has no nomination.

ALTHOUGH the entries for the Hongkong St. Leger are very poor indeed, both Sir Victor Sassoon and Mr. Eric Moller of Shanghai are making a strong bid to secure the premier honour, especially the latter. It will be recalled that one of the finest seen this time last year, when Mr. Eric Moller's Silkylight, ably assisted by the owner's son, Mr. R. B. Moller, triumphed Mr. Dunbar's Confusion Bay by one and a half lengths in three minutes 29.2 seconds for a course of 134 miles, and the last quarter was 20.3 seconds.

It is reliably learned that the owner and his son (Jooee) will be coming down for the meeting, the latter to ride Navylight in the Hongkong St. Leger, and we shall certainly see a fine contest.

NO "B" CLASS RACES

IN addition to the above race there are seven handicap events for Australian and China ponies, but no provision has been made for the "B" class raters.

The inclusion of two contests for top-notchers in the Taiipo Handicap and the New Bridge Handicap respectively is of some interest, because one pony must start to qualify for the Hongkong Autumn Champions, and another must win to become eligible for the Queensland Autumn Champions to be run on December 10. Apart from the fact that the weight controller has loaded him to the plimsoll, Confusion Bay, owned by Mr. Dunbar, must accept for the Taiipo Handicap (the pony has already scored two wins) so as to meet the requirement of three outings during the extra meetings.

Lucky Lad, the winner of Australian Ponies Champions, is in a precarious position, for his failure to secure first place in the New Bridge Handicap will put the Lucky stable's candidate out of the Queensland Autumn Champions.

With a promise of much cooler weather, I see no reason why the attendance to-morrow should not be a bumper house, and racegoers are reminded that first saddling bell will be rung at 1.30 p.m.

Shooting Record Equalled

Using a service rifle with open sights at the Kowloon City Rifle range on Wednesday, Sgt. P. Hale, of the Middlesex Regt., equalled the record score for the season when he totalled 101 with a scratch handicap. He secured a possible at 500 yards.

His scores were	200	500	000	total
yds	34	35	32	101
Visibility was poor at 000 yards.

China ponies over the mile. Mr. Dunbar's racer had a stronger field to lick in the October Handicap, but, with Eve of Harvest reserved for the Hongkong St. Leger, I cannot see anything to beat Confusion Bay.

Blue Express has been entered, but it appears to me that the bay gelding is short of work owing to his having been temporarily "held up." As an outsider I like Lilliburn, who has every opportunity of turning the scales on Confusion Bay, provided the jockey, Mr. Sung, can get down to 140 lbs.

CASTLE PEAK H'CAP (1st Section)

AS CLOWNER, Royal Highness, Sunlight View and Sylvandale have been put by the classification sub-committee into a higher standard, the handicapper has transferred a good few from the lower division to the first section of the Castle Peak Handicap for "D" class China ponies over a distance from the two mile post, once round and in.

The inclusion of Blaire from the "C" class to this section will no doubt add a certain amount of interest to the pari-mutuel department, but I am afraid the pony has a stiff proposition before him. He is 1932 sub-class, and, no doubt, is lacking speed and energy.

Spotting the winner is not so easy as it looks owing to the difficulty of "getting a line." Strathbaunock is at the head of the assessment, but I prefer to see him over a shorter distance.

WEIGHT ADJUSTMENTS

WHEN they met in the Jordan Handicap (second section) over a mile on October 7, Kut Cheung, the winner, was in receipt of 3 lbs. from Guinness Time, whereas, to-morrow, both are set on the same level; the former beat the latter by three lengths. The adjustment favours Kut Cheung. Some Hope, who was officially fourth in the same event, has been favoured with an allowance of 10 lbs. and surely he should be considered.

It seems that Night View and Plain View have been let in with only 140 lbs. to shoulder among the old timers, but I would like to remind punters that both ge-gees are blackie, and, in the circumstances, not much confidence can be placed. Plain View has changed ownership, and there is a possibility that the black chap will run better for the new stable—Lee and Lee.

H.K. ST. LEGER

Only Two Entries To Be Considered

VERY POOR RESPONSE has been shown to the last classic of the year, the Hongkong St. Leger for China ponies, griffins of this season; there being only four entries. There are only two claimants for the big contest, and the issue will be between Eve of Harvest and Navylight.

I doubt if Galaxy will face the

(By "Pilgrim")

I WAS VERY PLEASED with the verdict and the method in which the H.K.L.H.A. dealt with the D.G.S. Recreio incident. An apology from the Captain of the D.G.S. to the umpire is only fair.

It would be a grave error on the part of any governing body to over-rule the decision of an umpire on matters of fact. It would create a position that would become untenable, and voluntary umpires would refuse to continue to officiate.

I hope the girls will bear this in mind—that whether a decision by an umpire is good or bad, it must remain unchallenged. If an umpire is incompetent, a report to the Umpires' Association is welcome. There is always an obvious and proper course to pursue.

THE Hongkong Ladies Hockey Association commence their League fixtures to-morrow, and the women have once again approached the Umpires' Association with regard to supplying them with umpires.

Officers at the moment are scarce, and it is rather doubtful if a sufficient number will be available to control the Junior or Brown Cup Leagues. Should this be impossible, Junior Club Secretaries will be called upon to select their own neutral umpires.

However, I am glad to observe that Miss D. Moss, of the C.B.A., has consented to accept the post of Acting Hon. Secretary of the H.K.L.H.A.

THE Hongkong Ladies, who had their best side out so far this season, defeated the Central British Association 4-0 last Saturday. Mrs. Lunson played a grand game in goal, and a general improvement, especially in defence, was noticed. The best defenders were Miss G. Swan, centre-half, and Miss Green, left back.

In the second half, the Island attack showed promise and kept the home team continually on the defensive. Miss Marr, Miss M. Smalley and Mrs. Duziel played cleverly, and scored the goals between them.

Miss J. Greig made rather a useful umpire, but was rather weak on the off-side rule. It would help her a great deal if she kept in line with the backs in order to observe when a player is really off-side.

The Hongkong Ladies showed better combination than usual, and deserved their victory.

THE C.B.A., on occasions, attacked strongly, but Miss I. Cunningham and Mrs. Quick in the attack formed a poor combination. I am certain Miss A. Smith is not a forward, and would be seen to better advantage in the half-back line where she is more at home. Miss S. Baxter was good and did much useful work on the left wing.

Miss I. Woolley, in the half-back line, was outstanding, while Miss B. Parsons, right back, played an excellent game. But drastic changes must be made with the C.B.A. forwards if they hope to improve their attack.

ARMY HOCKEY TRIALS AT SOOKUNPOO

THE ARMY held their first series of hockey trials at Sookunpoo yesterday. Much promising talent was on view, and throughout the three periods of 20 minutes the hockey was most interesting.

None of the goalkeepers were really tested, but the backs were quite prominent. Outstanding among the latter were Datta Ram, of the Rajputana Rifles, and Hazara Singh, of the 18th Heavy Regiment, R.A. Both spoiled brilliantly, and were cool under pressure.

The half-back line, however, offered problems. Few of those playing yesterday were up to form. Dilot, of the Gunners, and Austen, of the Signals, were about the best in the wing positions. There should be little difficulty over the centre berth. Lt. Hook was there yesterday and played his usual brilliant game.

FORWARD PROBLEM

The forward area was another problem. Sgt. Homburg, of the Suppers, had a particularly fine match at inside-right. He scored one of the two goals of the afternoon with a perfect cross-shot. Shah Wali, of the Rajputana Rifles, seems indicated for the outside-right position. Marshall, of the Gunners, tried both inside-left and outside-left, and has a very reliable reverse stick. The problem of the left wing, however, will be that of the right. Nerrain Singh and Partab Singh, of the Kumons, are an acknowledged great left wing combination, as are Shah Wali and Lt. Indrajit Singh on the right. With Lt. Pritham Nath in the centre, there is there a most effective forward line. Where, then, are Homburg and Marshall to fit in?

Further trials, however, will be held, and it is, perhaps, too early yet to make selections.

Yesterday's trial teams were: Whites, Pte. Gaman (R.A.O.C.); Datta Ram (Rajputana) and Gursain (Singh) (Kumons); Dilot (R.A.), Lt. Hook (R.A.), P. F. Austen (Signals); Khuda Bux (du R.A.), Trilok Singh (Kumons), Major Harvey (R.A.M.C.), Marshall (R.A.) and Gopal Ram (Rajputana).

Colours—McGrady (R. Scots); Hazara Singh (du R.A.); Darshan Singh (du R.A.); Duda Ram (Rajputana); Bessley (R.A.M.C.) and Lal Singh (Kumons); Lt. Rawal Singh (Rajputana); Lt. Indrajit Singh (Rajputana); Lt. Pritham Nath (Rajputana); Nerrain Singh (Kumons) and Partab Singh (Kumons).

The following were also seen in the second and third stumps: Lt. Bolton (R.A.O.C.) on the right-wing in place of Khuda Bux; Shah Wali (Rajputana) on right-wing in place of Lt. Sawal Khan; Sher Khan (Rajputana) at left-half in place of Austen; and Sgt. Homburg (R. Gunners) at inside-right in place of Trilok Singh.

Hongkong Girls' First Defeat In Manila

MANILA, Nov. 16 (UP).—The Hongkong girl basketball players suffered their first defeat in Manila when they were nosed out by Manila's champion Anglo-Chinese team 29-27. The Anglo-Chinese team clinched the issue by sinking the winning goal with a few seconds to play.

A crowd of 4,000, the largest attendance in the series so far, saw a very exciting end to the affair in which the Hongkong players compiled an impressive 10 to 12 lead at half time.

Manila, however, bottled up the visitors in the third quarter, holding them to two points, while they compiled 10 to take a 22-21 lead.

Diana Chen was again brilliant for the visitors, scoring nine points, but poor passing and Manila's close guarding proved costly for Hongkong in the second period.

Clothes still count

Don't let yourself think that it doesn't matter much what you wear now . . . you can be smart as well as practical

THE war cut off the crop of bustles, muffs, and all the other fancy autumn fashions before they had time to get out of the dress-makers' showrooms. (In England, that is; America is still hoping to be able to buy and wear all the French clothes they can get over.)

But that doesn't mean that from now on we should decide to go around in nothing but plain, sensible coats and skirts. Look at the Queen; you probably saw pictures or news-reels of her inspecting the A.R.P. and Red Cross depots. Did you notice that on each occasion she was wearing a different outfit? And smart outfits: flowered huts, veils, pastel-coloured embroidered dresses—almost garden-party clothes.

No doubt they helped her to look as bright and smiling as she did; and the people she was inspecting liked looking at them.

Put on your best suit to-morrow, and your new hat, and you'll find that without knowing why, your spirits will rise.

This spirit-raising effect of nice clothes is important to women—everything is important which makes you feel more cheerful.

But naturally it's not going to be so easy or so cheap to get good clothes as it is now. When the present stocks have sold out—and they are selling fast—you won't find new ones at the same price.

There's a big cry now for warm winter coats, for instance.

So it will pay you to start now and build up a winter wardrobe; a good sound basis of essentials to which you can add as fashions change. (Because, don't make any mistake, fashions will change, just as they did in the last war, which saw skirts go up four inches.)

THE dress designers will help you; they have switched straight over to designing practical good-looking clothes.

These seem to me to be the essentials of every woman's wardrobe.

A well-cut suit, tweed or plain, but in neither case too dated; two jerseys, two blouses to go with it.

The aforesaid good warm coat; something really warm, wind and weatherproof.

If you live in a town, a dark coat, possibly fur-trimmed.

One warm woollen dress in your favourite colour.

One silk dress, dark, but not necessarily black.

One evening dress (Robb has drawn the kind here which would be most useful to you).

One pull-on and stay-on felt hat; one fashionable and if you like slightly crazy hat.

This is only the groundwork of a wardrobe, of course; you probably have quite a few of the things already, and you can add to them from time to time; make yourself spare jerseys, scarves, and so on.

Things you should avoid are: Starling checks which will bore you within six months and die on you within a year. Pleats and fuzzy details which need time and money to keep good-looking. Anything too fragile or too dated. Make a bid for bright colours though; it is possible that dyes may be limited later on.

Race Robot Shouts "Go"

ADELAIDE.—The Adelaide Racing Club is experimenting with a robot that shouts "Go" at the instant the barrier is lifted for the start of a race. It is the invention of E. R. Booth of this city, who invented Nuffield Iron Lung and the Booth electro-cardiograph. The invention to synchronise the starter's voice and the lifting of the gates.

MORNING

A suit to give a good start to any day. It has the new points—double-breasted, high-necked, longish jacket—but there's nothing dated about it. MATERIAL: Closely woven tweed; COLOUR: Brownish-green, red mixture; CUT: Six buttons fasten the double-breasted jacket which has two breast pockets, two hip pockets. Shirt is made with eight panels, easily full, won't sag. This is the sort of suit which every woman can wear anywhere: Town, country, travelling.

-AFTERNOON-

If this dress were one of a crowd in your cupboard it would be lovely to have it in velvet. But if it's an only child, have it made in jersey, which would drape itself beautifully round that neckline. Choose a good rich colour: Grape purple, wine red or chocolate brown. A most casual collar stands up round the neck. Bodice is draped into a zip up the centre. Shoulders are squared, sleeves long and tight. Seams up the front of the bodice are continued down into a seamed, slightly flaring skirt.

-AND NIGHT-

Here you have two evening dresses in one: A low cut evening dress for formal nights out; a little velvet jacket which buttons high on the throat, to turn it into a warm dinner suit. The dress is in crimson satin, tight-waisted with fullness in the skirt flaring out at the back (a line that will last). The bodice is simply draped in front into two shoulder straps, cut to the waist at the back. The jacket, in dull green velvet, fits out below the waist at the back into a slight suggestion of a bustle.

Fruit Cocktail

When grapefruit is served in place of fruit cocktail, cut fruit in half, loosen pulp from rind and partitions. Remove centre, and fill with mint jelly.

For Golf Fans

Knitted mittens for clubs, with the number of stripes corresponding to the number of the club, are now available in various colour combinations. They protect the clubs from weather and scratching of irons, yet make them easily identified.

Beauty Tips

IF YOU wish to learn how to walk smoothly follow a straight line, allowing the legs to swing freely in their sockets. Straighten each knee as the foot touches the ground, and if possible, try to point your toes straight ahead. Following a straight line can be taxing at first, but practice it when you go shopping by trying to follow the paving lines in the sidewalk. When climbing stairs, try to spring up from the balls of the feet; do not drag yourself up from the knees.

"They're Diving For Us!" Lookout Shouts as German Planes Launch Unsuccessful Raid On British Ships

DRAMATIC STORY OF ATTACK ON CONVOY TOLD BY B.B.C.

ONLY SIX WANT TO DIE FOR HITLER

GERMAN nationals living in Switzerland do not like the idea of letting Adolf Hitler raise cash on their property and themselves giving their lives for his aggression.

At outbreak of war German consulates in Switzerland delivered mobilisation papers to some 1,500 Germans of military age in the eastern part of the country. Only six obeyed the call. Elaborate preparations had been made to transport back to Germany hundreds of expected patriots eager to die for Hitler. On Lake Constance three steamers were held ready at Arbon, on the Swiss side, to ferry the fifteen hundred men across to Lindau, Germany.

Only the patriotic six turned up. Although the strictest secrecy has been observed, word leaks out that the Nazis have encountered the same lack of enthusiasm in other countries.

That is one reason why the German Government, making virtue of necessity, subsequently decreed that men living abroad and liable to military service should be "allowed to remain at their posts."

Another reason is that, if the original decree were enforced by drastic measures, useful Nazi agents operating in these neutral countries would either have to be withdrawn or else be made conspicuous by their exemption.

Ribbentrop's 50 h.p. Car

BRITISH chauffeurs, charwomen, footmen and other servants who were employed at the German Embassy until the day of the staff's departure have now received the wages due to them.

Officials of the Swiss Legation took charge of the Embassy's affairs.

Mr. A. T. Parkes, who was Embassy chauffeur for more than 10 years, said:

"Ribbentrop had a bigger car than any of the other ambassadors I drove. It was more than twenty feet long, seven feet wide, and had an engine of fifty h.p."

"Ribbentrop liked travelling when he was over here. He used to stay in Scotland and in Devon and Cornwall."

"When Germany went Nazi there was a change in the atmosphere at the Embassy, but no one ever bothered me."

HOW two attacks on a convoy in the North Sea by German bombing 'planes were beaten off in "a barrage of black puffs" from naval escort vessels was vividly described in a B.B.C. broadcast by a naval man who was aboard the leading escort vessel.

After describing how the warships convoyed the merchant vessels without incident until nightfall the broadcaster went on:

"About ten one of the escort far away astern opened fire with her anti-aircraft gun and our alarm bells began a furious jangling all through the ship. Miles away in the clouds to the north-eastward an enemy reconnaissance machine had been sighted shadowing us."

"The cook appears on the bridge wearing a shrapnel helmet and a rather worried expression."

"The dinners are all in the oven. Good hot dinners spoiling. Nobody has thought about dinner till this moment. Now everybody realises they are starving."

"Sandwiches? Hundreds of them? No! Very good."

"Sound of aircraft somewhere, and firing."

"The cook reappears carrying a tray piled with enormous corned beef sandwiches."

"Like all naval cooks, he is a magician. But he still looks worried, thinking about those lovely hot dinners that no one will eat."

"Three 'Planes!'"

"One of the look-outs suddenly shouted: 'Ship bearing red one O, sir'—that meant he had sighted a ship bearing red one on the port bow."

"It was the leading escort of another convoy, coming out of the mist to the southward. There was a curious arch of cloud and fog stretching north and south and enveloping the land."

"The leading ship of the convoy we'd sighted passed quite close. Somebody on the bridge waved his cap. Ten minutes later our own look-out shouted: 'Plane right ahead, sir.'"

"Three 'Planes!'"

"Then things happened awfully quickly."

"Our foremost guns opened fire with a roar that drowned everything. The muzzle were elevated almost to the level of the bridge, and yellow flashes sprang out, obliterating the shapes of the German bombing machines swooping over the convoy."

"The sea leapt up in columns where a few bombs dropped; one had an instantaneous impression of the surface of the water spouting under a hail of machine-gun bullets and falling fragments of shell; of orders shouted through the din of firing, flashes of guns in the smoke, the ship shuddering from the recoil. And suddenly it was over. The enemy vanished into the mist. "No ship had been hit, nobody was hurt."

Scaplanes

"Then the look-out gave tongue again. Enemy scaplanes this time, far away to the southward."

"The scaplanes emerged from a cloud valley and came swooping towards us."

"All the guns began to fire, throwing a barrage of little black puffs in the path of the scaplanes. They banked steeply and look refuge in the clouds."

"The other convoy, somewhere below the horizon, said it had beaten off a heavy attack without any casualties to the convoy."

"The scaplanes reappeared, and this time it looked as if they meant business."

Black Toadstools

"Again the blue sky was dotted with black toadstools of smoke, and again they swerved away."

"Suddenly there was a shout of 'Fighters!' and out from the land came a squadron of British fighting 'planes. They flashed over our heads at 300 m.p.h."

"Our gun crews cheered them as they passed us like a swarm of infuriated wasps. The enemy scaplanes had vanished into a cloud and the fighters dived into it in pursuit."

"They all disappeared. A report of an enemy seaplane which had been shot down somewhere out of sight. "None of our charges" had been scratched. Not a ship lost her bearings or altered course during the attack."

Princess Wants A 'World War'

PRINCESS BIBESCO, daughter of Lady Oxford, wants a better "war of words" from Britain to the world.

She has just returned from a tour of many European countries, where she has studied the various propaganda methods.

"There is nothing wrong with the quality of our propaganda abroad," she said, "but the quantity has been lacking—no doubt for mechanical reasons."

"The essence of German propaganda is its 'pom-pom' quality—constant repetition of the same points."

Italian Sympathy

"In war-time one cannot say the same thing too often. I think it important that we should reiterate constantly that the Allies are not fighting for Poland, nor even for each other, but to preserve for the future principles which to the ordinary man are sacred."

She was very strongly impressed by the sympathy shown towards British people by Italians of all classes.

"They fused over one as though one were an invalid, to express their sympathy with us for having been forced into a war," she added.

And Now—Jam

"In some indefinable way they all looked rather pleased with themselves; like perfect ladies who had passed through a pothouse brawl without blinking an eyelid."

"The sun sank in a blaze of golden fire."

"The men had been closed up at their guns and posts for six hours. The captain had been standing by the compass platform for 12 hours. He gulped a cup of tea set down by his lucky pouch to be refilled."

"The wind freshened and there was a chilly nip in the air. Dusk began and the gun crews began passing oily cloths on the end of a rammer through the guns."

"Soon it was dark again. Part of the watch went below for supper."

"In the mouth of the harbour we met an examination vessel."

"The captain was still on the compass platform with his hands in his pockets. He had at last got tired of his pipe."

"He bent to the voice pipe and gave the orders for altering course, and each order was repeated by the coxswain at the wheel."

Money to Spend and Goods to Buy ESTONIAN PARADISE FOR SOVIET TROOPS

LONDON.—According to information received here the discipline of the Russian troops who evacuated Vilna to be replaced by the Lithuanians was excellent.

The front-line troops were well equipped, and the tanks, guns, lorries, and so on in good condition.

The troops that followed were ill-clad, ill-equipped, with old-fashioned weapons, and obviously under-nourished.

The Russians did not interfere unduly with the life of the city.

They had rubles to spend, and the inhabitants were anxious to get rubles, zlotys no longer being legal tender.

Large quantities of wrist-watches, fountain-pens, and other objects such as are hardly ever seen by the ordinary Russian soldier and are almost unobtainable in Russia were eagerly bought by the Russian troops. There does not appear to have been any looting.

The discipline amongst the Russian troops and naval ratings in Estonia also appears to be very good.

Here too, the Russians, many of whom had Estonian ancestry, bought eagerly and expressed their delight at being able to buy so freely. There was a specially big demand for boots and shoes and warm underwear.

The Russians greatly admired the quality of Estonian goods, and in Vilna of Polish goods—and the prosperous condition of Estonian shops and farms.

Generally speaking, the Russians in the newly occupied regions seem to find themselves in a sort of paradise where, compared with their own country, there is freedom and abundance.

Expelled From Press Parley

Nazi Treatment Of U.S. Correspondent

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 16. (Reuter).—Mr. Beach Conger, the Berlin correspondent of the "New York Herald Tribune," was expelled to-day from the daily Press conference at the Wilhelmstrasse.

According to the "Handelsblad" correspondent, Mr. Conger was accused of sending "inaccurate reports prejudicial to the Third Reich."

A Look Through The "Telegraph"

50 YEARS AGO

Nov. 17, 1889. The Comte d'Eu, heir to the Brazilian throne, said in a speech at Pernambuco the other day that the Imperial family desired only the prosperity of Brazil, and that when the people signified by their votes that their presence retarded the progress of the country, they would retire. This was in reply to certain recent Republican manifestoes.

M. Triepolius stated that Greece had tried to cultivate cordial relations with Turkey, but found it impossible so that henceforth Greece would aim at one day vindicating the rights of Crete.

In the past few years we have heard much of wonderful explosives of which Germany has been said to possess the sole secret—explosives which would be bound to play a terrible part in the long prophesied Great War.

It is officially intimated in the Gazette that the closing hours for hotels in respect of which a publican's licence or hotel-keeper's licence is held will in future be 1 a.m. instead of midnight. The change also applies to public dancing halls.

Mr. Winston Churchill, speaking on a nationwide radio talk, to-night, gave a sensational description of the war danger from the direction of Germany. "Only a few hours away by air," he said, "is a nation of nearly seventy millions of people. It is the most highly educated, the most industrious, the most scientific and best disciplined people in the world."

"These people are being taught from their childhood to think of war as glorious exercise and death in battle as the noblest fate of man."

The Dominions Secretary, Mr. J. H. Thomas said at Newport, that neither directly nor indirectly was there any secret agreement which involved Britain in any commitment on the continent of Europe.

They were faced with many difficulties and elements were abroad over Europe which created war spirit, namely suspicion, ill-will and mistrust, but he saw no warrant or justification for the war talk now prevalent.

Meeting Arouses Speculation

Chungking, Nov. 16. Much speculation has been aroused over the publication for the second day in succession by the Chinese Press of an interview on Tuesday between Dr. H. H. Kung and the Soviet Ambassador, M. Alexandre Pannouchkine, concerning Sino-Soviet relations.

The Chinese Press yesterday published a semi-official statement clarifying the questions relating to the Chinese-Soviet trade relations were discussed in great detail. This morning the Chinese Press again published a semi-official statement regarding the same interview. While to-day's statement reiterates the fact that the Sino-Soviet trade relations were discussed, the statement also significantly declares that "in addition to questions of Sino-Soviet trade relations they exchanged views on other important Sino-Soviet issues."

The statement emphasises that the meeting lasted three hours. After stressing that both parties expressed satisfaction at the present Sino-Soviet trade relations it is stated that they devised measures to further increase the volume of Sino-Soviet trade "in order to further strengthen Sino-Soviet friendship."—Reuter.

Paris, Nov. 16. Both sides appear to be playing a waiting game on the Western Front, but a certain amount of patrol activity is reported.

The German patrols consisted of small units which did not show too much energy, according to M. Charles Morice, writing in Le Petit Parisien.

The writer says that the very wooded region of the Moselle-Rhine front between the district north-east of Bluche and the River Lauter was the object of considerable German activity in the last two days. Numerous reconnoitring patrols are deployed to the Lower Vosges in order to discover the French points of resistance. The French are also engaged in discovering where the enemy forces close to the French lines are situated.

Fears Of Netherlands Aggression Now Proved Justified

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

LONDON, Nov. 16 (UP).—"Developments during the past fortnight have appreciably strengthened the position of the Allies," said Sir John Simon, who deputised for the Premier in the House of Commons to-day.

"This is particularly the case with reference to American legislation, which has restored to us the right to purchase the abundant supplies the United States is able to offer."

Speaking on behalf of both Britain and France, Sir John repudiated responsibility for the breakdown of the Belgo-Dutch peace efforts.

He also revealed that fears regarding the purpose of the concentration of German troops on the Dutch and Belgian frontiers had some justification.

"There have been press attacks against Holland and Belgium similar to those which preceded invasions of other countries by Germany."

Finland And Russia

Sir John confirmed that there had been a virtual breakdown in the negotiations between Finland and Soviet Russia—a situation he described as "less satisfactory."

The Finns, however, emphasised that there had been no irreparable rupture.

In the Premier's weekly war review it was announced that four German ships were captured last week, two of them being scuttled. Most German merchantmen were being forced to remain in port "while on the contrary British ships continue to move in increasing numbers."

Also it said it is hoped to take early steps for consultation with the French Government to organise a self-contained Polish military force for service in France.

French troops said the Home Secretary, have repulsed a number of minor German attacks on the Western Front during the past week.

He described the Belgo-Dutch appeal as "a bold intervention in the cause of peace."

Sir Archibald Sinclair, the liberal leader, said that the Belgo-Dutch effort had destroyed the argument that war was forced upon Hitler.

"It is now clear that Hitler is continuing the war to fasten the yoke more firmly on the Czechs and Poles," he said.

Must Support The Lowlands

He maintained that the British Government must be ready to support Belgium and Holland if they were attacked.

"The Government would never be forgiven if these countries were made victims of aggression without effective help from us," he asserted.

The Opposition leader, Mr. Clement Attlee, expressed regret that Hitler had "summarily rejected" the Belgo-Dutch appeal.

"We should all join in the hope that these peaceful peoples will not be drawn into the war," he said.

At the same time Mr. Attlee criticised the Government's failure to clearly state its war aims.

Re-organising The Poles

LONDON, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—Continuing the Prime Minister's weekly statement (the first part of which is published on Page 5), which he read in the House of Commons to-day in Mr. Chamberlain's absence, Sir John Simon, in welcoming General Sikorski's visit to London, hoped that it would soon be possible to organise self-contained Polish forces in France.

Referring to M. Paul Reynaud's visit, Sir John read a long extract from yesterday's communiqué regarding the necessity for close and continuous Anglo-French financial and economic co-operation.

Discussions with the representatives of the Dominions and India dealt with all aspects of the war and covered the questions of defence, foreign policy, problems of supply, and

RUTHLESS U-BOAT WAR ON NEUTRALS

LONDON, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—The ruthless German warfare against neutral merchant shipping is instanced by the torpedoing, without warning, of the Norwegian tanker, Arne Kjøde, by a U-boat.

The U-boat did not make any attempt to save the crew despite bad weather and the fact that the position was far from land.

The crew of the Arne Kjøde took to the boats when the ship was torpedoed on the evening of November 12.

More than two days later, 23 men in one boat were picked up after suffering severely from exposure.

Twenty hours later, 12 more members of the crew were picked up. Five men are still missing.

The whole incident is another instance of Germany's brutal disregard of her guarantees not to sink on sight without giving the crew opportunity to escape.

All rescues were effected by British ships.

AL CAPONE RELEASED

Notorious Gang Leader Is Free

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (UP).—Garbed in a cheap suit of clothing which is given to all discharged prisoners, Al Capone, broken in health and tortured by mental aberrations, emerged from prison to-day.

His demeanour is in curious contrast to his bravado during the Prohibition era, when he paid huge sums for silk shirts and underwear, and dominated the Chicago underworld.

Capone was secretly transported by train from California last Sunday, after serving 7½ years of an 11-year sentence.

He was turned over to relatives who, accompanied by three Federal agents, departed for a private institution in the vicinity of Philadelphia.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 16 (UP).—Al Capone was brought to the Union Memorial Hospital at 11 a.m.

He was registered as a private patient and placed in the medical wing of the hospital.

To Destroy British World Supremacy

LONDON, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—Germany has decided to fight until British supremacy in the world is destroyed, an "authoritative source in Berlin" is reported to have said in an interview with an American correspondent.

It is no longer a question of German peace promises, declared the Nazi pundit.

The question might be raised in Paris or London, but not Berlin.

Why Attack Is Delayed

"Explaining" why Germany is not attacking at the moment, the speaker said that the world suspected that Germany must attack to keep up the morale of the German people.

It is suggested that Germany must attack in the south-east because Herr von Ribbentrop needs successes to place before Hitler.

This is not true, Germany is not afraid to attack, but her military will choose the time and will not be goaded into it.

HONGKONG COUPLE IN U-BOAT DRAMA

Saved After Being In Lifeboats

REPORTS WERE current in Hongkong yesterday that three residents of the Colony had lost their lives when the Bibby Line's steamer Yorkshire was torpedoed by a U-boat last month.

The "Telegraph" referred the rumours to its Correspondent in London and is now happy to report that they are without foundation.

However, the "Telegraph" Correspondent reveals that at least two Hongkong passengers were rescued from the Yorkshire.

They were Mr. and Mrs. Joyce, Mr. Joyce is believed, was attached to the Hongkong Garrison.

Mr. and Mrs. Joyce were saved by the American steamer Independence Hall, after being adrift for some time in a lifeboat. They were landed at Bordeaux and subsequently returned to England.

Rumours current in Hongkong yesterday indicated that a Police Officer's wife and daughter had been drowned as a result of the torpedoing.

Neither the Bibby Line nor the War Ministry list, however, contain the names of the persons mentioned as passengers aboard the Yorkshire, the "Telegraph" correspondent cables.

He adds that the Bibby Line list, which he examined, contains the surnames of all passengers.

Democracies & Dictatorships

Roosevelt Points The Difference

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—When laying the cornerstone of the Thomas Jefferson Memorial, President Roosevelt spoke of the difference between the democracies and what he called "the rule of a self-chosen individual."

Jefferson, he said, had lived, as we lived to-day, in the middle of a struggle between the rule of a self-chosen individual and the rule by franchise and the approval of many.

The United States was satisfied with a Republican form of Government based on regular recurring opportunities for the citizens to choose their leaders for themselves.

Poland To Fight Back

Says Gen. Sikorski In London Speech

LONDON, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—General Sikorski, the Polish Premier, spoke at the Foreign Press Association luncheon to-day.

He said that the turning point in history had been reached. Mankind must choose between the two forms of collective existence now fighting for supremacy.

One found expression in the British commonwealth of nations, the French empire and the United States, and the other was seen in the occupation of Austria, Czechoslovakia and the double invasion of Poland.

Poland's Choice

Poland and her people, like their new government, had made their choice.

Every Pole knew that a free Poland could exist only in a free and united Europe.

He referred to the co-operation of Polish destroyers with the British Navy, and declared that the Polish air force and army would be ready within a few months to play their part at the side of the Allied forces.

Guerilla Warfare

LONDON, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—The diplomatic correspondent of the "Manchester Guardian" reports continuation of revolts in Poland, where he says, the Poles are waging a continuous and effective guerilla warfare.

Force attacks are launched against the Germans at night by hidden Poles, who remain under cover in the daytime.

At night, they attack German soldiers and officers.

At one time they left the bodies in the streets, but the Germans retaliated by taking reprisals against those in the neighbouring houses. To-day, the bodies of the victims are taken away and concealed.

In the Carpathians in particular the Poles have a genius for conspiratorial and revolutionary work.

The national spirit of Poland is unbroken and the German army and storm troops suffer considerable casualties. German soldiers dare not go out alone even in the daytime.

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

ON THE NORTH SHORE OF TONGKING BAY, Nov. 17 (Domei).—Pushing inland through western Kwangtung, Japanese forces yesterday evening reached the outskirts of Yamhsien, about 30 miles from the seaboard and 46 miles northwest of Pakhol.

They are now near the Kwangtung-Kwangsi border.

It is now revealed that the surprise landing by the Japanese forces near Pakhol was made at a time when the wind was blowing at monsoonal velocity.

A war office spokesman pointed out that wind of such velocity is really of hurricane strength and is strong enough to shake the roots of big trees.

To effect a military landing under such conditions has no parallel in the annals of war, he claimed.

Information received here shows that the boats carrying the Japanese troops were buffeted by the waves so severely that from time to time they appeared as if they would be swamped.

UNANIMOUS SUPPORT OF BRITISH COLONIES

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

LONDON, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—Mr. Malcolm Macdonald, at a meeting in London, declared that nothing illuminates more brilliantly the difference between our and the Nazi political systems than the contrast between the responses from the Colonies and the responses from German "protectorates."

Grow Own Food Campaign

Making Englishmen "Garden Conscious"

LONDON, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—A campaign to make Englishmen more garden-conscious is being started under the auspices of the Ministry of Agriculture and various societies.

People will be encouraged to grow their own food. During the last war the allotment scheme had hardly begun until 1917, when U-bombs were causing havoc. By 1918 there were 55,000 allotments being worked, and by 1920 there were 1,250,000. This time it is expected that by next spring there will be 1,500,000 allotments in addition to 3,500,000 private gardens.

Nazi fury makes 2 men rich

GERMAN fury over the song "Hanging Out The Washing On The Stegried Line" is helping to swell the fortunes of its two composers—Jimmy Kennedy and Michael Carr.

"We're glad that the Nazis are angry; they've given the song a wonderful, international boost," Michael said.

"Our hope is that we will both be with the boys when they hang out the washing on the Stegried Line."

Jimmy Kennedy, 36-years-old Irish ex-schoolmaster, is now with an anti-aircraft unit "somewhere in England."

Michael, 35-years-old native of Leeds, is an A.R.P. volunteer, waiting his opportunity to enlist in the Army.

THE fashion news for women at the beginning of August was bustles and tight lacing. The fashion news for women at the end of September is—trousers.

Never has a fashion died so quickly.

Current issues of smart magazines, prepared for press before the war, look like records of a bygone age, with their pictures of heavily boned hour-glass corsets.

Whether men like it or not, women are going to wear trousers. Already they are to be seen in the streets of the West End of London. Many women have become accustomed to wearing them in the house. In the security of wartime they are not going to bother changing, which involves putting on corsets, stockings and underwear, when they go out shopping.

Neck To Wrist

Shops are competing with their different designs in air-raid or "siren" suits.

Almost all of them are one-piece trousered garments that cover the wearer from neck to wrist and ankle and are fastened with a single zipper.

Not only air raids, but heat rationing are affecting women's dress. Floppy trousers that cover the instep

Racing Review

(By "Capt. Foster")

Li Lan-sang, has only to enter the distance to pick up the third stake money of $200.

There is no denying that Eve of Harvest and Navylight are long distance mokes, but one would like to see Rose Elect in the fight. It was a bad day when Mr. Eu Tong-sen's star pony lined up for the Double Tenth Plate. She finished in the ruck and pulled up lame.

Blue Express was seriously considered at one time to be a good substitute after his good performance behind Eve of Harvest in the St. George's Plate, but trouble soon followed, and the brown gelding of Mr. Eu was not seen at work for some time. No reason has been offered for the non-entry of Rose Elect and the Singapore millionaire is, for the second consecutive year, without a nomination for the Hongkong St. Leger.

I like Navylight, because I fancy she is a better stayer than Eve of Harvest, but I think Victor's candidate is not to be despised.

CASTLE PEAK H'CAP

(2nd Section)

I EXPECT to see a big field in the second section of the Castle Peak Handicap for "D" class China ponies, and the run is from the two mile post, once round and in.

With Guinness Time out of the road, Emergency Call, who was second in the Human Handicap (second section) over the same jaunt at the Double Tenth Meeting, has been asked to concede two pounds to the third pony Wilber for a beating of half-a-length.

Phoenix, who was fourth in the same run, is nicely weighted, and it looks to me that the race is between these three.

I like the old stunner, Emergency Call, and I understand that Mr. Thurhill is going to be the pilot. For Ying looks tempting for a long shot, and the chestnut gelding is in fine fettle. The pony ran away the other morning with Mr. H. M. Botelho up.

Talkative also caused a little excitement with Mr. Ernest, the rider, but after running away about half-a-mile, the champion jockey had him under control. It will be recalled that the combination annexed the Fukien Plate over half-a-mile in 59½ seconds quite comfortably, but the stately bird is still on the rails.

Think that the bay pony cannot last the distance of over a mile. Portrush has not summered well, and Mrs. Taggart's prospect of either a first, second or third place is remote.

SHUM CHUN H'CAP

(1st Section)

THERE ARE 13 ponies assigned to the first section of the Shum Chun Handicap for "C" class raters over a mile, and the first leg of the daily double is on this event. It will be remembered that Lovely Star, who slipped through the hands of more experienced jockeys by taking the lead and winning the "Connaught Handicap" (second section), has been recalled to this section and the "stinker" will have the same novice, Mr. Trevorson. There is no likelihood that the runaway strategy will work up another success, for in this company there are a few good speedy merchants.

Pinfarthings has been given the honour of carrying the limit weight of 103 lbs. but can he concede 23 lbs. to Galveston Bay? In the Racing Board of the Hongkong Jockey Club, Galveston Bay was fourth in the Austin Handicap, but does not show how many lengths Mr. Dunbar's candidate was beaten by the third pony—Pinfarthings. In that outing Galveston Bay was receiving 10 lbs., whereas, to-morrow, Pinfarthings has to give 7 lbs. more.

I saw Galveston Bay last Wednesday morning, and was much impressed with her gallop over the mile. My tip is Galveston Bay, with Rose-Queen and Taming Master following in the rear. Rose Flana was in very poor condition at the annual big meeting, but the mare has of late been putting on flesh, and she is recommended for big money.

NEW BRIDGE H'CAP

Best Race of Afternoon Anticipated Here

LUCKY LAD was the winner of two important events at the Annual Carnival including the Australian Ponies' Champion, but when the gee-gee came under the control of the gentleman in charge of handling out the weights, he was twice beaten for the first position in the frame.

Strange as it may seem, the form book shows that Lucky Lad (last year's winner of Fremantle St. Leger) has not had a successful outing in anything over a mile, and in the circumstance, the chestnut gelding will have to exert all his propelling power to-morrow in the New Bridge Handicap over six furlongs. Should he fail, the public will be deprived of seeing the Spring champion competing in the Autumn classic.

BEST RACE OF ALL

THE best race of the afternoon will be seen here, and the post of honour has fallen on Lancashire Chips (Mr. Hearn), who has to

A Promise To Germany

To Help Rebuild Her Shattered Life

LONDON, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—In the House of Lords to-day, Lord Stanhope read a statement similar to Sir John Simon's, in the House of Commons.

After the statement was read, the Labour Peer, Lord Snell, declared that most of the noise hitherto had come from Dr. Goebbels. It was a wise speech without being enlightening and helpful.

Ready For Anything

"If this attitude suits the German authorities, it suits us," he said. "Meanwhile we are prepared to meet with fortitude whatever is coming to us, and are ready to consider any peace proposals which will enable the world to live in untroubled peace. We are able to assure the German people that their territory will be respected, that as soon as possible the blockade will be removed, and as soon as Germany has accepted the way of peace, our full co-operation will be given in trying to rebuild her shattered life."

SUBMARINE SEEN OFF SANTIAGO

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 16 (UP).—The newspaper "La Prensa" to-day published unconfirmed reports that several people had sighted a submarine carrying the numerals WJ 147 in the vicinity of Santiago Beach, eight miles north of Manzanillo.

give a few pounds to Courting Eve (Mr. Ph.) and Lucky Lad to be ridden by Mr. Needs, Lancashire Chips and Courting Eve are well tuned; the latter sired by Double Court has made several "hits" over short distances, and the mare is in the pink of condition, her coat shining as an apple.

A lot of course depends upon the start, for we are bound to have a big field, owing to the fact that at the next two meetings the events are more or less of consolation nature. Mr. Black was an "Chit" in her winding-up gallop, as was Mr. Tang on Derby Day, another descendant of Double Court.

SHUM CHUN H'CAP

(2nd Section)

WE HAVE a short list for the second leg of the daily double, and after a close study of the performances done by the nine "C" class China ponies assigned to the second section of Shum Chun Handicap, the sparkling display of Royal Highness in her last two outings strikes me as the best provided of course, Mr. Needs is in the saddle.

The opposition comes from Laughing Girl and Salvage Master, and these three mares will finish (I hope) in the order I have named. Soldier of China was out for a trial run, but the gallop did not appear to me in the least, and, furthermore, the coat of the grey steed was as dull as a turnip.

NEWCASTLE H'CAP

Open Event For Last Race Of The Day

ROOFLY (the winner of the Queensland Handicap at the last meeting) has been penalised 12 lbs., and the extra lead may be the obstacle preventing a duplicate success in the closing event, the Newcastle Handicap for "C" class Australian ponies over the same jaunt, a scramble from the ½ mile post (about half mile 160 yards).

I asked readers in my notes on the eve of the last meeting to look for the ponies drawing the third to the sixth berths from the rails, and Teofly, the winner, had fifth position.

There is an old racing legend that one can give away weight, but not distance, and there cannot exist a more truthful maxim in the sprinting events. Our course is undoubtedly on the narrow side, and should all the 17 entries accept the Newcastle Handicap to-morrow, those good "uns left at the post will have to fly over the field to catch the judge's eye. In my opinion the event is very open and anything may happen. Bratus will be ridden by Mr. Ph instead of the owner, who is away in the camp and the mokes is worth following up, with Tarzan and Violet Queen.

possible in Britain. It gave them practice, too, in flying over unknown territory. And it showed that in the R.A.F. Britain had a mighty force of trained men and superb machines.

Air Chief Marshal Sir Cyril Newall has recreated the R.A.F. He has cut down drill and concentrated on flying. He has refused to tolerate any ostentation.

"Low flying is seldom necessary. And then it is to be carried out under specific orders," he has said, following it with the warning, "Showing off entails a considerable risk of valuable machines and the money and care that have gone to the training of a pilot. I will not have it."

His influence is not confined to Britain. France began to speed up her plane production in 1938. Sir Cyril kept in close and constant touch with the French authorities.

It is owing to this co-operation and the unstinting energy and enthusiasm of the French that the Allied Air Arm works and fights as one machine.

CONVICT SENT FROM PRISON TO BE WITH DYING MOTHER

A MOTHER became seriously ill at her home in Battersea, S.W., and cried because she could not see her son—a convict in Dartmoor Prison.

As she lay there, alone, the bedroom door opened and her son came to her bedside, smiling.

In the passage outside two warders waited quietly, while the son told his mother that he had been freed.

When the son left, he joined the two warders outside, and they returned for the night to a London prison.

Recently the son, back in Dartmoor, wrote a letter of thanks to Sir Samuel Hoare, who arranged the visit—one of his last acts as Home Secretary.

PINING

And this is how mother and son came to meet again. Some days ago the chaplain at Dartmoor Prison received a letter saying that the mother—her life now being counted in weeks—pined for her convict son.

It said:— "If she can see him again, for no matter how short a time, she will die less unhappily."

The chaplain saw the convict in his cell. Together they wrote a petition to Sir Samuel Hoare, then Home Secretary, asking for temporary liberty.

An overnight telegram from Sir Samuel said "Yes."

The two warders took the convict to a London jail after all three had dressed in civilian clothes.

The son saw his mother twice again before she died. She never knew the warders waited outside, and died believing her son was free.

Of this act of mercy all that the Home Office said was:— "Such incidents are not uncommon. One question only is asked when petitions of this nature are received—Is it genuine?"

Now it is for Sir John Anderson, the new Home Secretary, to consider another request from the son—that he may be freed in time to join up and fight for Britain.

CHURCHES NAZIFIED IN REICH

BERLIN.

IT is officially disclosed that Roman Catholic and Protestant churches had been placed under wartime restrictions.

Spokesmen say the measures were made necessary by the war and do not constitute an attempt to interfere with the church.

Under the restrictions the number of Roman Catholic church publications, such as diocesan organs and natural scientific and religious research publications, will be limited to five. This was attributed to rationing of paper.

Some churches have been closed. These are in outlying sections and it was explained worshippers there could not reach bomb shelters in time in case of emergency.

Work was reported continuing as usual at Fulda, seat of Germany's huge "People's Car" industry. With the rationing of gasoline, however, most workers have been unable to operate automobiles.

Similarly, it was said that construction was uninterrupted on the huge workers' resort being built to accommodate 20,000 on Rugen Island, off the north coast of Germany.

The labour front announced the teaching of apprentices was speeded. It was said Germany feels a shortage of skilled workers.

sounds became louder again, then more depth charges—close, frightfully close.

That second attack put out lights, shattered delicate instruments, and caused worse flooding. Very soon the U-boat's stern was full of water, which came spurting in the pipes and rivet holes in the bulkhead. She developed a heavy list. More water started to seep into the interior through the damaged conning tower.

The compressed air was leaking. There was only enough pressure left to blow the tanks and come to the surface and give the crew a chance for their lives, which the commander decided to do.

THE rest of the story has been told. Shortly after the rescue of her crew that submarine flung her bows vertically into the air, and sank stern first in a flutter of whitened water and an over-widening patch of iridescent oil spreading over the surface of the sea.

Frantic Nazi Efforts To Buy In Balkans

Private reports from Balkan capitals reveal that Germany's frantic efforts to increase her purchases there have largely failed.

She has imported nearly all her promised quota of petrol and grain until the summer of 1940, and Balkan Governments are asking for cash, as Germany is not manufacturing enough goods for barter.

Killed By A Mistake

MRS. ELIZABETH SARAH JUDGE, aged 73, of Parkfield, Stepney, E., heard a policeman's whistle and thought it was an air raid warning.

She hurried to take cover, fell downstairs and died from her injuries. The verdict at the inquest was accidental death.

The Siegfried (Clothes) Line

It takes a holdier to know the stuff to give the troops—especially in the song line. And so Jimmy Kennedy, a gunner in the Anti-Aircraft, and his partner, Michael Carr, wrote the first big war-time comedy song.

It's called "We're Gonna Hang Out the Washing on the Siegfried Line," and Arthur Askey "baptised" it in the R.B.C.'s "Band Wagon."

The song was written in the odd hours that Kennedy was able to snatch from camp duties, and it has a rattling melody and words that are easy enough to catch on. You might as well get to know them because you're likely to be hearing them a lot!

We're going to hang out the washing on the Siegfried Line. Have you any dirty washing, mother dear? We're going to hang out the washing on the Siegfried Line. 'Cos washing day is here. Whether the weather's wet or fine. We'll rub along without a care. We're going to hang out the washing on the Siegfried Line. If the Siegfried Line's still there!

"Black-Out Eyes" Now

"BLACK-OUT eyes" are keeping oculists busy.

It is estimated that ten per cent. of Britain's 45,000,000 are suffering from eye-strain and headaches after 16 nights of darkness.

"It is too early yet to say if the national eyecight will be seriously affected by night after night of blackness," the Sunday Dispatch was told by a Harley-street eye specialist.

"One thing is certain—more people will have to wear glasses with special counteracting lens unless they want to be tormented by headaches."

"The symptoms of 'black-out eye' are widely dilated pupils with every movement of the eyes causing pain."

"The reason is that the dilating muscle of the eye has been working overtime in the dark. It grows sluggish and redness appears in the corners of the eyes."

"Motorists are among the chief sufferers, since the ever-present threat of accident keeps them peering ahead."

"At the first sign of pain a visit should be paid to an oculist."

"An excellent home remedy is to bathe the eyes night and morning with hot water and boracic powder or some other eye lotion."

HOW TO SHORTEN CONVALESCENCE

A long convalescence is tedious and tiring to both doctor and patient. After many operations and illnesses, digestion is affected and impaired, yet it is necessary to eat well to regain your strength quickly.

The trouble is that the very thought of food is often repulsive. Doctors have found that Horlicks is generally liked by the patient and that it is very quickly digested, and absorbed. Horlicks quickly pours new strength and vigour into your exhausted body. Your convalescence is shortened. Soon you feel full of life again. Keep Horlicks always ready at home.

Peace vs. Appeasement

The persistence with which the world clings to hopes of peace is cause for deep gratitude. So long as clear distinctions are made between
 genuine peace and a mere absence
 of war which leaves the evils that cause war more rampant than ever
 this demand will work for good.
 The plea for a clearer definition of
 war aims may be difficult for Britain
 and France to answer in detail at this time, but in the end the democratic effort to understand what
 the war is about will clarify the situation. And the clearer it becomes the stronger will be the position of every right purpose.

Individuals and nations have nothing to fear from letting the truth
 come out. Suggestions of a false
 peace fill the air. And some earnest
 people who think anything called
 peace is better than anything called
 war are accepting them at face value.
 Some unconsciously are permitting
 fear of physical destruction or a false
 humanitarianism to loom larger than moral values. Others for better
 reasons may echo the Moscow paper
 "Izvestia," which a few weeks ago
 was glossing over the start of war now emphasises "senseless slaughter"

and declares: "Continuation of the
 war cannot be justified by anything."
 In England there are voices urging
 a clarification of national purposes.
 Reconstituting Poland without defeating Russia looks difficult. And some say that winning a long war against Hitlerism might bring a peace
 dominated by Communism, or result in a general deterioration of European civilisation worse than an undefined
 expansion of Germany.

In neutral countries there is a great
 body of thought which believes that war would be worth while only for the establishment of a new world order. This opinion will be won only
 by something more than a negative
 statement of war aims. It would respond to the idealism of peace aims
 which looked beyond any national or racial advantage to a more just and peaceful world. British-French liberalism can make this appeal to most
 Russian Communism or German nationalism.

On the whole, thought which clings
 to peace expresses the best and largest hopes of mankind. And clarification of the issues involved in the present struggle, particularly if France and Britain enunciate peace
 aims with real hope in them, will strengthen not only their peoples, but
 win a hearing among many Germans,
 and appeal to the aspirations of
 neutrals and those in every country
 who seek peace with sure foundations.
 In the main the difference between
 appeasement and peace is understood.
 And there is every reason to expect
 aims will make it clearer—Christian Science Monitor.

AIR CHIEF MARSHAL

Sir Cyril Louis Norton Newall is the supreme head of the Royal Air Force. It is a fitting command for him, for he was one of the first men in Britain to realise the fighting potentialities of the aeroplane.

He is the son of an Army
 colonel. Born in India fifty-three years ago, he decided to make the Army his career. He went to Sandhurst and joined an infantry regiment in 1905.

Shortly afterwards he was transferred to the Indian Army.
 Life seemed mapped out for him.

But in 1911 he came home to England on furlough. There he saw something that changed his life. He saw a strange contraption of metal, wire, and canvas
 that men christened an aero-plane. At once some kind of revolution took place in his mind.
 He cancelled all his social engagements and spent every day
 of his furlough taking flying lessons. Before he went back to India he had qualified as a pilot.

He talked earnestly to the authorities in India and persuaded them to put him in charge of the formation of a flying school.

IN 1914, when war broke out,
 he joined the Royal Flying Corps with the rank of flight-commander and went to France with No. 1 Squadron. In 1915 he formed No. 12 Squadron and later commanded it in France.

In 1917 Sir Cyril was appointed to command the 41st (Bombing) Wing, which was formed near Nancy in order to carry out bombing operations against German objectives as a counteroffensive to the air-raids on London. This Wing was the forerunner of the independent Air Force, created by Lord Trenchard in 1918. He commanded the 8th Brigade of this new Force.

His courage was proved time
 and time again during the war.
 He was mentioned three times
 in dispatches.

In 1916 he was awarded the Albert Medal for an act of conspicuous bravery. A fire broke out in a Royal Flying Corps
 store. In the store were 2,000 high explosive bombs. If the flames reached them, there would be an explosion causing enormous loss of life and property. Sir Cyril, then a young officer, called for volunteers and led them inside the blazing store. They worked amid the flames and smoke for nearly half an hour before subduing
 the blaze, knowing that at any moment the fire might reach the bombs.

AFTER the war he served as Chief Staff Officer in the South Eastern Area. He was Air Aide-de-Camp to King George V during 1923-24 and after promotion to the rank of Air Commodore in January, 1925, he was appointed Air Officer Commanding, Headquarters, Special Reserve, and Auxiliary Air Force.

He was promoted to the rank of Air Vice-Marshal and made an additional member of the Air Council in 1930, and in 1935 was given the rank of Air Marshal.

Since 1937, he has been Chief of Air Staff, the supreme head of the Air Arm.

But success and high command have not blunted his imagination. He will always listen to new ideas and accept them if they have useful possibilities.

IT was under his command that the silver-grey barrage balloons rose in the London sky. He separated the two departments of maintenance and fighting to allow the active service officers to concentrate on the job of ensuring the military efficiency of their units.

He organised the pre-war flights of the R.A.F. over France, a brilliant manoeuvre with a triple purpose.

How the Navy Works at Sea

The following account of a recent successful U-Boat hunt, compiled from the account of an eye-witness, is issued by the Admiralty.

DESTROYERS were at sea on an independent search for submarines in northern waters.

The weather was typical,
 with a shrewd wind from the north-north-west causing the tops of the little seas to break, and a cross swell from another direction.

The sky was grey and overcast, with occasional squalls of rain blotting out
 the horizon and shutting down the visibility to about seven miles.

Reports received announced that an enemy submarine had been located some distance to the southward. Within a few minutes
 they were steaming in the direction indicated at something over thirty knots.

It took them some hours to reach the reported position; but arriving, they slowed down and started to quarter the sea according to the prearranged
 plan. Their guns were manned, and depth charges ready. Extra lookouts were on the bridge, and the ships' companies keyed up to the idea of action. They all knew what was in the wind.

Though it was afternoon, and those who had kept night watches might reasonably have been asleep, there were few men
 on the messdecks.

THE search continued. For some time nothing happened. Then,
 quite suddenly, a flag hoisted by one of the destroyers indicated that the scent had been picked up. The deadly Aedias were at work. The remorseless hunt began.

Depth-charges after depth-charges were dropped or projected from the throwers—not haphazard, but according to schemes invented and tried out long before the war.

The thudding detonations of those massive canisters about the size of ordinary dustbins seemed to squeeze the air, and caused the sea momentarily to shimmer as if beaten by heavy rain.

Exploding at various depths below
 water, they shook the ships from which they were projected, and raised huge mushroom-shaped hum-mucks of white water which burst upwards in great spouts of spray tinged grey by the high explosive.

The explosions died away, and there came the inevitable suspense
 as to whether the attack had been successful. Many eyes scanned the sea for the signs of a submarine breaking surface, or oil or wreckage floating up from the depths. But for the time nothing appeared.

COLLECTING his destroyers, the senior officer checked another attack. Once more the depth-charges were dropped according to plan—
 this time with success.

About half-a-mile astern of one of the destroyers the conning tower and long hull of a submarine suddenly broke surface bow first in a swirl of water. The U-boat's stern was still under water when her conning tower lid opened, and men started to tumble up on deck. She might have a sting left. Nobody was to know if she intended to surrender,
 and risks could not be taken.

But it was a case of surrender.
 Some of the U-boat's crew could be seen to be leaping overboard. Others were holding up their hands. Her bows started to lift as the stern
 slowly went under.

Destroyers approached, stopped,
 and went astern to check their way.
 Boats were lowered. They rescued
 the entire crew, some from the waters, some from the submarine herself. They were described as youngish men and bearded, some still self-possessed, but others obviously shaken by their ordeal. They were well cared for by their rescuers, who gave them Navy rum and warm clothing.

THOSE U-boat men described what had happened inside the submarine—first the sound of the heavy ing destroyers' propellers becoming louder and louder; then the thudding detonation of the first depth-charges,
 coming closer all the time.

The first attack caused serious damage to their submarine and made her leak. There came a short respite, during which the propeller sounds
 could be heard receding, and left men wondering whether the hunters
 had given up the chase.

VAIN HOPE! Unseen, invisible fingers were soon dropping again beneath our waters. The propeller

Strong Enough To Bear Crisis Costs

HELSINGFORS, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—Another refutation of the Soviet claims that Finland cannot long bear the cost of her mobilisation was given in a statement issued to-day by the governor of the Bank of Finland.

Reports of Finnish inflation were quite untrue, he said. The Government had not borrowed a single penny from the Bank of Finland.

Finland could go on producing enough to fulfil her own requirements and at the same time maintain her exports.

Splendid Export Trade
To-day her export trade was 90 per cent. of its pre-war level. Finland's greatest advantages were her unlimited credit and goodwill in the world.

On the previous evening, M. Paasikivi, the special Finnish envoy to the Moscow talks, had revealed that Finland's trade with Soviet Russia depended only to the extent of two per cent. of the total.

Press Attacks Continue
MOSCOW, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—The Moscow Press and wireless continue their attacks on Finland.

A few hours after the Finnish delegation had returned to Helsinki, the Moscow wireless accused Finland's rulers of adopting an anti-Soviet attitude with Britain's support.

The Moscow Press alleges that the Finnish army and press have been instructed to incite the Russians.

Italy Biding Her Time Will Oppose Soviet Expansion

ROME, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—Italy will remain in a state of armed peace until her legitimate interests are respected and can be satisfied, states the newspaper "Tribuna," in explaining Signor Mussolini's speech at the opening of the academic year of Italian universities yesterday.

The "Gazzetta del Popolo," in a leader, gives an idea of the circumstances in which Italy will feel called on to intervene.

The writer says: "Italy can never permit Bolshevik Russia to advance further beyond the Carpathians into the Danube Valley, or into the Balkans towards the Mediterranean."

Caught In His Own Trap

Nasty Surprise For Goering's Pilots

LONDON, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—Field Marshal Goering's factories are to help to shoot down Goering's air force.

A British firm, which used to make gramophones and wireless sets, planned shortly before the war to start to make predictors used for getting the range for anti-aircraft guns.

Special machinery was required and a search eventually led to German factories for this machinery, which is now manufacturing predictors which will be used by Britain's anti-aircraft defences.

GERMAN VESSEL WRECKED

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 16 (UP).—A report from Stockholm says that the German motorship Eila of Hamburg, with a crew of six men was wrecked in the Skagerrak under dramatic circumstances.

Three members of the crew are missing and are believed to have been drowned.

At midnight, S.O.S. signals from an ordinary lantern were observed from Huvudskär, but it was impossible to go out with the pilot boats due to a storm.

This morning, a naval plane made a search, and assisted by the pilot boats, rescued three members of the crew after several hours of heroic work.

Interest In Gilt Edged Securities

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

LONDON, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—Gilt-edged securities attracted practically all to-day's small buying.

Interest and prices were moving higher.

Other groups were quiet, and mainly steady. Rubber was failing to respond to the announcement of the increased export quota, which was in accordance with expectations.

NEW MINISTRY FOR ASSAM

SHILLONG, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—It is officially announced that Sir Khudiram Basu, former Premier and Leader of the Opposition in the Assam Legislative Assembly, has agreed to form a new Ministry.

New Air Route To Hongkong Britain And China Looking Ahead

LONDON, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—The Chinese Government's proposals for an air service between Akyab or Rangoon and Kunming, with an extension to Hongkong and Shanghai "as soon as conditions permit," have been accepted by the British Government, according to the "Exchange Telegraph."

Notes dated January were only published to-night.

The arrangement will remain in force for five years.

Under the scheme, British and Chinese companies will both be operating, but the British Government undertakes, after cessation of Sino-Japanese hostilities, to discuss with the Chinese Government the desirability of forming a Sino-British company further to develop the route, and eventually to take over operation of the services from the companies concerned.

economic warfare, and shipping, while a number of meetings were held with representatives of the individual Dominions on various special problems.

The progress already made was most encouraging.

The overseas representatives to France and the defence preparations in Britain had given them an opportunity of judging for themselves the magnitude of our war effort and had given a fuller knowledge of how Empire assistance may best be utilised.

Accelerating Convoy System
The Minister of Shipping and the First Lord of the Admiralty were discussing the acceleration of the system of convoys.

Further convoys would be established and the number of convoys increased as more escorting vessels became available.

Our destroyers had steamed hundreds of thousands of miles. One was sunk by a mine.

Four enemy ships were taken last week, and two large vessels were scuttled on November 12 and 13.

Our merchantmen continued to sail in great numbers notwithstanding that the crews now had to face torpedo, mine and air attacks.

Land Operations Curtailed
Bad weather had curtailed land operations.

The enemy planes raiding the Shetland Islands on November 14 dropped 12 bombs on land and eight in the sea. They caused no casualties and negligible damage.

There had been considerable activity in the air but no major engagements.

Mr. Attlee Speaks
Mr. Clement R. Attlee, the Labour Opposition Leader, followed Sir John Simon and regretted that the German Government has so summarily rejected the Hague peace effort.

"We all hope that those peaceful countries will not be drawn into the war," he said.

Mr. Attlee welcomed the statement about the visits of General Sikorski and M. Reynaud, and especially the Dominions' representatives.

The list of subjects discussed with the overseas visitors, however, did not include formulation of peace aims.

It also was not too early to give full consideration to the importance of planning for peace in Britain.

Tribute To Queen Wilhelmina
Sir Archibald Sinclair, the Liberal Leader, particularly welcomed the Anglo-French economic and financial co-operation because the two countries would sink or swim together.

So would the sterling and the franc, and nothing but the closest co-operation would avail to save them.

Sir Archibald declared that they owed a great debt to Queen Wilhelmina for her bold initiative and for her assertion of the principles of reason and justice even amid the clamour of war.

Moreover, it had cleared the air for no later could it be argued that the war was forced upon Hitler.

The British Government must be ready to give prompt support, if the duty of protecting their neutrality and liberty was imposed upon Holland and Belgium by Hitler.

They would not be forgiven if those countries were made victims of German aggression without effective help being given by us, he concluded.

U.S. ARMAMENTS FOR ALLIES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (Reuter).

The State Department does not confirm reports that British and French orders of American armaments are held up pending the legal interpretation of the "Cash and Carry" clause.

What actually happened was that certain California plane manufacturers were told that they would have to show that the transactions really observed the clause before they would be allowed to make shipments.

Rush To Purchase Finnish Bonds

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

HELSINGFORS, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—It is announced that the defence loan of 500,000,000 Finnish marks has been over-subscribed by about 100,000,000 marks.

A second loan, of a similar amount, may now be floated.

THE HONGKONG CRAWL

Gripps Artistes To Introduce Novelty

BOOMPS - A - DAISY, which took London by storm six months ago, has become Hongkong's greatest dancing craze.

People are "boomping" at all the hotels, and dance orchestras booked for forthcoming club events have been asked to include it in their repertoire.

New Dave Harvey and the Dyer Sisters, who introduced Booms to Hongkong, have invented a new "chummy" dance which should prove equally popular.

They have named it the "Hongkong Crawl," and will demonstrate it at the Hongkong Hotel to-morrow night.

After the demonstration everyone will be asked to join in the fun.

Here are the words, set to a catchy tune:

Put your arms around her waist;
Skip along the floor, there's no haste;
Rock to and fro,
That's the Hongkong Crawl.

Take two steps and turn about,
Take two more and then you shout
One—two—three—four
That's the Hongkong Crawl.

NO DOUBT OF OUTCOME

Dominions Minister On Visit To Front

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
LONDON, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—"I can assure you that your visit was an inspiration to us all," said Mr. Anthony Eden, Secretary for the Dominions, speaking to the members of the Overseas League in London on his return from a visit to the Western Front with the representatives of the Dominions and the Government of India.

"Nobody who saw what we saw could have the least doubt, if they ever had any, of the ultimate outcome of this struggle."

Good Heart
"We found our own people in very good heart—though in rather unpleasant physical conditions such as usually exist, as many of us know, in Northern France."

"We were immensely impressed with the efficient French Army; the excellent morale of the officers and men, and the confident calm in which they were awaiting whatever the future may hold."

Ladder Used In Escape
Internee Drama Told In Court

The escape of 15 inmates from the Chinese Soldiers' Internment Camp on Wednesday night had a sequel at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court before Mr. E. Himsforth this morning when Au Tak-sing, 36, was charged with attempting to escape from the camp.

Inspector Rogers, who prosecuted, said that at 6.45 p.m. on Wednesday the lights in the camp fused and the inmates made their escape by climbing over a wall with a roughly-constructed ladder.

The next morning, defendant was found to have a number of scratches in his hands and, on being questioned, admitted having attempted to escape from the camp.

He said he was the last man to go up the wall, but the ladder broke and he fell down on some barbed wire, thus scratching his hands.

Although 15 men made good their escape, Defendant was sentenced to two weeks' hard labour.

Expropriation By Mexico

Supreme Court To Decide Oil Issue

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—The Supreme Court will probably deliver final judgment regarding the expropriation of foreign petroleum interests early next week.

The proceedings to-day were occupied by reading part of the 50,000 word judgment by Judge Alsina, supporting the view that the expropriation was constitutional.

The latter part of the judgment will be read on Friday, after which other judges will consider their verdicts.

It is regarded as certain that expropriation dating from March, 1938, will be declared null and void.

Apparently, while it is proposed to pay indemnification and interest affected for everything installed for the development of the industry, no compensation is envisaged for the loss of the concessions.

Readers Get Money's Worth

World-Wide Reduction In Newspaper Size

READERS of newspapers in Hongkong are obtaining much more than the usual world-wide value for their money.

With the possible exception of the United States, newspapers throughout the world have been drastically cut in size.

Hongkong newspapers have, in common with those published elsewhere, been reduced. But the reduction here is nothing compared with that taking place in other parts of the world.

By mutual agreement, all the London newspapers have been reduced to eight pages.

A twenty per cent. cut in size was instituted in Singapore directly on the outbreak of war.

The Totalitarians are faring even worse. Some German newspapers, owing to paper shortage, have been reduced to a single sheet.

The Government has ordered that all newspapers must be reduced to four pages.

Reduction of the size of newspapers is necessitated by the world shortage of newsprint. Cellulose, one of the constituents, is needed for war purposes.

weather can be easily imagined," the information adds.

Chinese Resisting
SHUIKWAN, Nov. 17 (Central).—Stubborn resistance is being put up by the Chinese against the Japanese landing on the south Kwangtung coast.

Japanese naval guns started a fierce bombardment of Lungmen on Wednesday morning. In between the salvos Japanese marines attempted to land. Chinese troops lurking in the trenches greeted the invaders with intense machine-gun fire. A number of pillboxes were sunk, resulting in many Japanese being killed.

After several abortive landings, the Japanese withdrew to their warships. But taking advantage of a heavy fog at night they effected a landing. Chinese defence works were demolished by the terrific Japanese bombardment.

Landing was also made at Fong-shing on the same day. Several times before the Japanese could get a firm foothold, the Chinese charged and drove them back with heavy losses. However, additional Japanese troops were sent ashore yesterday.

Occupying favourable positions, the Chinese at both Lungmen and Fong-shing are resisting effectively.

Washington Interest
WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—Mr. Sumner Welles, the U.S. Under Secretary of State, declared that the State Department was watching Japan's latest invasion in the Pakhoi region.

He added that he was uncertain that American interests, if any, were involved, but the Department nevertheless was obtaining information concerning the move.

has increased, a D.N.B. communique states.

"Contrary to repeated reports from the enemy of their continued destruction of German U-boats, reports are continually arriving, especially to-day and yesterday, about the losses of English steamers."

"Reuters" reported that the German steamer Schwabenland has been sunk by a British cruiser, despite the fact that the Schwabenland has been in a German harbour since August, the communique claims.

The crew of the German steamer Parana sank the steamer when British warships approached, the German report admits.

Protest Planned

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
BERGEN, Nov. 16 (UP).—The Oslo correspondent of the "National Tidende" reports that the Norwegian Government is planning a protest to Germany against the ruthless sinking without warning of the Arne Kjoede.

Denmark may be asked to join, since the Kjoede carried a cargo of oil consigned to Copenhagen.

Denmark Will Wait
SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
COPENHAGEN, Nov. 16 (UP).—It is officially stated that the Danish authorities are not planning any action at present, pending clarification as to whether the Arne Kjoede was torpedoed or struck a mine.

Egyptian Prince's Red Cross Gift

LONDON, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—Prince Mohamed Ali, cousin of King Farouk of Egypt, has given £1,000 to the British Red Cross, £500 to the French Red Cross and £500 to the Turkish Red Crescent.

Ceylon Contributes
LONDON, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—A sum of £2,000 has been received by the Lord Mayor's Red Cross Fund from the people of Ceylon.

This sum, it is stated, is the first instalment.

What They Say—AUSTRALIA PRAISED

LONDON, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—The British press to-day concerned itself chiefly with the speech of Mr. R. G. Menzies, the Australian Premier, and the visit of M. Reynaud, the French Minister of Finance to England.

The "Daily Telegraph" stresses Mr. Menzies' remark that no compromise can assure the world of enduring peace. It points out that it is a pity that the German people cannot hear Mr. Menzies, as they would then lose their Goebbel dream that the British Empire will be disrupted by a clash of arms.

If they did hear it, they would know that the Australian Government and people, and no less other parts of the Empire possessed the same spirit as Great Britain, against whom the fury of the Nazis was primarily directed.

War Of Endurance
The "Times" stresses that this war will ultimately be a war of endurance, and the economic field there was no limit to the assistance given by Australia and other dominions.

The "Daily Telegraph" says that the Allies' economic weapons are increasing rapidly. M. Reynaud's visit had served to establish even closer contact between the British and French treasuries. Thus we have obtained what was hardly the case from 1914 to 1918—unity of the financial policy of the Allies.

The paper pays tribute to M. Reynaud and the financial resources of France. Britain and France had a greater gold reserve capable of conversion to American exchange than was the case in 1914, and their national plans were based on the idea of paying as much as possible for the war by taxation, and at the same time preserving or even replenishing the economic stability.

Germany, on the other hand, had an empty treasury and an emaciated economy.

NEW GOVERNOR OF ALASKA

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (UP).—President Roosevelt to-day formally nominated Mr. Ernest H. Gruening, attached to the Office of the Secretary of the Interior, to be territorial Governor of Alaska in succession to Mr. John W. Troy, who is retiring.

POOR ENTRIES FOR H.K. ST. LEGER

Battle Royal Expected Between Navylight And Eve Of Harvest

THE HONGKONG ST. LEGER celebrates its fourteenth birthday to-morrow, having been inaugurated in 1926, but the most important classic event on the card of the Eleventh Extra Race Meeting has not been able to attract more than four China ponies, griffins of this season.

At the Annual Carnival last February, Mr. Eu Tong-sen entered ten griffins; Rose Elect annexing the Hongkong Derby and the Champion Stakes, but the category commonly known as "on the walking list" has claimed his fine champion pony, and the philanthropist has no nomination.

ALTHOUGH the entries for the Hongkong St. Leger are very poor indeed, both Sir Victor Sassoon and Mr. Eric Moller of Shanghai are making a strong bid to secure the premier honour, especially the latter. It will be recalled that one of the finest and most thrilling St. Leger races was seen this time last year, when Mr. Eric Moller's Silkylight, ably assisted by the owner's son, Mr. R. B. Moller, bounced Mr. Dunbar's Confusion Bay by one and a half lengths in three minutes 29.7 seconds for a course of 1 1/4 miles, and the last quarter was 20 1/2 seconds.

Shooting Record Equalled

Using a service rifle with open sights at the Kowloon City Rifle ranges on Wednesday, Sgt. P. Hale, of the Middlesex Regt., equalled the record score for the season when he totalled 101 with a scratch handicap. He secured a possible at 500 yards.

His scores were:

Yds	500	600	Total
34	35	32	101

Visibility was poor at 600 yards.

NO-"B" CLASS RACES

IN addition to the above race there are seven handicap events for Australian and China ponies, but no provision has been made for the "B" class races.

The inclusion of two contests for top-notchers in the Taipo Handicap and the New Bridge Handicap respectively is of some interest, because one pony must start to qualify for the Hongkong Autumn Champions, and another must win to become eligible for the Queensland Autumn Champions to be run on December 16. Apart from the fact that the weight controller has handed him to the glimsoft, Confusion Bay, owned by Mr. Dunbar, must accept for the Taipo Handicap (the pony has already scored two wins) so as to meet the requirement of three outings during the extra stages.

Lucky Lad, the winner of Australian Ponies Champions, is in a precarious position, for his failure to secure first place in the New Bridge Handicap will put the Lucky stable's candidate out of the Queensland Autumn Champions.

With the promise of much cooler weather, I see no reason why the attendance to-morrow should not be a bumper house, and racegoers are reminded that first saddling bell will be rung at 1.30 p.m.

THE ELEVENTH EXTRA RACE MEETING will be held (weather permitting) at HAPPY VALLEY on SATURDAY, 18th November, 1939, commencing at 2.00 p.m.

MEMBERS' ENCLOSURE

No One without a badge will be admitted to the Members' Enclosure. Such must be worn throughout the duration of each Meeting in such a manner as to be readily identified. Hongkong, 13th November, 1939.

China ponies over the mile. Mr. Dunbar's racer had a stronger field to lick in the October Handicap, but, with Eve of Harvest reserved for the Hongkong St. Leger, I cannot see anything to beat Confusion Bay.

CASTLE PEAK H'CAP (1st Section)

AS CLOWNER, Royal Highness, Sunlight View and Sylvandale have been put by the classification sub-committee into a higher standard, the handicapper has transferred a good few from the lower division to the first section of the Castle Peak Handicap for "D" class China ponies over a distance from the two mile post, once round and in.

The inclusion of Bistre from the "C" class to this section will no doubt add a certain amount of interest to the pari-mutuel department, but I am afraid the pony has a stiff proposition before him. He is 1932 sub-class, and, no doubt, is lacking speed and energy.

Spotting the winner is not so easy as it looks owing to the difficulty of "setting a line." Strathbaunock is at the head of the assessment, but I prefer to see him over a shorter distance.

WEIGHT ADJUSTMENTS

WHEN they met in the Jordan Handicap (second section) over a mile on October 7, Kut Cheung, the winner, was in receipt of 3 lbs. from Guinness Time, whereas, to-morrow, both are set on the same level; the former beat the latter by three lengths. The adjustment favours Kut Cheung. Some Hope, who was officially fourth in the same event, was handi-capped with an allowance of 10 lbs., and surely he should be considered.

It seems that Night View and Plain View have been let in with only 140 lbs. to shoulder among the old timers, but I would like to remind punters that both geese are blackie, and, in the circumstances, not much confidence can be placed. Plain View has changed ownership, and there is a possibility that the black chimp will run better for the new stable—Lee and Lee.

H.K. ST. LEGER

Only Two Entries To Be Considered

VERY POOR RESPONSE has been shown to the last classic of the year, the Hongkong St. Leger for China ponies, griffins of this season, there being only four entries. There are only two claimants for the big contest, and the issue will be between Eve of Harvest and Navylight.

I doubt if Galaxy will face the

(By "Pilgrim")

I WAS VERY PLEASED with the verdict and the method in which the H.K.L.H.A. dealt with the D.G.S. Recreio incident. An apology from the Captain of the D.G.S. to the umpire is only fair.

It would be a grave error on the part of any governing body to over-rule the decision of an umpire on matters of fact. It would create a position that would become untenable, and voluntary umpires would refuse to continue to officiate.

I hope the girls will bear this in mind—that whether a decision by an umpire is good or bad, it must remain unchallenged. If an umpire is incompetent, a report to the Umpires' Association is welcome. There is always an obvious and proper course to pursue.

THE Hongkong Ladies Hockey Association commence their League fixtures to-morrow, and the women have once again approached the Umpire's Association with regard to supplying them with umpires.

Officers at the moment are scarce, and it is rather doubtful if a sufficient number will be available to control the Junior or Brown Cup League. Should this be impossible, Junior Club Secretaries will be called upon to select their own neutral umpires.

However, I am glad to observe that Miss D. Moss, of the C.B.A., has consented to accept the post of Acting Hon. Secretary of the H.K.L.H.A.

THE Hongkong Ladies, who had their best side out so far this season, defeated the Central British Association 4-0 last Saturday. Mrs. Lunson played a grand game in goal, and a general improvement, especially in defence, was noticed. The best defenders were Miss G. Swan, centre-half, and Miss Green, left back.

In the second half, the Island attack showed promise and kept the home team continually on the defensive. Miss Mary, Miss M. Smalley and Mrs. Dalziel played cleverly, and scored the goals between them.

Miss J. Greig made rather a useful umpire, but was rather weak on the off-side rule. It would help her a great deal if she kept in line with the backs in order to observe when a player is really off-side.

The Hongkong Ladies showed better combination than usual, and deserved their victory.

THE C.B.A., on occasions, attacked strongly, but Miss I. Cunningham and Mrs. Quirk in the attack formed a poor combination. I am certain Miss A. Smith is not a forward, and would be seen to better advantage in the half-back line where she is more at home. Miss S. Baxter was good and did much useful work on the left wing.

MISS I. Woolley, in the half-back line, was outstanding, while Miss B. Parsons, right back, played an excellent game. But drastic changes must be made with the C.B.A. forwards if they hope to improve their attack.

APPEARING at King's Park without the services of Lt. Hook, Sgt. Carter and Marshall, the Royal Artillery did well to

THE ARMY held their first series of hockey trials at Sookunpoo yesterday. Much promising talent was on view, and throughout the three periods of 20 minutes the hockey was most interesting.

None of the goalkeepers were really tested, but the backs were quite prominent. Outstanding among the latter were Datta Ram, of the Rajputana Rifles, and Hazara Singh, of the 10th Heavy Regiment, R.A. Both spoiled brilliantly, and were cool under pressure.

The half-back line, however, offered problems. Few of those playing yesterday were up to form. Dhillon, of the Gunners, and Austen, of the Signals, were about the best in the wing positions. There should be little difficulty over the centre berth. Lt. Hook was there yesterday and played his usual brilliant game.

FORWARD PROBLEM

The forward are another problem. Sgt. Homburg, of the Sappers, had a particularly fine match at inside-right. He scored one of the two goals of the afternoon with a perfect cross-shot. Shah Wali, of the Rajputana Rifles, seems indicated for the outside-right position. Marshall, of the Gunners, tried both inside-left and outside-left, and has a very reliable reverse stick. The problem of the left wing, however, will be that of the right. Nerrain Singh and Partab Singh, of the Kumaons, are an acknowledged great left wing combination, as are Shah Wali and Lt. Indrajit Singh on the right. With Lt. Pritam Nath in the centre, there is there a most effective forward line. Where, then, are Homburg and Marshall to fit in?

Further trials, however, will be held, and it is, perhaps, too early yet to make selections.

Yesterday's trial teams were: Whites: Pto. Osman (R.A.C.); Datta Ram (Rajputana) and Gussain Singh (Kumaons); Dhillon (R.A.); Lee (R.A.) and P. F. Austen (Signals); Khuda Bux (10th R.A.); Trilok Singh (Kumaons); Major Harvey (I.A.M.); Marshall (R.A.) and Gopal Ram (Rajputana). Colours: McGrady (R. Scots); Hazara Singh (10th R.A.); Darshan Singh (10th R.A.); Datta Ram (Rajputana); Beasley (I.A.M.); and Lee Singh (Kumaons); Sawal Khan (Rajputana); Lt. Indrajit Singh (Rajputana); Lt. Pritam Nath (Rajputana); Nerrain Singh (Kumaons) and Partab Singh (Kumaons).

Craigengower Cricketer Married

THE WEDDING, according to Mohammedan rites, of Mr. A. K. Ismail, the well-known cricketer of the Craigengower C.C., to Miss Esther Sufiad took place yesterday at the bride's residence, 16 King's Road. Mr. Cecil Kew was best man. The reception was held at the Indian Recreation Club, where Mr. A. el Arculli, the President of the Club, proposed the toast to the happy couple. A host of friends gathered to offer their best wishes.

Hongkong Girls' First Defeat In Manila

MANILA, Nov. 16 (UP).—The Hongkong girls' basketball players suffered their first defeat in Manila when they were nosed out by Manila's champion Anglo-Chinese team 29-27.

Anglo-Chinese team clinched the issue by sinking the winning goal with a few seconds to play.

hold the Y.M.C.A. to a 2-all draw.

The gunners were soon on the offensive, and the forwards were rewarded for their efforts by two good goals from the edge of the circle. Dhillon, as pivot, deserves special mention for a fine display, and generally assisted in keeping his front line in position.

THE Y.M.C.A. made strenuous efforts in the second period, and, having slightly the better of the play, managed to equalise without further reply.

D. Smith and E. Fowler shone in the attack, while Bates and Austen, in the half-back line, were always worrying the visitors' attack. E. Youliffe, left back, was one of the mainstays of the "V" defence, broke up many attacks, and cleared well. Play was fast, both teams in turn rallied well and almost succeeded in scoring before the final whistle went.

RADIO and Postal Sports Club will be without the services of their brilliant left back, Carter, for some time to come, owing to a knee injury sustained during a game against the Club de Recreo two weeks ago. It is very doubtful if he will be able to play again this season.

Clothes still count

Don't let yourself think that it doesn't matter much what you wear now . . . you can be smart as well as practical

THE war cut off the crop of bustles, muffs, and all the other fancy autumn fashions before they had time to get out of the dress-makers' showrooms. (In England, that is; America is still hoping to be able to buy and wear all the French clothes they can get over.)

But that doesn't mean that from now on we should decide to go around in nothing but plain, sensible coats and skirts. Look at the Queen; you probably saw pictures or news-reels of her inspecting the A.R.P. and Red Cross depots. Did you notice that on each occasion she was wearing a different outfit? And smart outfits, flowered hats, veils, pastel-coloured embroidered dresses—almost garden-party clothes.

No doubt they helped her to look as bright and smiling as she did; and the people she was inspecting liked looking at them.

Put on your best suit to-morrow, and your new hat, and you'll find that without knowing why, your spirits will rise.

This spirit-raising effect of nice clothes is important to women—everything is important which makes you feel more cheerful.

But naturally it's not going to be so easy or so cheap to get good clothes as it is now. When the present stocks have sold out—and they are selling fast—you won't find new ones at the same price.

There's a big cry now for warm winter coats, for instance.

So it will pay you to start now and build up a winter wardrobe; a good sound basis of essentials to which you can add as fashions change. (Because, don't make any mistake, fashions will change, just as they did in the last war, which saw skirts go up four inches.)

THE dress designers will help you; they have switched straight over to designing practical good-looking clothes.

These seem to me to be the essentials of every woman's wardrobe.

A well-cut suit, tweed or plain, but in neither case too dated; two jerseys, two blouses to go with it.

The aforesaid good warm coat; something really warm, solid and weatherproof.

If you live in a town, a dark coat, possibly fur-trimmed.

One warm woollen dress in your favourite colour.

One silk dress, dark, but not necessarily black.

One evening dress (Robb has drawn the kind here which would be most useful to you).

One pull-on and stay-on felt hat; one fashionable and if you like slightly crazy hat.

This is only the groundwork of a wardrobe, of course; you probably have quite a few of the things already, and you can add to them from time to time; make yourself spare jerseys, scarves, and so on.

Things you should avoid are: Staring checks which will bore you within six months and die on you within a year. Pleats and fussy details which need time and money to keep good-looking. Anything too fragile or too dated. Make a bid for bright colours though it is possible that dyes may be limited later on.

Race Robot Shouts "Go"

ADELAIDE.—The Adelaide Racing Club is experimenting with a robot that shouts "Go" at the instant the barrier is lifted for the start of a race. It is the invention of E. T. Booth of this city, who invented "Nuffield" from lung and the "Booth electro-cardiograph." The invention to synchronise the starter's voice and the lifting of the gates.

MORNING

A suit to give a good start to any day. It has the new points—double-breasted, high-necked, longish jacket—but there's nothing dating about it. MATERIAL: Closely woven tweed; COLOUR: Brownish-green, red mixture; CUT: Six buttons fasten the double-breasted jacket which has two breast pockets, two hip pockets. Skirt is made with eight panels, easily full, won't sag. This is the sort of suit which every woman can wear anywhere: Town, country, travelling.

-AFTERNOON-

If this dress were one of a crowd in your cupboard it would be lovely to have it in velvet. But if it's an only child, have it made in jersey, which would drape itself beautifully round that neckline. Choose a good rich colour: Grape purple, wine red or chocolate brown. A most casual collar stands up round the neck. Bodice is draped into a zip up the centre. Shoulders are squared, sleeves long and tight. Seams up the front of the bodice are continuous down into a seamed, slightly flaring skirt.

-AND NIGHT

Here you have two evening dresses in one: A low cut evening dress for formal nights out; a little velvet jacket which buttons high on the throat, to turn it into a warm dinner suit. The dress is in crimson satin, tight-waisted with fullness in the skirt flaring out at the back (a line that will last). The bodice is simply draped in front into two shoulder straps, cut to the waist at the back. The jacket, in dull green velvet, fits out below the waist at the back into a slight suggestion of a bustle.

Fruit Cocktail

When grapefruit is served in place of fruit cocktail, cut fruit in half, loosen pulp from rind and partitions. Remove centre, and fill with mint jelly.

For Golf Fans

Knitted mittens for clubs, with the number of stripes corresponding to the number of the club, are now available in various colour combinations. They protect the clubs from weather and scratching of irons, yet make them easily identified.

Beauty Tips

IF YOU wish to learn how to walk smoothly, follow a straight line, allowing the legs to swing freely in their sockets. Straighten each knee as the foot touches the ground, and it possible, try to point your toes straight ahead. Following a straight line can be taxing at first, but practice it when you go shopping by trying to follow the paving lines in the sidewalk. When climbing stairs, try to spring up from the balls of the feet; do not drag yourself up from the knees.

"They're Diving For Us!" Lookout Shouts as German Planes Launch Unsuccessful Raid On British Ships

DRAMATIC STORY OF ATTACK ON CONVOY TOLD BY B.B.C.

ONLY SIX WANT TO DIE FOR HITLER

GERMAN nationals living in Switzerland do not like the idea of letting Adolf Hitler raise cash on their property and themselves giving their lives for his aggrandisement.

At outbreak of war German consulates in Switzerland delivered mobilisation papers to some 1,600 Germans of military age in the eastern part of the country. Only six obeyed the call. Elaborate preparations had been made to transport back to Germany hundreds of expected patriots eager to die for Hitler. On Lake Constance three steamers were held ready at Arbon, on the Swiss side, to ferry the fifteen hundred men across to Lindau, Germany.

Only the patriotic six turned up. Although the strictest secrecy has been observed, word leaks out that the Nazis have encountered the same lack of enthusiasm in other countries.

That is one reason why the German Government, making virtue of necessity, subsequently decreed that men living abroad and liable to military service should be "allowed to remain at their posts."

Another reason is that, if the original decree were enforced, useful Nazi agents operating in these neutral countries would either have to be withdrawn or else be made conspicuous by their exemption.

HOW two attacks on a convoy in the North Sea by German bombing planes were beaten off in "a barrage of black puffs" from naval escort vessels was vividly described in a B.B.C. broadcast by a naval man who was aboard the leading escort vessel.

After describing how the warships convoyed the merchant vessels without incident until nightfall the broadcaster went on:

"About ten one of the escort far away astern opened fire with her anti-aircraft gun and our alarm bells began a furious jangling all through the ship. Miles away in the clouds to the north-eastward an enemy reconnaissance machine had been sighted shadowing us.

"The guns were loaded; we exchanged our caps for shrapnel helmets.

"The cook appears on the bridge wearing a shrapnel helmet and a rather worried expression.

"The dinners are all in the oven. Good! hot dinners spoiling. Nobody has thought about dinner till this moment. Now everybody realises they are starving.

"Sandwiches. Can he cut sandwiches? Hundreds of them? He can? Very good.

"Sound of aircraft somewhere, and firing.

"The cook reappears carrying a tray piled with enormous corned beef sandwiches.

"Like all naval cooks, he is a magician. But he still looks worried. Thinking about those lovely hot dinners that no one will eat.

"Three 'Planes!'"

"One of the look-outs suddenly shouted: 'Ship bearing red one O, sir—that meant he had sighted a ship bearing line on the port bow.

"It was the leading escort of another convoy coming out of the mist to the southward. There was a curious arch of cloud and fog stretching north and south and enveloping the land.

"The leading ship of the convoy we'd sighted passed quite close. Somebody on the bridge waved his cap. Ten minutes later our own look-out shouted: 'Plane right ahead, sir.'

"Three 'planes!'"

"THEY'RE DIVING FOR US!'"

"Then things happened awfully quickly.

"Yellow Flashes

"Our foremost guns opened fire with a roar that drowned everything. The muzzles were elevated almost to the level of the bridge, and yellow flashes sprang out, obliterating the shapes of the German bombing machines swooping over the convoy.

"The sea leapt up in columns where a few bombs dropped; one had an instantaneous impression of the surface of the water spouting under a hail of machine-gun bullets and falling fragments of shell; of orders shouted through the din of firing, flashes of

Princess Wants A 'World War'

PRINCESS BIESCO, daughter of Lady Oxford, wants a better "war of words" from Britain to the world.

She has just returned from a tour of many European countries, where she has studied the various propaganda methods.

"There is nothing wrong with the quality of our propaganda abroad," she said, "but the quantity has been lacking—no doubt for mechanical reasons.

"The essence of German propaganda is its 'pom-pom' quality—constant repetition of the same points.

Italian Sympathy

"In war-time one cannot say the same thing too often. I think it important that we should reiterate constantly that the Allies are not fighting for Poland, nor even for each other, but to preserve for the future principles which to the ordinary man are sacred."

She was very strongly impressed by the sympathy shown towards British people by Italians of all classes.

"They rushed over one as though one were an invalid, to express their sympathy with us for having been forced into a war," she added.

ing or altered course during the attack.

And Now—Jam

"In some indefinable way they all looked rather pleased with themselves; like perfect ladies who had passed through a pousse-pousse brawl without blinking an eyelid.

"The sun sank in a blaze of golden fire.

"The men had been closed up at their guns and posts for six hours. The captain had been standing by the compass for 12 hours. He gulped a cup of tea sent down his bawby pouch to be refilled.

"The wind freshened and there was a chilly nip in the air. Dusk again and the guns' crews began passing oily cloths on the end of a rammer through the guns.

"Soon it was dark again. Part of the watch went below for supper.

"In the mouth of the harbour we met an examination vessel.

"The captain was still on the compass platform with his hands in his pockets. He had at last got tired of his pipe.

"He bent to the voice pipe and gave the orders for altering course, and each order was repeated by the coxswain at the wheel.

"His deep voice came back each time from the mouthpiece, very solemn, like the answers to a litany: "Starboard ten!"

"Midships!"

"Steady!"

Ribbentrop's 50 h.p. Car

BRITISH chauffeurs, charwomen, footmen and other servants who were employed at the German Embassy until the day of the staff's departure have now received the wages due to them.

Officials of the Swiss Legation took charge of the Embassy's affairs.

Mr. A. T. Parkes, who was Embassy chauffeur for more than 19 years, said:

"Ribbentrop had a bigger car than any of the other ambassadors I drove. It was more than twenty feet long, seven feet wide, and had an engine of fifty h.p.

"Ribbentrop liked travelling when he was over here. He used to stay in Scotland and in Devon and Cornwall.

"When Germany went Nazi there was a change in the atmosphere at the Embassy, but no one ever bothered me."

Money to Spend and Goods to Buy ESTONIAN PARADISE FOR SOVIET TROOPS

LONDON.—According to information received here the discipline of the Russian troops who evacuated Vilna to be replaced by the Lithuanians was excellent.

The front-line troops were well equipped, and the tanks, guns, lorries, and so on in good condition.

The troops that followed were ill-clad, ill-equipped, with old-fashioned weapons, and obviously under-nourished.

The Russians did not interfere unduly with the life of the city.

They had rubles to spend, and the inhabitants were anxious to get rubles, zlotys no longer being legal tender.

Large quantities of wrist-watches, fountain-pens, and other objects such as are hardly ever seen by the ordinary Russian soldier and are almost unobtainable in Russia were eagerly bought by the Russian troops. There does not appear to have been any looting.

The discipline amongst the Russian troops in the newly occupied regions seems to find themselves in a sort of paradise where, compared with their own country, there is freedom and abundance.

BY A NAVAL MAN WHO WAS THERE

"THEY'RE diving for us!" Then things happened quickly.

Our guns opened with a roar that drowned everything. Yellow flashes obliterated the shapes of the bombing machines swooping a hail of machine-gun bullets, fragments of shell, orders shouted in the smoke, the ship shuddering from the recoil.

And suddenly it was over. The enemy vanished.

"No ship had been hit, nobody was hurt."

Seaplanes

"Then the look-out gave tongue again. Enemy seaplanes this time, far away to the southward.

"The seaplanes emerged from a cloud valley and came swooping towards us.

"All the guns began to fire, throwing a barrage of little black puffs in the path of the seaplanes. They banked steeply and took refuge in the clouds.

"The other convoy, somewhere below the horizon, said it had beaten off a heavy attack without any casualties to the convoy.

"The seaplanes reappeared, and this time it looked as if they meant business.

Black Tornadoes

"Again the blue sky was dotted with black tornadoes of smoke, and again they swooped away.

"Suddenly there was a shout of 'Fighters!' and out from the land came a squadron of British fighting planes. They flashed over our heads at 300 m.p.h.

"Our gun crews cheered them as they passed us like a swarm of infuriated wasps. The enemy seaplanes had vanished into a cloud and the fighters dived into it in pursuit.

"They all disappeared. One of the escort went off to investigate a report of an enemy seaplane which had been shot down somewhere out of sight.

"None of our charges had been scratched. Not a ship lost her bear-

Expelled From Press Parley Nazi Treatment Of U.S. Correspondent

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 16. (Reuter).—Mr. Beach Conger, the Berlin correspondent of the "New York Herald Tribune," was expelled to-day from the daily Press conference at the Wilhelmstrasse.
According to the "Handelsblad" correspondent, Mr. Conger was accused of sending "inaccurate reports prejudicial to the Third Reich."
The correspondent adds that he understands Mr. Conger's expulsion from Germany is being considered.

They were faced with many difficulties and elements were abroad over Europe which created a war spirit, namely suspicion, ill-will and mistrust, but he saw no warrant or justification for the war talk now prevalent.

Nazi Warplanes Are Outclassed In Air

LONDON, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—A special commentary issued to-day states that the superiority of the British fighter Spitfire over the German standard single-seater fighter Messerschmitt 109 is well-established by the actions on the Western Front.

Confirming pre-war reports of Norwegian, Swiss, and Spanish pilots, the Messerschmitt, though extremely fast, lacks ability to manoeuvre and stalls very easily.

The defect was displayed in numerous combats in which the Messerschmitt was outclassed by the French Curtiss as well as the Spitfire.

Victorious Dogfights

As an example, it is pointed out that in the two dogfights on November 6, each between nine Messerschmitts and seven Curtiss, the net result was that four Messerschmitts in all were destroyed. There were no French losses.

The effect of the consciousness of inferior manoeuvrability on the pilot is not to be under-estimated.

Regarding the liability to stall, there is good reason to believe that German pilots are afraid to fly Messerschmitts at night. It is certain that very few have in fact flown at night.

The Spitfire, by contrast, is satisfactory in every way.

Any type of German bomber coming within effective range of British fighters stands little chance of survival.

Captain Prevented from Scuttling Vessel GERMANS MUTINY ON PRIZE SHIP

PREMIER REVEALS GROUNDS FOR FEAR

Aid From Allies If Holland Invaded

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
LONDON, Nov. 16 (UP).—“Developments during the past fortnight have appreciably strengthened the position of the Allies,” said Sir John Simon, who deputised for the Premier in the House of Commons to-day.

“This is particularly the case with reference to American legislation, which has restored to us the right to purchase the abundant supplies the United States is able to offer.”

Speaking on behalf of both Britain and France, Sir John repudiated responsibility for the breakdown of the Belgo-Dutch peace efforts.

He also revealed that fears regarding the purpose of the concentration of German troops on the Dutch and Belgian frontiers had some justification.

Finland And Russia

Sir John confirmed that there had been a virtual breakdown in the negotiations between Finland and Soviet Russia, a situation he described as “less satisfactory.” The Finns, however, emphasised that there had been no irreparable rupture.

In the Premier's weekly war review it was announced that four German ships were captured last week, two of them being scuttled. Most German merchantmen were being forced to remain in port “while on the contrary British ships continue to move in increasing numbers.”

Also it said it is hoped to take early steps for consultation with the French Government regarding a self-contained Polish military force for service in France.

French troops, said the Home Secretary, have repulsed a number of minor German attacks on the Western Front during the past week.

He described the Belgo-Dutch appeal as “a bold intervention in the cause of peace.”

Sir Archibald Sinclair, the liberal leader, said that the Belgo-Dutch effort had destroyed the argument that war was forced upon Hitler.

“It is now clear that Hitler is continuing the war to fasten the yoke more firmly on the Czechs and Poles,” he said.

Must Support The Lowlands

He maintained that the British Government must be ready to support Belgium and Holland if they were attacked.

“The Government would never be forgiven if these countries were made victims of aggression without effective help from us,” he asserted.

The Opposition leader, Mr. Clement Attlee, expressed regret that Hitler had “summarily rejected” the Belgo-Dutch appeal.

“We shall all join in the hope that these peaceful peoples will not be drawn into the war,” he said.

At the same time Mr. Attlee criticised the Government's failure to clearly state its war aims.

THE WAR DOG'S GAS PROOF KENNEL £3 15s.

Could you watch him die?
Could you ever forget his abject terror if the dreadful gas attacks come?
Every lover of dumb animals must face these horrible questions.
There is only one answer—the perfect gas-proof kennel.

This, says “United Press” is a two-column advertisement appearing in the London “Times” this morning.

The war dog's kennel has a glass door. Fresh air is pumped in with bellows.

Thousands of pets, it will be recalled, were executed at the beginning of hostilities, the owners fearing that they would suffer in an air raid.

Dogs and other pets are not permitted in public A.R.P. shelters.

RUTHLESS U-BOAT WAR ON NEUTRALS

LONDON, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—The ruthless German warfare against neutral merchant shipping is instanced by the torpedoing, without warning, of the Norwegian tanker, Arne Kjøde, by a U-boat.

The U-boat did not make any attempt to save the crew despite bad weather and the fact that the position was far from land.

The crew of the Arne Kjøde took to the boats when the ship was torpedoed on the evening of November 12.

More than two days later, 23 men in one boat were picked up after suffering severely from exposure.

Twenty hours later, 12 more members of the crew were picked up. Five men are still missing.

The whole incident is another instance of Germany's brutal disregard of her guarantees not to sink on sight without giving the crew opportunity to escape.

All rescues were effected by British ships.

Master Held Prisoner

CAPE TOWN, Nov. 17 (Reuter).—Latest messages from Durban reveal that the crew of the Scylla Shell were permitted to land before the tanker was shelled by the raider and sunk.

The master of the vessel, however, was taken aboard the raider and is presumably held as prisoner.

German Report

SPECIAL TO THE “TELEGRAPH”
BERLIN, Nov. 16 (UP).—In contrast to the dullness on the Western Front, the activity of the U-boats has increased, a D.N.B. communique states.

“Contrary to repeated reports from the enemy of their continued destruction of German U-boats, reports are continually arriving, especially today and yesterday, about the losses of English steamers.”

“Reuters” reported that the German steamer Schwabenland has been sunk by a British cruiser, despite the fact that the Schwabenland has been in a German harbour since August, the communique claims.

The crew of the German steamer Parana sank the steamer when British warships approached, the German report admits.

Protest Planned

SPECIAL TO THE “TELEGRAPH”
BERGEN, Nov. 16 (UP).—The Oslo correspondent of the “National Tidende” reports that the Norwegian Government is planning a protest to Germany against the ruthless sinking without warning of the Arne Kjøde. Denmark may be asked to join.

New Capture By the Navy

SPECIAL TO THE “TELEGRAPH”
LONDON, Nov. 16. (UP).—The mutiny of the German crew of a Nazi freighter which was attempting to run the British blockade resulted in the capture of the ship intact by a British cruiser, it was revealed to-day.

The German vessel was the freighter “Leander.” The name of the cruiser is not divulged.

The German vessel was masquerading as a Russian ship when she was approached by the cruiser. The letters “U.S.S.R.” were prominently painted on her sides and she carried two Hammer and Sickle flags.

As soon as it became evident that the suspicion of the British cruiser had been aroused, the Nazi captain ordered the sea cocks to be opened.

When the crew refused to scuttle the ship the captain and officers attempted to do so themselves.

Fight Ensues

A fight ensued, and the battle was still in progress when the British naval party boarded the Leander. The captain is now on the British cruiser, which is escorting the prize to a British port.

It is reported that the captain informed the British naval authorities that between fifty and sixty German ships are anchored at Vigo, unable to leave because of the British blockade.

DAGGER HIDDEN IN WAISTBAND

Six months' hard labour was imposed on Lo Sang, 38, unemployed, by Mr. Himsforth at Kowloon Magistrate's Court this morning for unlawful possession of a dagger. He had two previous convictions for larceny.

Det. Sgt. Morrison said Lo was stopped and searched by Det. Chan Ching in Argyle Street, who found a dagger concealed at the back of the man's wide waistband.

Lo stated that the dagger was given to him to carry by a friend, who gave him 38 cents as an advance payment for doing so.

HONGKONG COUPLE IN U-BOAT DRAMA

Saved After Being In Lifeboats

REPORTS WERE current in Hongkong yesterday that three residents of the Colony had lost their lives when the Bibby Line's steamer Yorkshire was torpedoed by a U-boat last month.

The “Telegraph” referred the rumours to its Correspondent in London and is now happy to report that they are without foundation.

However, the “Telegraph” Correspondent reveals that, at least two Hongkong passengers were rescued from the Yorkshire.

They were Mr. and Mrs. Joyce. Mr. Joyce, it is believed, was attached to the Hongkong Garrison.

Mr. and Mrs. Joyce were saved by the American steamer Independence Hall, after being afloat for some time in lifeboats. They were landed at Bordeaux and subsequently returned to England.

Rumours current in Hongkong yesterday indicated that a Police Officer's wife and daughter had been drowned as a result of the torpedoing.

Neither the Bibby Line nor the War Ministry list, however, contain the names of the persons mentioned as passengers aboard the Yorkshire. The “Telegraph” correspondent cables.

He adds that the Bibby Line list, which he examined, contains the surnames of all passengers.

AL CAPONE RELEASED

SPECIAL TO THE “TELEGRAPH”
WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (UP).—Garbed in a cheap suit of clothing which is given to all discharged prisoners, Al Capone, broken in health and tortured by mental aberrations, emerged from prison to-day.

His demeanour is in curious contrast to his bravado during the Prohibition era, when he paid huge sums for silk shirts and underwear, and dominated the Chicago underworld.

Capone was secretly transported by train from California last Sunday, after serving 7½ years of an 11-year sentence.

He was turned over to relatives who, accompanied by three Federal agents, departed for a private institution in the vicinity of Philadelphia.

Capone In Hospital

BALTIMORE, Nov. 16 (UP).—Al Capone was brought to the Union Memorial Hospital at 11 a.m.

He was registered as a private patient and placed in the medical wing of the hospital.

Fantastic Rewards for Hitler's 'Enemy'

GESTAPO'S HUNT FOR ASSASSIN DRAWS A BLANK

BERLIN, Nov. 17 (UP).—All the far-flung resources of the Gestapo—Germany's dreaded secret police—have been mobilised in an effort to solve the mystery of the attempt which came within ten minutes of killing Hitler.

The fact that Hitler came so near death at the hands of assassins constitutes the first major slip-up in the chief duty of the Gestapo.

So far the investigations have yielded the following results:

- 1.—A man is wanted. He is described as a person dressed as a workman, and was last seen in the Munich Beer Cellar gallery, where he pretended to be making some repairs;
- 2.—Certain parts of a time bomb have been traced to factories;
- 3.—Examination of parts of the time bomb indicates that the crime is traceable to “a foreign country.” (Nearly all Germany's watches are made in Switzerland);
- 4.—It is certain that preparations for the crime began late in August.

Not one scrap of information has been made public since the evening of November 11, when Himmler, the murder-chief of the Gestapo, appealed to Germans throughout the world to watch out for the suspected workman, a description of whom is given.

Search For “Traitors”

“Patriotic” Germans were also asked to report anyone who made suspicious or “traitorous” remarks during the broadcast of Hitler's speech.

Rewards totalling 50,000 marks have been offered for information leading to the arrest of the wanted man.

A steady stream of suspects has passed through the Munich headquarters of the Gestapo, since the attempted assassination, and the Gestapo admits that “many arrests have been made.”

The German press, meanwhile, is chiefly concerned with the “intellectual inspired” angle of the plot. Mr. Chamberlain is their chief scapegoat, chiefly because he once said that “he hoped to live to see the day when Hitlerism would be destroyed.” (The German newspapers claim that the Premier said “Hitler” and not “Hitlerism.”)

The Nazis look upon the attempted assassination as a grim matter. Any sort of joke is considered sacrilege.

GERMANY ANNOYED

Difficulties Of Trade With Rumania

SPECIAL TO THE “TELEGRAPH”
BUCHAREST, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—It is learned in official German sources that Dr. Clodius, head of the economic department of the German Foreign Office, brought a strongly worded note from the German Government declaring that artificial difficulties had been created in Rumanian deliveries to Germany.

The removal of these difficulties was firmly demanded.

It is learned that in addition to further supplies of oil, the Germans are anxious to buy soy beans, and to supply steam trawlers, landing stages and other equipment for developing the Rumanian sea fishing industry.

LATEST

Released Gang Leader Guarded

BALTIMORE, Nov. 16 (UP).—Heavy police guards have been suddenly established around the hospital in which Al Capone is confined.

The Police Commissioner, Robert Station, declined to explain the action, except to say that “Capone's presence requires precautionary measures.”

Physicians state that Capone is suffering from advanced paresis which is almost hopeless.

His mother, and brother, besides three Federal detectives, are guarding the hospital suite.

Japanese Plane At Kai Tak

A Japanese Douglas DC-3 transport plane, the first military aircraft of this country to visit Hongkong, arrived at Kai Tak airport from Canton at 1 p.m. to-day.

The machine remained only 30 minutes, the visit being for the purpose of picking up a spare tyre and other materials for the Dardanus, which was forced down on Weichow Island last week.

The Imperial pilot was not permitted to leave with the plane. As soon as the Japanese repair the Dardanus, he will be permitted to go to Weichow by steamer and will then take off immediately for Hongkong.

NAZI PLANES VIOLATE BELGIAN TERRITORY

BRUSSELS, Nov. 17 (Reuter).—German planes flying back to Germany after reconnaissance flights in Northern France have repeatedly violated Belgium's neutrality.

Yesterday Germans were making use of the better weather and apparently made the journey via the North Sea, returning across Belgium.

Anti-aircraft guns went into action against several machines flying over Liege.

It is also reported that a big German bomber was sighted over Swin territory flying in a south-westerly direction.

A.A. guns went into action, failed to hit the invader.

Making Englishmen "Garden Conscious"

LONDON, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—A campaign to make Englishmen more garden-conscious is being started under the auspices of the Ministry of Agriculture and various societies.

People will be encouraged to grow their own food. During the last war the allotment scheme had hardly begun until 1917, when U-boats were causing havoc. By 1918 there were 85,000 allotments being worked, and by 1920 there were 1,250,000.

This time it is expected that by next spring there will be 1,500,000 allotments in addition to 3,500,000 private gardens.

In the House of Commons to-day in Mr. Chamberlain's absence, Sir John Simon, in welcoming General Sikorski's visit to London, hoped that in Britain had given them an opportunity of judging for themselves the necessity for close and continuous Anglo-French financial and economic co-operation.

Discussions with the representatives of the Dominions and India dealt with all aspects of the war and covered the questions of defence, foreign policy, problems of supply and economic warfare, and shipping. While a number of meetings were held with representatives of the individual Dominions on various special problems.

The progress already made was most encouraging.

The overseas representatives to France and the defence preparations in Britain had given them an opportunity of judging for themselves the necessity for close and continuous Anglo-French financial and economic co-operation.

Accelerating Convoy System

The Minister of Shipping and the First Lord of the Admiralty were discussing the acceleration of the system of convoys.

Faster convoys would be established and the number of convoys increased as more escorting vessels became available.

Our destroyers had steamed hundreds of thousands of miles. One was sunk by a mine.

Four enemy ships were taken last week, and two large vessels were scuttled on November 12 and 13.

Our merchantmen continued to sail in great numbers notwithstanding that the crews now had to face torpedo, gun and mine.

Land Operations Curtailed

Bad weather had curtailed land operations. The enemy planes raiding the Shetland Islands on November 14 dropped 12 bombs on land and eight in the sea. They caused no casualties and negligible damage.

There had been considerable activity in the air but no major engagements.

Mr. Attlee Speaks

Mr. Clement R. Attlee, the Labour Opposition Leader, followed Sir John Simon and regretted that the German Government has so summarily rejected the Hague peace effort.

"We all hope that those peaceful countries will not be drawn into the war," he said.

Mr. Attlee welcomed the statement issued by the visit of General Sikorski and Mr. Reynaud, and especially the Dominions' representatives.

The list of subjects discussed with the overseas visitors, however, did not include formulation of peace aims.

It also was not too early to give full consideration to the importance of planning for peace in Britain.

Tribute To Queen Wilhelmina

Sir Archibald Sinclair, the Liberal Leader, particularly welcomed the Anglo-French economic and financial co-operation because the two countries would sink or swim together. So would the sterling and the franc, and nothing but the closest co-operation would avail to save them.

Sir Archibald declared that they owed a great debt to Queen Wilhelmina for her bold initiative and for her assertion of the principles, reason and justice even amid the clamour of war.

Moreover, it had cleared the air, for no longer could it be argued that the war was forced upon Hitler. The British Government must be ready to give prompt support, if the duty of protecting neutrality and liberty was imposed upon Holland and Belgium by Hitler.

They would not be forgiven if those countries were made victims of German aggression without effective help being given by us, he concluded.

Rush To Purchase Finnish Bonds

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
HELSINKI, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—It is announced that the defence loan of 500,000,000 Finnish marks has been over-subscribed by about 100,000,000 marks.

A second loan, of a similar amount, may now be floated.

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
MEXICO CITY, Nov. 16 (UP).—The newspaper "La Prensa" to-day published unconfirmed reports that several people had sighted a submarine carrying the numerals WJ 147 in the vicinity of Santiago Beach, eight miles north of Manzanillo.

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
LONDON, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—Mr. Malcolm Macdonald, at a meeting in London, declared that nothing illuminates more brilliantly the difference between ours and the Nazi political systems than the contrast between the responses from the Colonies and the responses from German "protectorates."

No messages were sent to Berlin. Messages of support were received from every British Colony, protectorate and mandated territory. "The people who spoke of British Imperialism, as Herr von Ribbentrop was certainly dead for many years."

Never has a fashion died so quickly. Current issues of smart magazines, prepared for press before the war, look like records of a bygone age, with their pictures of heavily boned hour-glass corsets.

Neck To Wrist

Shops are competing with their different designs in air-raid or "siren" suits.

Almost all of them are one-piece trousers with long sleeves and high neck lines so that in case of air raids they will be warm.

"Black dresses are trimmed with white for the sake of visibility in the black-out."

Hats fit on the head, instead of perching on a couple of curls. Shoes are lower-heeled.

There is only one relaxation of severity. The new nightdresses are trimmed with embroidery and threaded with rows of baby ribbon.

Denmark Will Wait

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
COPENHAGEN, Nov. 16 (UP).—It is officially stated that the Danish authorities are planning any action at present, pending clarification as to whether the Arne Kjeoed was torpedoed or struck a mine.

Lith Steamers Sunk

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
COPENHAGEN, Nov. 16 (UP).—Reports from Kovno state that the Lithuanian steamers, Sancvyys and Nida have been sunk off the coast of Estonia.

CANADA'S HUGE WAR SPENDING

OTTAWA, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—It is estimated that Canada will spend $600,000,000 for war purposes in the first year of the war, according to the Ottawa "Evening Citizen."

The imperial air training plan is expected to entail an outlay in the first year between $250,000,000 and $300,000,000.

NAZIS "INTERN" CZECH PUPPET

PARIS, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—The "Paris Sol" carries a report from Bratislava to the effect that the Czech President under Nazi rule, M. Hacha, has been "interned" in the Presidential chateau, near Prague.

He refused to publicly repudiate anti-German activity by Czechs in the Allied countries.

Ribbentrop's 50 h.p. Car

BRITISH chauffeurs, charwomen, footmen and other servants who were employed at the German Embassy until the day of the staff's departure have now received the wages due to them.

Officials of the Swiss Legation took charge of the Embassy's affairs.

Mr. A. J. Parkes, who was Embassy chauffeur for more than 19 years, said:

"Ribbentrop had a bigger car than any of the other ambassadors I drove. It was more than twenty feet long, seven feet wide, and had an engine of fifty h.p."

Ribbentrop liked travelling when he was over here. He used to stay in Scotland and in Devon and Cornwall.

"When Germany went Nazi there was a change in the atmosphere at the Embassy, but no one ever bothered me."

GORING'S JOKES FALLING FLAT

AMSTERDAM.

A NEUTRAL acquaintance reaching here from Berlin says that pessimism in the German capital is growing daily.

This is despite newspaper propaganda and bombastic utterances such as Field-Marshal Goring's speech yesterday:

Commerce is paralysed by new taxation, which forces even John Citizen to yield up to 80 per cent. of his income to the Government.

Rationing already leaves citizens in many towns hungry at the day's end. Some things on their ration cards, such as butter, eggs, and coffee are unobtainable.

Tobacco and other luxuries are becoming scarce. All public entertainments and dancing in the danger zone towns are prohibited.

The position of German Jews is desperate. If the shortage increases they will obviously be the first sufferers. Even now, Jews are forbidden to buy provisions except during certain specified hours.

No Soviet Oil

HITLER'S poor prospects of obtaining oil supplies from Russia are described by the former Berlin correspondent of the Belgian newspaper, the Soir.

In an analysis of Germany's economic position, says the Daily Herald's Brussels Correspondent, this Belgian writer declares:

"One can say without exaggeration that the Third Reich begins the war under a regime of restrictions equal to about that of 1917."

He says that, while Russia might be able to supply timber and manganese to Germany, lack of transport facilities kill any hope Germany may have of obtaining oil in any quantity from that source.

Transport by rail from Russian ports is ruled out by technical difficulties, which it would take years to overcome, while the Danube, which is not everywhere navigable, could only be used if Germany controlled Rumanian ports.

Germany, says the writer, has to import 85 per cent. of the oil she needs.

Donounced For 8/-

THE Daily Mail's Bala Correspondent says that travellers arriving from Bavaria declare there have been wholesale denunciations of alleged malcontents there during the last few days.

This follows the offer of a reward of 8s. for anyone making such denunciations.

Officers Desert

THE Petit Parisien reports from Brussels that three German officers and 21 soldiers have deserted into Belgium.

Czechs "Warned"

ACCORDING to a despatch to the German News Agency from Prague, President Hacha and the Government of the Protectorate of Bohemia and Moravia have issued an emphatic warning that if subjects of the Protectorate join any military organisation formed abroad, they will be regarded as having committed high treason and will be liable to very heavy penalties.

Stress is laid on the seriousness of the consequences to all subjects of the Protectorate who, having joined such organisations, become German prisoners-of-war.

Not A Battleship

Durban reports suggest that it was a 10,000-tonner, possibly an armed merchantman.

Rumours that it was a pocket battleship are authoritatively discounted.

The pilot of an aeroplane arriving at Lourenco Marques yesterday from the north reported seeing a steamer sinking 200 miles north of Lourenco Marques.

Lifeboats On Beach

He also saw two life-boats on a beach, surrounded by a number of men presumed to be the crew.

The pilot dropped a message to the Administrative Post and later saw people leave in the direction of the ship.

SOVIET RECOGNITION

Slovakia Sending Envoy To Moscow Shortly

Moscow, Nov. 16. The Soviet recognition of Slovakia is revealed with the publication of the Slovakian President's and Foreign Minister's telegram congratulating M. Kallin and M. Molotov in connection with the 22nd anniversary of the Russian Revolution.

It is understood that a Slovak envoy will arrive in Moscow shortly. Conspicuously absent among the congratulatory messages are those from President Roosevelt, who despatched one last year, and the Finnish President.—United Press.

HUNT FOR RAIDERS

may be forced to detach some of their more powerful warships from their main force in an effort to chase the threat that the Scheer offers.

Not Strong Enough

British forces in South Atlantic waters, although reportedly augmented since the outbreak of the war, are not believed to be strong enough to challenge the Nazi warship.

The Admiral Scheer is a 10,000-ton vessel with a speed of 26 knots. She was built at a cost of nearly £3,800,000 and was completed in 1933. She carries nearly 1,000 men and has a total horsepower of 54,000.

According to reports, her heaviest guns are 11-inches of a new type welded. These guns can hurl 970-pound projectiles more than 17 miles.

She also has eight guns of nearly six inches each, some smaller ordnance and eight torpedo tubes.

Officially the Admiral Scheer and her sister ships, the Admiral Spee and the Deutschland, are known as "armoured ships." The term "pocket battleship" is a popular designation.

Saving In Tonnage

A Unique feature of these warships is that they were the first of such size whose hulls were electrically welded. This effected an important saving in tonnage without detracting from the vessels' protection. They were also the first vessels of such proportions to be powered by Diesel engines.

The possible ramifications of a highly successful raiding campaign by the Scheer are numerous. For example, agriculture department sources here have stated that the relative success of allied shipping in the game of hide-and-seek with Germany's submarines has forestalled for the time being at least, sharp price increases for meats and other foodstuffs much of which is purchased in Latin America.

Should Allied shipping suffer greatly, however, it is probable that food prices would soar and purchase would be restricted.

Another Victim

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
CAPE TOWN, Nov. 16 (UP).—A German raider, either the Deutschland or Admiral Scheer, has sunk the British tanker African Shell (700 tons) near Zanzibar, 2 1/2 miles from the coast of Mozambique. The captain was taken aboard the raider.

Survivors have been landed in the Inhambane district.

Another Raider At Large

CAPE TOWN, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—It is officially announced that the British steamer, Scalla Shell, was sunk by a German raider inside Portuguese territorial waters, 100 miles north-east of Lourenco Marques.

It is reported that the crew were allowed to land.

The captain was taken prisoner. No exact information is available of the identity of the raider.

FINLAND'S FINANCESStrong Enough To Bear Crisis Costs

HELSINGFORS, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—Another refutation of the Soviet claims that Finland cannot long bear the cost of her mobilisation was given in a statement issued to-day by the governor of the Bank of Finland.

Reports of Finnish inflation were quite untrue, he said. The Government had not borrowed a single penny from the Bank of Finland. Finland could go on producing enough to fulfil her own requirements and at the same time maintain her exports.

Splendid Export Trade

To-day her export trade was 90 per cent. of its pre-war level. Finland's great advantages were her unlimited credit and goodwill in the world.

On the previous evening, M. Paasilkivi, the special Finnish envoy to the Moscow talks, had revealed that Finland's trade with Soviet Russia depended only to the extent of two per cent. of the total.

Press Attacks Continue

MOSCOW, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—The Moscow Press and wireless continue their attacks on Finland.

A few hours after the Finnish delegation had returned to Helsinki, the Moscow wireless accused Finland's rulers of adopting an anti-Soviet attitude with Britain's support.

The Moscow Press alleges that the Finnish army and press have been instructed to incite the Russians.

PARKED HIS CAR TOO LONG

D. G. Wilson, of Love Bingham and Matthews, was fined $5 by Mr. Forrest at Central Magistrate's court this morning when he admitted parking his car longer than necessary outside the Mercantile Bank in Queen's Road Central on November 1.

Defendant said he was detained in the office, and could not get away for about half an hour.

CONVICT SENT FROM PRISON TO BE WITH DYING MOTHER

A MOTHER became seriously ill at her home in Battersea, S.W., and cried because she could not see her son—a convict in Dartmoor Prison.

As she lay there, alone, the bedroom door opened and her son came to her bedside, smiling.

In the passage outside two warders waited quietly, while the son told his mother that he had been freed.

When the son left, he joined the two warders outside, and they returned for the night to a London prison.

Recently the son, back in Dartmoor, wrote a letter of thanks to Sir Samuel Hoare, who arranged the visit—one of his last acts as Home Secretary.

PINING

And this is how mother and son came to meet again. Some days ago the chaplain at Dartmoor Prison received a letter saying that the mother—her life now being counted in weeks—planned for her convict son.

It said:—

"If she can see him again, for no matter how short a time, she will die less unhappily. Some days ago the chaplain at Dartmoor Prison received a letter saying that the mother—her life now being counted in weeks—planned for her convict son."

An overnight telegram from Sir Samuel said: "Yes."

The two warders took the convict to a London jail after all three had dressed in civilian clothes.

The son saw his mother twice again before she died. She never knew the warders waited outside, and died believing her son was free.

Of this act of mercy all that the Home Office said was:—

"Such incidents are not uncommon. One question only is asked when petitions of this nature are received—Is it genuine?"

Now it is for Sir John Anderson, the new Home Secretary, to consider another request from the son—that he may be freed in time to join up and fight for Britain.

CONSTABLE
CHARGED.Alleged Larceny
During Search

Charged with the larceny of $12 from Tse Shing, 36, a travelling salesman, Li Yee-tim, 23, a police constable—was—remanded for 72 hours when he appeared before Mr. Houston at the Central Magistrate's court this morning.

Li is alleged to have stopped Tse in Connaught Road West and demanded to search him. After Tse had been searched he found two five dollar notes and two one dollar notes missing from his jacket pocket.

He went back to look for the constable but failed to find him.

He then made a report at No. 7 Police Station.

An identification parade was held and Tse pointed out Li as the constable who searched him.

Making a statement, Li said he had never seen Tse in his life and that his bent did not cover Connaught Road West.

NO DOUBT OF OUTCOMEDominions Minister On Visit To Front

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

LONDON, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—"I can assure you that your visit was an inspiration to us all," said Mr. Anthony Eden, Secretary for the Dominions, speaking to the members of the Overseas League in London on his return from a visit to the Western Front with the representatives of the Dominions and the Government of India.

"Nobody who saw what we saw could have the least doubt, if they ever had any, of the ultimate outcome of this struggle."

Good Heart

"We found our own people in very good heart—though in rather unpleasant physical conditions such as usually exist, as many of us know, in Northern France."

The Siegfried (Clothes) Line

It takes a soldier to know the stuff to give the troops—especially in the song line.

And so Jimmy Kennedy, a gunner in the Anti-Aircraft, and his partner, Michael Carr, wrote the first big war-time comedy song.

It's called "We're Gonna Hang Out the Washing on the Siegfried Line," and Arthur Askey "baptised" it in the B.B.C.'s "Band Waggon."

The song was written in the odd hours that Kennedy was able to snatch from camp duties, and it has a rollicking melody and words that are crazy enough to catch on.

You might as well get to know them because you're likely to be hearing them a lot!

We're going to hang out the washing on the Siegfried Line, Have you any dirty washing, mother dear?

We're going to hang out the washing on the Siegfried Line, 'Cos washing day is here.

Whether the weather's wet or fine, We'll rub along without a care.

We're going to hang out the washing on the Siegfried Line, If the Siegfried Line's still there!

Still Waiting For His Money

He was fined $250 or two months' hard labour in October for possession of a forged official engineer's certificate, and was remanded in order to cable to America for the money.

Defendant pleaded guilty.

Peace vs. Appeasement

The persistence with which the world clings to hopes of peace is cause for deep gratitude. So long as clear distinctions are made between genuine peace and a mere absence
 of war which leaves the evils that cause war more rampant than ever,
 this demand will work for good.
 The plea for a clearer definition of
 war aims may be difficult for Britain
 and France to answer in detail at this time, but in the end the democratic effort to understand what
 the war is about will clarify the situation. And the clearer it becomes the stronger will be the position of every right purpose.

Individuals and nations have nothing to fear from letting the truth come out. Suggestions of a false
 peace fill the air. And some earnest
 people who think anything called peace is better than anything called
 war are accepting them at face value.
 Some unconsciously are permitting
 fear of physical destruction or a false
 humanitarianism to loom larger than moral values. Others, for better
 reasons may echo the Moscow paper
 "Izvestia," which a few weeks ago
 was glossing over the start of war
 now emphasizes "senseless slaughter"
 and declares: "Continuation of the war cannot be justified by anything."

In England there are voices urging
 a clarification of national purposes.
 Reconstituting Poland without defeating Russia looks difficult. And some say that winning a long war against Hitlerism might bring a peace
 dominated by Communism, or result in a general deterioration of European civilization worse than an undefined
 expansion of Germany.

In neutral countries there is a great body of thought which believes that war would be worth while only for the establishment of a new world order. This opinion will be won only
 by something more than a negative
 statement of war aims. It would respond to the idealism of peace aims
 which looked beyond any national or racial advantage to a more just and peaceful world. British-French liberalism can make this appeal to most neutral opinion far better than can Russian Communism or German nationalism.

On the whole, thought which clings to peace expresses the best and largest hopes of mankind. And clarification of the issues involved in the present struggle, particularly in France and Britain enunciate peace
 aims with real hope in them, will strengthen not only their peoples, but
 win a hearing among many Germans,
 and appeal to the aspirations of
 neutrals and those in every country
 who seek peace with sure foundations.
 In the main, the difference between appeasement and peace is understood.
 And there is every reason to expect
 that the fullest discussion of peace
 aims will make it clearer—Christian

BRITAIN'S AIR CHIEF WAS WAR PILOT

AIR CHIEF MARSHAL
 Sir Cyril Louis Norton Newall is the supreme head of the Royal Air Force. It
 is a fitting command for
 him, for he was one of the first men in Britain to realise the fighting potentialities of the aeroplane.

He is the son of an Army
 colonel. Born in India fifty-
 three years ago, he decided to make the Army his career. He went to Sandhurst and joined
 an infantry regiment in 1905.

Shortly afterwards he was transferred to the Indian Army.
 Life seemed mapped out for him.

But in 1911 he came home to England on furlough. There he saw something that changed his life. He saw a strange contraption of metal, wire, and canvas
 that men christened an aero-plane. At once some kind of revolution took place in his mind.
 He cancelled all his social engagements and spent every day
 of his furlough taking flying lessons. Before he went back to India he had qualified as a pilot.

He talked earnestly to the authorities in India and persuaded them to put him in charge of the formation of a flying school.

In 1914, when war broke out,
 he joined the Royal Flying Corps with the rank of flight-
 commander and went to France with No. 1 Squadron. In 1915 he formed No. 12 Squadron and
 later commanded it in France.

In 1917 Sir Cyril was appointed to command the 41st (Bombing) Wing, which was formed near Nancy in order to carry out bombing operations against German objectives as a counteroffensive to the air-raids on London. This Wing was the forerunner of the independent Air Force, created by Lord Trenchard in 1918. He commanded the 8th Brigade of this new Force.

His courage was proved time
 and time again during the war.
 He was mentioned three times
 in dispatches.

In 1916 he was awarded the Albert Medal for an act of conspicuous bravery. A fire broke out in a Royal Flying Corps
 store. In the store were 2,000
 high explosive bombs. If the flames reached them, there
 would be an explosion causing enormous loss of life and property. Sir Cyril, then a young officer, called for volunteers and
 led them inside the blazing store. They worked amid the flames and smoke for nearly half-an-hour before subduing
 the blaze, knowing that at any moment the fire might reach the bombs.

How the Navy Works at Sea

The following account of a recent successful U-Boat hunt, compiled from the account of an eye-witness, is issued by the Admiralty.

DESTROYERS were at sea on an independent search for submarines in northern waters.

The weather was typical,
 with a shrewd wind from
 the north-north-west causing the tops of the little seas to break, and a cross
 swell from another direction.

The sky was grey and overcast, with occasional squalls of rain blotting out
 the horizon and shutting down the visibility to about seven miles.

Reports received announced that an enemy submarine had been located
 some distance to the southward. Within a few minutes
 they were steaming in the direction indicated at something over thirty knots.

It took them some hours to reach the reported position; but arriving, they slowed down and
 started to quarter the sea according to the prearranged
 plan. Their guns were manned,
 and depth charges ready. Extra lookouts were on the bridge, and
 the ships' companies keyed up to the idea of action. They all knew what was in the wind.

Though it was afternoon, and
 those who had kept night
 watches might reasonably have been asleep, there were few men
 on the messdecks.

THE search continued. For some time nothing happened. Then,
 quite suddenly, a flag hoisted by one
 of the destroyers indicated that the scent had been picked up. The deadly Asdic were at work. The remorseless hunt began.

Depth-charge after depth-charge was dropped or projected from the throwers—not haphazardly; but according to schemes invented and
 tried out long before the war.
 The thudding detonations of these massive canisters about the size of ordinary tubs seemed to squeeze the air and caused a commotionally to shudder as if beaten by heavy rain.

Exploding at various depths below
 water, they shook the ships from which they were projected, and raised huge mushroom-shaped hurmocks of white water which burst upwards in great spouts of spray
 tinged grey by the high explosive.
 The explosions died away, and
 there came the inevitable suspense
 as to whether the attack had been successful. Many eyes searched the sea for the outline of a submarine breaking surface, or oil or wreckage
 floating up from the depths. But for the time nothing appeared.

COLLECTING his destroyers, the senior officer ordered another attack. Once more the depth-charges were dropped according to plan—
 this time with success.

About half-a-mile astern of one of
 the destroyers the conning tower and
 long hull of a submarine suddenly broke surface bow first in a swirl of water. The U-boat's stern was still under water when her conning tower
 lid opened, and men started to tumble up on deck. She might have a sting left. Nobody was to know if she intended to surrender,
 and risks could not be taken.

But it was a case of "surrender."
 Some of the U-boat's crew could be seen to be leaping overboard. Others were holding up their hands. Her bows started to lift as the stern
 slowly went under.

Destroyers approached, stopped,
 and went astern to check their booty.
 Bows were lowered. They rescued
 the entire crew, some from the waters, some from the submarine
 herself. They were described as youngish men and bearded, some still self-possessed; but others obviously shaken by their ordeal. They were well cared for by their rescuers who gave them Navy rum and warm clothing.

THOSE U-boat men described what had happened inside the submarine—first the conning tower being hit by depth-charges, then the detonation of the first depth-charges,
 coming closer all the time.

The first attack caused serious
 damage to their submarine and made her leak. The conning tower was during which the propeller sounds
 could be heard receding, and left
 men wondering whether the hunters
 had given up the chase.

VAIN HOPE! Unseen, invisible fingers were soon groping against beneath our water. The propeller

SHANGHAI'S EXPORT TRADE BOOMS
SHANGHAI, Nov. 17 (Reuter).—Shanghai's import trade fell by nearly half in October compared with the previous month, but exports showed a rise of more than 10 per cent.
Net imports in October were valued at nearly $26,000,000 and net exports $74,000,000, leaving an excess of exports over imports of $48,000,000.
The correspondent figures of September were imports $49,000,000 and exports $67,000,000.

Says He Was Branded By Japanese Banishee's Story At Sessions

Bearing marks, slightly above the knuckles, stretching from one end of the hand to the other, Leung Kwong showed them to the Court at the Criminal Sessions to-day and said: "I was marked on the hand and sent back here by the Japanese."
Mr. Justice R. E. Lindsell heard the case against Leung, who was charged with breach of the Deportation Ordinance.

Asked why he had returned, Leung said the Japanese had sent him back.

Suspected By Swatow Police

His Lordship: What do you mean, sent you back? The Japanese can't bring you to Hongkong.—The Japanese sent me back with 17 others. The Police in Swatow found a warrant on me and suspected me of being a bad man. They sent me and the other men on board a ship.

Mr. J. B. Prentis, Assistant Crown Solicitor referred to the warrant mentioned by Leung and said most probably that was the paper saying defendant had been banished from Hongkong. He was then put on a ship.

His Lordship: If that is true, that is a perfectly good defence. He came back here involuntarily.

To defendant, His Lordship: You alleged that you were put by force on board this ship at Swatow—Yes, together with 17 others. The ship came straight to Hongkong. This was six months ago.

Mr. Prentis submitted that the proper course would have been for defendant to report the matter to the authorities and then be re-banished again. A period of six months was a reasonable time for defendant to leave again.

The case was adjourned until Monday for consideration.

Other Cases

Banished from Hongkong for life in December last year, Mak Pau, was arraigned before Mr. Justice Lindsell, charged with breach of the Deportation Ordinance. He was arrested in Hongkong on October 6.

Mr. Prentis said defendant had been banished from the Federated Malay States in 1932. He had three previous convictions for larceny and one for unlawful possession of an instrument fit for an unlawful purpose. For breach of the Deportation Ordinance, accused had four previous records.

Accused said he was homeless, his sister having died in the country. He was sentenced to three years' hard labour.

Similarly accused Chan Yau was given three years' hard labour. His police record was described as a short but unenviable one. He had previous convictions for larceny and for returning from banishment, and had been re-deported for life only three months ago.

Latest News From China War Fronts CHINESE CONTINUE TO HARASS

Chinese troops, who were successful in recapturing the city of Shiangling, are now engaged in "mopping up" operations against remnant Japanese forces around the city.

The Japanese are reported by "Central News" to be fleeing in two columns, one towards Nankang, and the other towards the east. Both columns are said to have suffered further losses as the result of Chinese ambushes.

Chinese forces have staged a series of raids on Kancheng, north-east of Taining. Fearing that they might be cut off, the Japanese at Taining are withdrawing towards Pukien.

Sporadic fighting has occurred at many points along the Shanghai-Hangchow Railway in northern Chekiang, including Changan, Sinsih, Fuyuan and Tungshang, since last Thursday.

Finding their position untenable, the Japanese are reported to have started a withdrawal to the north. Some of them are retreating towards Lungku on the south bank of the Taihu Lake, and the rest in the direction of Kiangsu.

It is reported from Hunan that Chinese troops launched attacks on Wuchangchiao, Fenghuangshan, Chi-

A Happy Reunion

ON THE NORTH SHORE OF TONGKING BAY, Nov. 17 (Domei).
—Pushing inland through western Kwangtung, Japanese forces yesterday evening reached the outskirts of Yamhsien, about 30 miles from the seaboard and 46 miles northwest of Pakhoi.
They are now near the Kwangtung-Kwangsi border.

It is now revealed that the surprise landing by the Japanese forces near Pakhoi was made at a time when the wind was blowing at monsoonal velocity.

A war office spokesman pointed out that wind of such velocity is really of hurricane strength and is strong enough to shake the roots of big trees.

To effect a military landing under such conditions has no parallel in the annals of war, he claimed.

Information received here shows that the boats carrying the Japanese troops were buffeted by the waves so severely that from time to time they appeared as if they would be swamped.

"The difficulty and danger of heavily armed soldiers clambering down rope ladders from transports into small boats during such heavy weather can be easily imagined," the information adds.

Chinese Resisting
SHUKWAN, Nov. 17 (Central).—Stubborn resistance is being put up by the Chinese against the Japanese landing on the south Kwangtung coast.

Japanese naval guns started a fierce bombardment of Lungmen on Wednesday morning. In between the salvos Japanese marines attempted to land. Chinese troops lurking in the trenches greeted the invaders with intense machine-gun fire. A number of pinnaces were sunk, resulting in many Japanese being killed.

After several abortive landings, the Japanese withdrew to their warships. But taking advantage of a heavy fog at night they effected a landing. Chinese defence works were demolished by the terrific Japanese bombardment.

Landing was also made at Fong-shing on the same day. Several times before the Japanese could get a firm foothold, the Chinese charged, and drove them back with heavy losses. However, additional Japanese troops were sent ashore yesterday. Occupying favourable positions, the Chinese at both Lungmen and Fong-shing are resisting effectively.

Washington Interest
WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—Mr. Sumner Welles, the U.S. Under Secretary of State, declared that the State Department was watching Japan's latest invasion in the Pakhoi region.

He added that he was uncertain that American interests, if any, involved, but the Department nevertheless was obtaining information concerning the move.

Two Towns Captured
WITH THE JAPANESE FORCES IN WESTERN KWANGTUNG, Nov. 17 (Domei).—Chinaking, their push from the seaboard through a raging storm, Japanese troops on Thursday evening captured two strategically important towns on the northern shore of Tongking Bay west of Pakhoi. As a result of the Japanese thrusts, the border of Kwangsi—"Impregnable citadel" of General Li Tsung-jen and Pai Chung-hsi—is gravely threatened.

Japanese troops which landed at the third and westernmost base west of Pakhoi took possession of the walled town of Yang-sheng, about 20 miles southwest of Yamhsien, on Thursday evening, while another column entered the city of Yamhsien (Chinchow), about 45 miles northwest of Pakhoi. Reaching Yamhsien, Japanese troops were within 20 miles of the Kwangsi border.

Fancheng has a population of 20,000 and is the seat of the westernmost district government in Kwangtung Province.

NEW GOVERNOR OF ALASKA

British Cargo On Nazi Ships Release From Neutral Ports Problem

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
LONDON, Nov. 16 (UP).—According to the London Chamber of Commerce, 140 German ships are now taking refuge in neutral ports with British owned cargoes in their holds valued between three and five million pounds sterling.
The Chamber of Commerce is negotiating for the release of the cargoes for which the Germans are demanding anything from 10 to 25 per cent. of their value, in addition to a small freight charge to a British port, before they will surrender the goods.

Most of the cargoes are already paid for and the demand of the Germans is said to be the costs involved in the ports of refuge.

The Chamber of Commerce advised the owners not to pay more than two per cent. An official of the Chamber of Commerce said: "So far we have not taken any action in neutral courts. That depends on the future attitude of the Germans."

Caught In His Own Trap

Nasty Surprise For Goering's Pilots

LONDON, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—Field Marshal Goering's factories are to help to shoot down Goering's air force.

A British firm, which used to make gramophone and wireless sets, planned shortly before the war to start to make predictors used for getting the range for anti-aircraft guns.

DARDANUS RELEASED Japanese Apologise For Detention

LONDON, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—The Imperial Airways liner Dardanus was handed over to the British Consul General in Canton yesterday, announced Mr. R. A. Butler, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, answering a question in the House of Commons.

The Japanese authorities in Canton had apologised for their detention of the plane.

Arrangements were now being made to repair the aeroplane at Weichow Island, after which it would be returned to Imperial Airways.

Mr. Butler added: "Sir Robert Craigie, the British Ambassador to Tokyo, had made representations to the Japanese Government, and arrangements for an amicable settlement were now progressing."

New Air Route To Hongkong Britain And China Looking Ahead

LONDON, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—The Chinese Government's proposals for an air service between Akyab or Rangoon and Kunming, with an extension to Hongkong and Shanghai "as soon as conditions permit," have been accepted by the British Government, according to the "Exchange Telegraph."

Notes dated January were only published to-night.

The arrangement will remain in force for five years. Under the scheme, British and Chinese companies will both be operating, but the British Government undertakes, after cessation of Sino-Japanese hostilities, to discuss with the Chinese Government the desirability of forming a Sino-British company further to develop the route, and eventually to take over operation of the services from the companies concerned.

Expelled From Press Parley Nazi Treatment Of U.S. Correspondent

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—Mr. Beach Conger, the Berlin correspondent of the "New York Herald Tribune," was expelled to-day from the daily Press conference at the Wilhelmstrasse.

According to the "Handelsblad" correspondent, Mr. Conger was accused of sending "inaccurate reports prejudicial to the Third Reich."

Trams Will Speed Up Schedules

An intimation that tramway schedules would be speeded up shortly was made by Traffic Sub-Inspector Clarke at Central Magistracy this morning, when Tam Shing, tram driver, was summoned before Mr. Forrest for driving at an excessive speed along Causeway Road on October 30.

Sub-Inspector Clarke said there was no danger, but the tram was doing about 20 m.p.h. He had been instructed not to press the case, as it was the first for a number of years. "When the trams have their new brakes installed, applications will be made to have their speeds increased," said Sub-Inspector Clarke. Defendant was cautioned.

Caustic Soda Thrown At Chinese

Chan Chu, a 37-year-old Chinese, of 35, Queen's Road East, first floor, was admitted to the Queen Mary Hospital suffering from burns on his face and body.

He stated that an unknown Chinese approached him in Luard Road and had thrown a tin of caustic soda over him.

Another Chinese came from behind and struck Chan Chu on the head with a bottle.

His condition is not serious.

Readers Get Money's Worth World-Wide Reduction In Newspaper Size

READERS of newspapers in Hongkong are obtaining much more than the usual world-wide value for their money.

With the possible exception of the United States, newspapers throughout the world have been drastically cut in size.

Hongkong newspapers have, in common with those published elsewhere, been reduced. But the reduction here is nothing compared with that taking place in other parts of the world.

By mutual agreement, all the London newspapers have been reduced to eight pages.

A twenty-five per cent. cut in size was instituted in Singapore directly on the outbreak of war.

The Totalitarians are faring even worse. Some German newspapers, owing to paper shortage, have been reduced to a single sheet.

In Italy, the Government has ordered that all newspapers must be reduced to four pages.

Reduction of the size of newspapers is necessitated by the world shortage of newspaper cellulose, one of the ingredients, is needed for war purposes.

POOR ENTRIES FOR H.K. ST. LEGER

Battle Royal Expected Between Navylight And Eve Of Harvest

THE HONGKONG ST. LEGER celebrates its fourteenth birthday to-morrow, having been inaugurated in 1926, but the most important classic event on the card of the Eleventh Extra Race Meeting has not been able to attract more than four China ponies, griffins of this season.

At the Annual Carnival last February, Mr. Eu Tong-sen entered ten griffins; Rose Elect annexing the Hongkong Derby and the Champion Stakes, but the category commonly known as "on the walking list" has claimed his fine champion pony, and the philanthropist has no nomination.

ALTHOUGH the entries for the Hongkong St. Leger are very poor indeed, both Sir Victor Sassoon and Mr. Eric Moller of Shanghai are making a strong bid to secure the premier honour, especially the latter. It will be recalled that one of the finest and most thrilling St. Leger races was seen this time last year, when Mr. Eric Moller's Silkylight, ably assisted by the owner's son, Mr. R. B. Moller, lounced Mr. Dunbar's Confusion Bay by one and a half lengths in three minutes 29.4 seconds for a course of 1 1/4 miles, and the last quarter was 26 1/2 seconds.

It is reliably learned that the owner and his son (Boole) will be coming down for the meeting, the latter to ride Navylight in the Hongkong St. Leger, and we shall certainly see a fine contest.

NO "B" CLASS RACES

IN addition to the above race there are seven handicap events for Australian and China ponies, but no provision has been made for the "B" class races.

The inclusion of two contests for top-notchers in the Taiipo Handicap and the New Bridge Handicap respectively is of some interest, because one pony must start to qualify for the Hongkong Autumn Champions, and another must win to become eligible for the Queensland Autumn Champions to be run on December 10. Apart from the fact that the controller has loaded him to the hilt, Confusion Bay, owned by Mr. Dunbar, must accept for the Taiipo Handicap (the pony has already scored two wins) so as to meet the requirement of three outings during the extra meetings.

Lucky Lad, the winner of Australian Ponies Champions, is in a precarious position, for his failure to secure first place in the New Bridge Handicap will put the Lucky stable's candidate out of the Queensland Autumn Champions.

With a promise of much cooler weather, I see no reason why the attendance to-morrow should not be a bumper house, and racegoers are reminded that first saddling bell will be rung at 1.30 p.m.

Shooting Record Equalled

Using a service rifle with open sights at the Kowloon City Rifle ranges on Wednesday, Sgt. P. Hale, of the Middlesex Regt., equalled the record score for the season when he totalled 101 with a scratch handicap. He secured a possible at 500 yards.

His scores were:

Visibility was poor at 600 yards.

China ponies over the mile. Mr. Dunbar's racer had a stronger field to lick in the October Handicap, but, with Eve of Harvest reserved for the Hongkong St. Leger, I cannot see anything to beat Confusion Bay.

Blue Express has been entered, but it appears to me that the boy guiding is short of work owing to his having been temporarily "laid up." As an outsider I like Lillib, who has every opportunity of turning the scales on Confusion Bay, provided the jockey, Mr. Sung, can get down to 140 lbs.

CASTLE PEAK H'CAP (1st Section)

AS CLOWNER, Royal Highness, Sunlight View and Sylvandale have been put by the classification sub-committee into a higher standard, the handicapper has transferred a good few from the lower division to the first section of the Castle Peak Handicap for "D" class China ponies over a distance from the two mile post, once round and in.

The inclusion of Bistre from the "C" class to this section will no doubt add a certain amount of interest to the pari-mutuel department, but I am afraid the pony has a stiff proposition before him. He is 1923 sub-class, and no doubt, is lacking speed and energy.

Spotting the winner is not so easy as it looks owing to the difficulty of "getting a line." Strathmore is the head of the assessment, but I prefer to see him over a shorter distance.

WEIGHT ADJUSTMENTS

WHEN they met in the Jordan Handicap (second section) over a mile on October 7, Kai Cheung, the winner, was in receipt of 3 lbs. from Guinness Time, whereas, to-morrow, both are set on the same level; the former beat the latter by three lengths. The adjustment favours Kai Cheung. Some Hope, who was officially fourth in the same event, has been favoured with an allowance of 18 lbs. and surely he should be considered.

It seems that Night View and Plain View have been let in with only 140 lbs. to shoulder among the old timers, but I would like to remind punters that both gee-gees are blackie, and, in the circumstances, not much confidence can be placed. Plain View has changed ownership, and there is a possibility that the black chimp will run better for the new stable—Lee and Lee.

H.K. ST. LEGER

Only Two Entries To Be Considered

VERY POOR RESPONSE has been shown to the last classic of the year, the Hongkong St. Leger for China ponies, griffins of this season, there being only four entries. There are only two claimants for the big contest, and the issue will be between Eve of Harvest and Navylight.

I doubt if Galaxy will face the

(By "Pilgrim")

I WAS VERY PLEASED with the verdict and the method in which the H.K.L.H.A. dealt with the D.G.S. Recreio incident. An apology from the Captain of the D.G.S. to the umpire is only fair.

It would be a grave error on the part of any governing body to over-rule the decision of an umpire on matters of fact. It would create a position that would become untenable, and voluntary umpires would refuse to continue to officiate.

I hope the girls will bear this in mind—that whether a decision by an umpire is good or bad, it must remain unchallenged. If an umpire is incompetent, a report to the Umpires' Association is welcome. There is always an obvious and proper course to pursue.

THE Hongkong Ladies Hockey Association commences their League fixtures to-morrow, and the women have once again approached the Umpire's Association with regard to supplying them with umpires.

Officers at the moment are scarce, and it is rather doubtful if a sufficient number will be available to control the Junior or Brawn Cup League. Should this be impossible, Junior Club Secretaries will be called upon to select their own neutral umpires.

However, I am glad to observe that Miss D. Moss, of the C.B.A., has consented to accept the post of Acting Hon. Secretary of the H.K.L.H.A.

THE Hongkong Ladies, who had their best side out so far this season, defeated the Central British Association 4-0 last Saturday. Mrs. Lunson played a grand game in goal, and a general improvement, especially in defence, was noticed. The best defenders were Miss G. Swan, centre-half, and Miss Green, left back.

In the second half, the Island attack showed promise and kept the home team continually on the defensive. Miss Mary, Miss M. Smalley and Mrs. Daniel played cleverly, and scored the goals between them.

Miss J. Grogg made rather a useful umpire, but was rather weak on the off-side rule. It would help her a great deal if she kept in line with the backs in really off-side.

The Hongkong Ladies showed better combination than usual, and deserved their victory.

THE C.B.A., on occasions, attacked strongly, but Miss I. Cunningham and Mrs. Quick in the attack formed a poor combination. I am certain Miss A. Smith is not a forward, and would be seen to better advantage in the half-back line where she is more at home. Miss S. Baxter was good and did much useful work on the left wing.

MISS I. Woolley, in the half-back line, was outstanding, while Miss B. Parsons, right back, played an excellent game. But drastic changes must be made with the C.B.A. forwards if they hope to improve their attack.

APPEARING at King's Park without the services of Lt. Hook, Sgt. Carter and Marshall, the Royal Artillery did well to

ARMY HOCKEY TRIALS AT SOOKUNPOO

THE ARMY held their first series of hockey trials at Sookunpoo yesterday. Much promising talent was on view, and throughout the three periods of 20 minutes the hockey was most interesting.

None of the goalkeepers were really tested, but the backs were quite prominent. Outstanding among the latter were Datta Ram, of the Rajputana Rifles, and Hazara Singh, of the 18th Heavy Regiment, R.A. Both spoiled brilliantly, and were cool under pressure.

The half-back line, however, offered problems. Few of those playing yesterday were up to form. Dilnot, of the Gunners, and Austen, of the Signals, were about the best in the wing positions. There should be little difficulty over the centre berth. Lt. Hook was there yesterday and played his usual brilliant game.

FORWARD PROBLEM

The forward are another problem. Sgt. Homburg, of the Sappers, had a particularly fine match at inside-right. He scored one of the two goals of the afternoon with a perfect cross-shot. Shah Wali, of the Rajputana Rifles, seems indicated for the outside-right position. Marshall, of the Gunners, tried both inside-left and outside-left, and has a very reliable reverse stick. The problem of the left wing, however, will be that of the right. Nerrain Singh and Partab Singh, of the Kumons, are an acknowledged great left wing combination, as are Shah Wali and Lt. Indarjit Singh on the right. With Lt. Pritham Nath in the centre, there is there a most effective forward line. Where, then, are Homburg and Marshall to fit in?

Further trials, however, will be held, and it is, perhaps, too early yet to make selections.

Yesterday's trial teams were:
Whites: Pto. Oman (R.A.O.C.); Datta Ram (Rajputana) and Gussain Singh (Kumons); Dilnot (R.A.), Hook (R.A.) and P. F. Austen (Signals); Khuda Bux (8th R.A.), Triok Singh (Kumons); Major Harvey (R.A.), Marshall (R.A.) and Gopal Ram (Rajputana).
Blacks: McGrady (R. Sec); Hazara Singh (8th R.A.); Darshan Singh (8th R.A.); Duda Ram (Rajputana); Deasay (R.A.) and Lal Singh (Kumons); Lt. Sawal Khan (Rajputana); Lt. Indarjit Singh (Rajputana); Lt. Pritham Nath (Rajputana); Nerrain Singh (Kumons) and Partab Singh (Kumons).
The following were also seen in the second and third quarters: Lt. Belton (R.A.O.C.) on the right-wing in place of Khuda Bux; Shah Wali (Rajputana) on right-wing in place of Lt. Sawal Khan; Sher Khan (Rajputana) at left-half in place of Austen; and Sgt. Homburg (Engineers) at inside-right in place of Triok Singh.

Craigengower Cricketer Married

THE WEDDING, according to Mohammedan rites, of Mr. A. K. Ismail, the well-known cricketer of the Craigengower O.C., to Miss Esther Sufiad took place yesterday at the bride's residence, 16 King Road.

Mr. Cecil Kew was best man. The reception was held at the Indian Recreation Club, where Mr. A. el Arculli, the President of the Club, proposed the toast to the happy couple.

A host of friends gathered to offer their best wishes.

Hongkong Girls' First Defeat In Manila

MANILA, Nov. 16 (UP).—The Hongkong girl basketball players suffered their first defeat in Manila when they were nosed out by Manila's champion Anglo-Chinese team 29-27.

The Anglo-Chinese team clinched the issue by sinking the winning goal with a few seconds to play.

A crowd of 4,000, the largest attendance in the series so far, saw a very exciting see-saw affair in which the Hongkong players compiled an impressive 19 to 12 lead at half time. Manila, however, bottled up the visitors in the third quarter, holding them to two points, while they compiled 10 to take a 22-21 lead.

Diana Chen was again brilliant for the visitors, scoring nine points, but poor passing and Manila's close guarding proved costly for Hongkong in the second period.

SHANGHAI REFUGEES

Movement Started To Get $1,000,000 Fund

Shanghai, Nov. 16.
Shanghai will always have at least 10,000 Chinese destitutes, relying entirely on charity.

This is the view of officials of the Shanghai Refugee Relief Association, who have just started a movement to raise $1,000,000 as a reserve fund to aid the city's homeless—most of them war refugees.

All possible efforts are being made to disperse these refugees by sending them to obtain employment. But there are nearly 40,000 needing aid, and more continue to arrive almost daily.

"They're Diving For Us!" Lookout Shouts as German Planes Launch Unsuccessful Raid On British Ships

DRAMATIC STORY OF ATTACK ON CONVOY TOLD BY B.B.C.

Poland To Fight Back

Says Gen. Sikorski In London Speech

LONDON, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—General Sikorski, the Polish Premier, spoke at the Foreign Press Association luncheon today.

He said that the turning point in history had been reached. Mankind must choose between the two forms of collective existence now fighting for supremacy. One found expression in the British commonwealth of nations, the French empire and the United States, and the other was seen in the occupation of Austria, Czechoslovakia and the double invasion of Poland.

Poland's Choice
Poland and her people, like their new government, had made their choice. Every Pole knew that a free Poland could exist only in a free and united Europe.

He referred to the co-operation of Polish destroyers with the British Navy, and declared that the Polish air force and army would be ready within a few months to play their part at the side of the Allied forces.

Guerilla Warfare
LONDON, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—The diplomatic correspondent of the "Manchester Guardian" reports continuation of revolts in Poland, where the Poles are waging a continuous and effective guerilla warfare.

Fierce attacks are launched against the Germans at night by hidden Poles, who remain under cover in the daytime.

At night, they attack German soldiers and officers. At one time they left the bodies in the streets, but the Germans retaliated by taking reprisals against those in the neighbouring houses. To-day, the bodies of the victims are taken away and concealed.

In the Carpathians in particular the Poles have a genius for conspiratorial and revolutionary work. The national spirit of Poland is unbroken and the German army and storm troops suffer considerable casualties. German soldiers are not so alone even in the daytime.

Italy Biding Her Time

Will Oppose Soviet Expansion

ROME, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—Italy will remain in a state of armed peace until her legitimate interests are respected and can be satisfied, states the newspaper "Tribuna," in explaining Signor Mussolini's speech at the opening of the academic year of Italian universities yesterday.

The "Gazetta del Popolo," a leader, gives an idea of the circumstances in which Italy will feel called on to intervene.

U.S. ARMAMENTS FOR ALLIES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—The State Department does not confirm reports that British and French orders of American armaments are held up pending the legal interpretation of the "Cash and Carry" clause.

What actually happened was that certain Californian plane manufacturers were told that they would have to show that the transactions really observed the clause before they would be allowed to make shipments.

HOW two attacks on a convoy in the North Sea by German bombing planes were beaten off in "a barrage of black puffs" from naval escort vessels was vividly described in a B.B.C. broadcast by a naval man who was aboard the leading escort vessel.

After describing how the warships convoyed the merchant vessels without incident until nightfall the broadcaster went on:

"About ten one of the escort far away astern opened fire with her anti-aircraft gun and our alarm bells began a furious jangling all through the ship. Miles away in the clouds to the north-eastward an enemy reconnaissance machine had been sighted shadowing us.

"The guns were loaded; we exchanged our caps for shrapnel helmets.

"The cook appears on the bridge wearing a shrapnel helmet and a rather worried expression.

"The diners are all in the oven. Good hot dinners spoiling. Nobody has thought about dinner till this moment. Now everybody realises they are starving.

"Sandwiches. Can he cut sandwiches? Hundreds of them? He can? Very good.

"Sound of aircraft somewhere, and firing.

"The cook reappears carrying a tray piled with enormous corned sandwiches.

"Like all naval cooks, he is a magician. But he still looks worried thinking about those lovely hot dinners that no one will eat.

"Three Planes!"

"One of the look-outs suddenly shouted: 'Ship bearing red one O, sir'—that is, a ship bearing red one O. It was the leading escort of another convoy coming out of the mist to the southward. There was a curious arch of cloud and fog stretching north and south and enveloping the land.

"The leading ship of the convoy was slightly off the beam. Somebody on the bridge waved his cap. Ten minutes later our own look-out shouted 'Plane right ahead, sir'.

"Three planes! 'THEY'RE DIVING FOR US!' Then things happened awfully quickly.

Yellow Flashes
"Our foremost guns opened fire with a roar that drowned everything. The muzzles were elevated almost to the level of the bridge, and yellow flashes sprang out, obliterating the shapes of the German bombing machines swooping over the convoy.

"The sea lurched up in columns where a few bombs dropped; one had an instantaneous impression of the surface of the water spurring under a hail of machine-gun bullets and falling fountains of shell or orders shouted through the din of firing, flashes of guns in the smoke, the ship shuddering from the recoil.

"And suddenly it was over. The enemy vanished into the mist. 'No ship had been hit; nobody was hurt.

Scaplanes
"Then the look-out gave tongue again. Enemy scaplanes this time, far away to the southward.

"The scaplanes emerged from a cloud valley and came swooping towards us.

"All the guns began to fire, throwing a barrage of little black puffs in the path of the scaplanes. They banked steeply and took refuge in the clouds.

"The other convoy, somewhere below the horizon, said it had beaten off a heavy attack without any casualties to the convoy.

"The scaplanes reappeared, and this time it looked as if they meant business.

Black Toadstools
"Again the blue sky was dotted with black toadstools of smoke, and again they swarmed away.

"Suddenly there was a shout of 'Fighters!' and out from the land came a squadron of British fighting planes. They flashed over our heads at 300 m.p.h.

"Our gun crews cheered them as they passed us like a swarm of infuriated wasps. The enemy scaplanes had vanished into a cloud and the fighters dived into it in pursuit.

"They all disappeared. One of the escort went off to investigate a report of an enemy scaplane which had been shot down somewhere out of sight.

"None of our charges had been scratched. Not a ship lost her bearing or altered course during the attack.

And Now—Jam
"In some indefinable way they all looked rather pleased with themselves; like perfect ladies who had passed through a pothouse brawl without blinking an eyelid.

"The sun sank in a blaze of golden fire.

"The men had been closed up at their guns and posts for six hours. The captain had been standing by the compass for 12 hours. He gulped a cup of tea sent down his backy pouch to be refilled.

"The wind freshened and there was a chilly nip in the air. Dust again and the guns' crews began pushing oily cloths on the end of a rammer through the guns.

"Soon it was dark again. Part of the watch went below for supper.

"In the mouth of the harbour we met an examination vessel.

"The captain was still on the compass platform with his hands in his pockets. He had at last got tired of his pipe.

"He bent to the voice pipe and gave the orders for altering course, and each order was repeated by the coxswain as he went standing by the compass for 12 hours.

"His deep voice came back each time from the mouthpiece, very solemn, like the answers to a litany.

"Starboard ten! 'Midship! 'Steady!'

LONDON, Nov. 16 (Reuter).

The British press to-day concerned itself chiefly with the speech of Mr. R. G. Menzies, the Australian Premier, and the visit of M. Reynaud, the French Minister of Finance to England.

The "Daily Telegraph" stresses Mr. Menzies' remark that no compromise can assure the world of enduring peace. It points out that it is a pity that the German people cannot hear Mr. Menzies, as they would then the British Empire will be disrupted by a clash of arms.

If they did hear it, they would know that the Australian Government and people, and no less other parts of the Empire possessed the same spirit as Great Britain, against whom the fury of the Nazis was primarily directed.

War of Endurance
The "Times" stresses that this war will ultimately be a war of endurance.

In the economic field there was no limit to the assistance given by Australia and other dominions.

The "Daily Telegraph" says that the Allies' economic weapons are increasing rapidly. M. Reynaud's visit had served to establish even closer relations between the British and French treasuries. Thus we have obtained what was hardly the case from 1914 to 1918—unity of the financial policy of the Allies.

The paper pays tribute to M. Reynaud and the financial resources of France. Britain and France had a greater gold reserve capable of conversion to American exchange than was the case in 1914, and their national plans were based on the idea of paying as much as possible for the war by taxation, and at the same time preserving or even replenishing their economic stability.

Germany, on the other hand, had an empty treasury and an emaciated economy.

LONDON, Nov. 16 (Reuter).—A sum of £2,500 has been received by the Lord Mayor's Red Cross Fund from the people of Ceylon.

This sum, it is stated, is the first instalment.

Ambassador Arrives

Mr. Nelson T. Johnson Here From Chungking

Mr. Nelson T. Johnson, American Ambassador in China, arrived from Chungking by C.N.A.C. plane shortly after 8 o'clock last night. He is on his way to the Embassy in Peiping and will sail for the north to-morrow.

Mr. Johnson was met at Kai Tak Airport by Mr. Addison E. Southard, Consul-General in Hongkong, and some friends from Repulse Bay, with whom he is staying during his brief visit here.

His arrival last night, a day later than he was at first expected, made it impossible for him to attend the fifth meeting of the Chinese-American Institute of Cultural Relations, at which he was to have been guest of honour.

Mr. Nelson T. Johnson, accompanied by Mr. F. K. Lufson, Vice-Consul at Shanghai, left Chungking by plane at 3.40 p.m.

Enroute to Peiping.

After remaining in Shanghai for a week or two, Mr. Johnson will go to Peiping to meet his wife and daughter. In Shanghai he is expected to meet Admiral Hart, Commander-in-Chief of the American Asiatic Fleet.

The Ambassador took off from Chungking in the new Douglas DC3 aircraft, a new addition to the China National Aviation Corporation's fleet. The plane was making the first round trip. It left Hongkong on Wednesday night and arrived in Chungking yesterday, returning to Hongkong the same day. The machine is expected to operate on the Hongkong-Chungking-Chengtu run.
